Worlds without number...

whirling endlessly...silently

Somewhere in all of this infinity there has always been a quest known as Man's search for happiness. Deeply-rooted in its foundations and essentially the uniqueness of Brigham Young University is the interpretation of life in the Latter-day Saint philosophy.

Contemplating time, space and life, we marvel in the creation and ask ourselves: From whence did we come? Why are we here? Where are we going? Inherent in our theology is the concept that man is god in embryo. Potential divinity lies within the individual and here the individual is emphasized and encouraged to develop. There is reason and purpose to being.

We converge from the corners of this earth on this campus to attain knowledge and skills, to find life's serenity, to pursue excellence and strive towards perfection, and to develop the whole man.

Ours is a brave new world with every dawn. Sometimes our spirits soar to its heights or linger at its edge, feeling insignificant. We look at the starry night and think of more than Project Apollo . . . these are worlds without number. As we travel through them, around them, beneath and above them, the human element is that which makes our journeys worthwhile.

These are times of wars and rumors of wars and we look for peace. At the same time we are looking for ourselves. We look to horizons others disregard and make our sunsets linger . . .

The world is our campus.

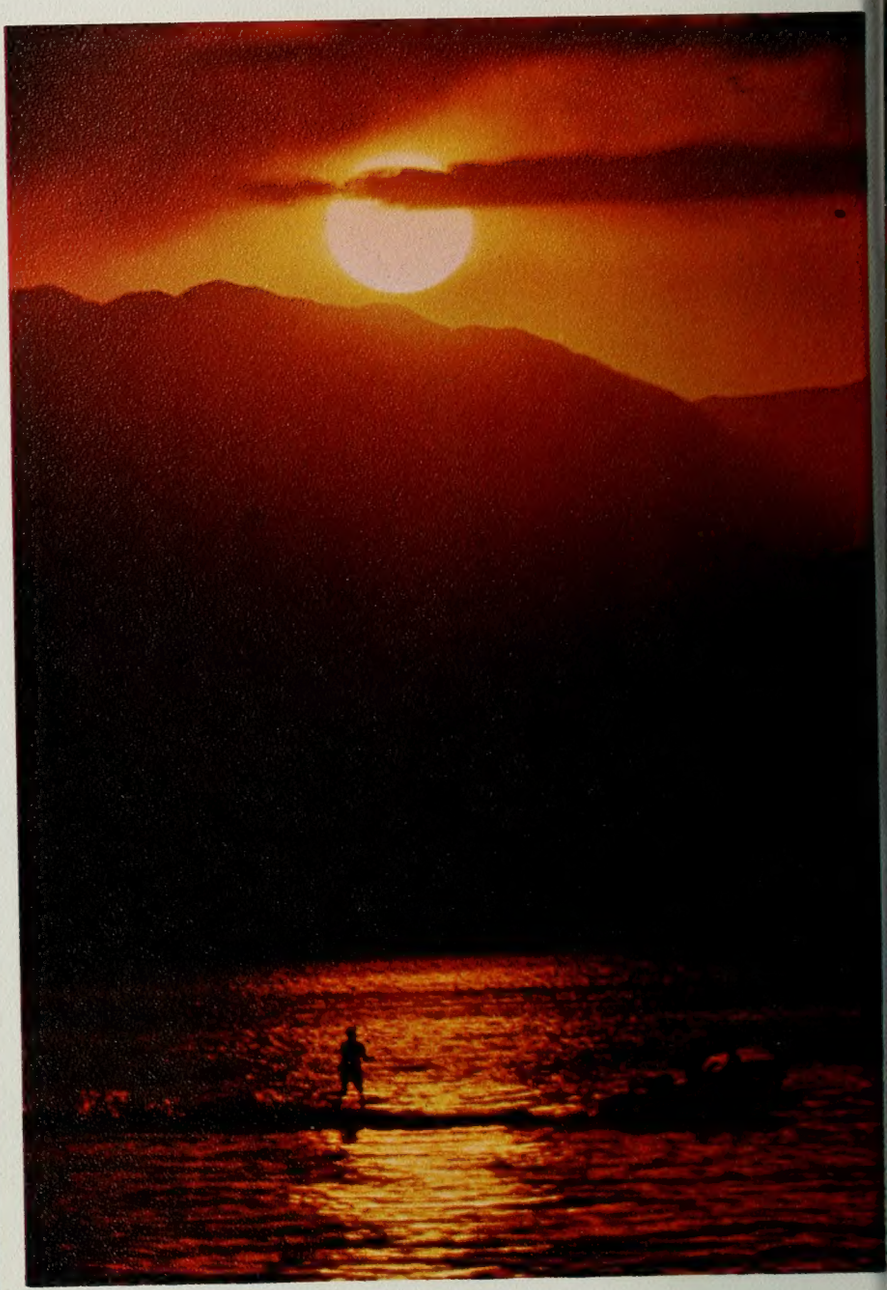
Our world...old yet new perceived again in the glory of its growth

●We study the age and time of the earth and in the same moment see dreams of man becoming reality, for we live with the conveniences and luxuries of an advanced technological age and time.

To everything there is a season and so we experience nature's changes of countenance. To delight in the star-like mosaic patterns of fallen leaves pressed to slick wet sidewalks in the rain . . . the russet radiance of Autumn foliage. To gaze at Winter's icy crystals frosting window panes that melt into saffron daffodils dancing and fluttering in the breeze . . . somewhere the hills blossom in green and gold. Tender blades purge the moist crust . . . and we bask in the warmth and splendor of a bursting Spring . . .



A valley lost in the wilderness ... a city created in the desert

●Looking for a new route from Santa Fe, New Mexico to Monterey, California, Father Francisco Escalante and his party were the first white men to visit the Greater Utah Valley. Over half a century later, the Mormon pioneers, led by patriarch and prophet Brigham Young, began colonization of the Beehive State.

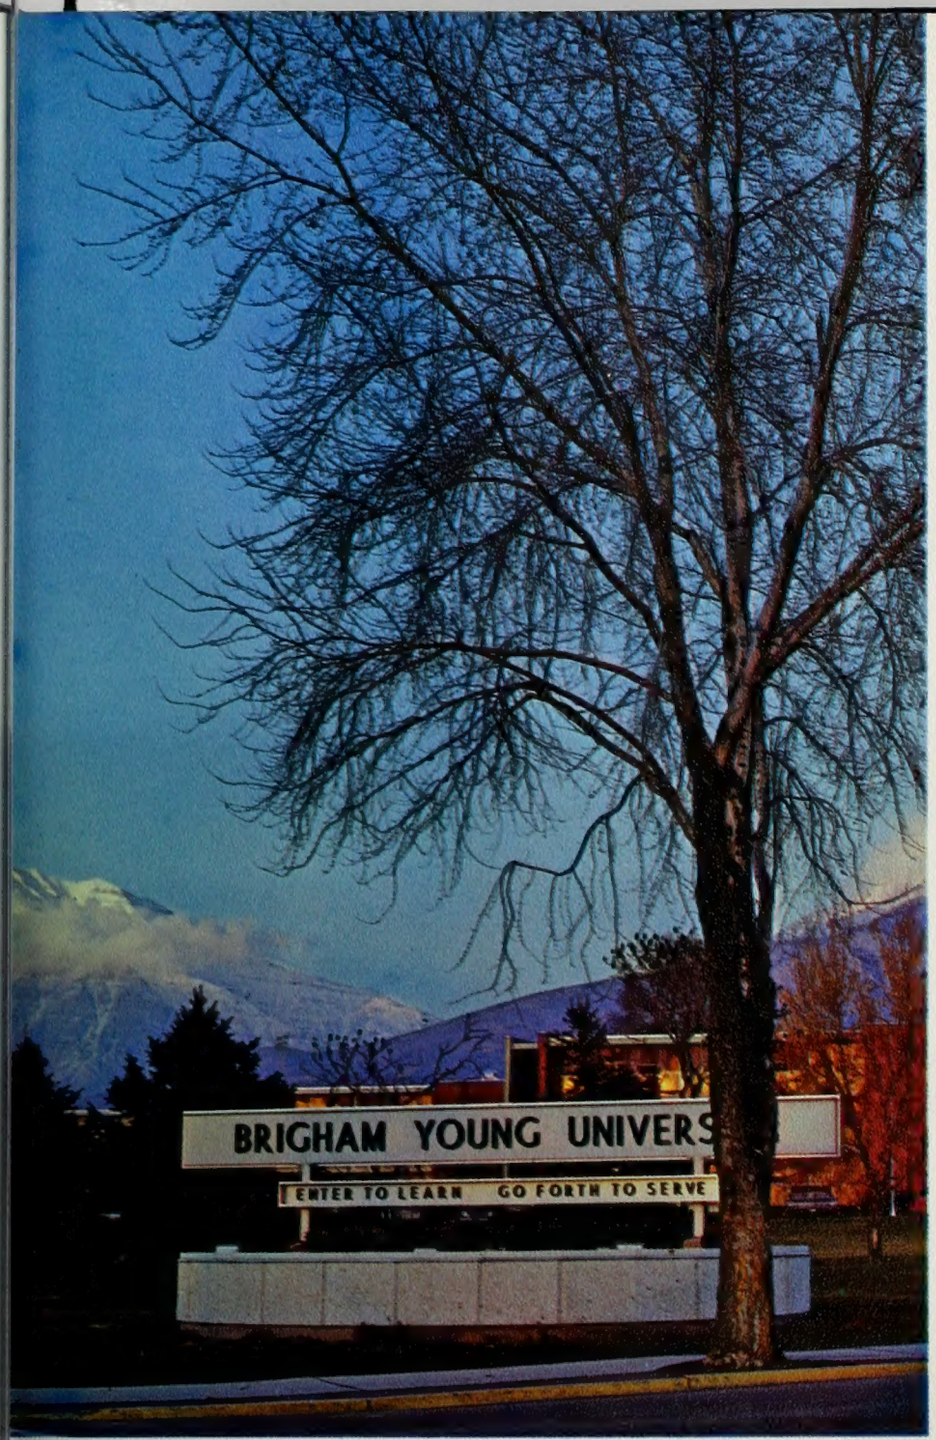
Brigham Young University is located on a bench overlooking the agricultural and industrial area of the valley and Provo, a friendly community of nearly 42,000. Named for French explorer Etienne Provost, the city is surrounded by such distinctive landmarks as Mt. Timpanogos and Squaw Peak, providing excellent skiing and winter sports facilities for students.

Our university ...a tradition of growth and strength

●Majestic mountain crags replace twining ivy as they stand sentinel over an honored heritage and the traditions which began in the mind of Karl G. Maeser, the university's first administrator. He was a far-seeing man with a vision realized in October 1875 and the founding of Brigham Young Academy.

Nine years later fire destroyed the buildings, but education continued. White and blue were adopted as official colors in 1890, and in the next five years the Church freed the Academy from threats of indebtedness. The year 1903 saw the Academy's name changed to Brigham Young University, the student body organized, and the first B.S. degree conferred.

The large block Y, measuring 332 by 120 feet, was placed on the mountainside in the Spring of 1906. The student yearbook became the BANYAN in 1911 and twelve years later, the nickname "Cougars" was adopted.



In 1930 Founder's Day became Homecoming and since that time, continuous expansion and growth has resulted in a well-equipped campus covering more than 600 acres, the home of 120 permanent buildings.

When difficulties threatened the university's early existence, Karl Maeser's characteristic reaction was: "Matters will eventually work out all right, for this is the school of Destiny."

Here is life with all its vivid magic filling the void of human loneliness

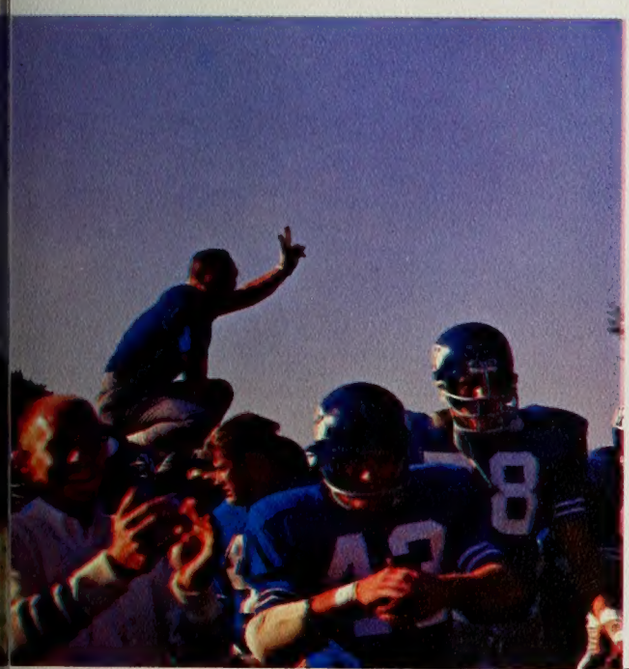
●We like living and we like being us. We sympathize and empathize, and as typical collegians, "interact" with one another. For some, it means feeling alone for awhile, for there are 20,000 of us here.

On a campus where there are no Greek fraternities or sororities, we participate in numerous academic, departmental, athletic, and religious organizations. Church membership is not an admission requirement, but we are individually accountable to uphold these standards.

We experience the joy of sharing the ordinary routines of ordinary days with someone a little extraordinary . . . the sheer fun of relaxing a minute from academic pursuits . . . we remember the shadow of a smile and the magic of special times and occasions.

We like being us.

Its hard fight and its enthusiasm

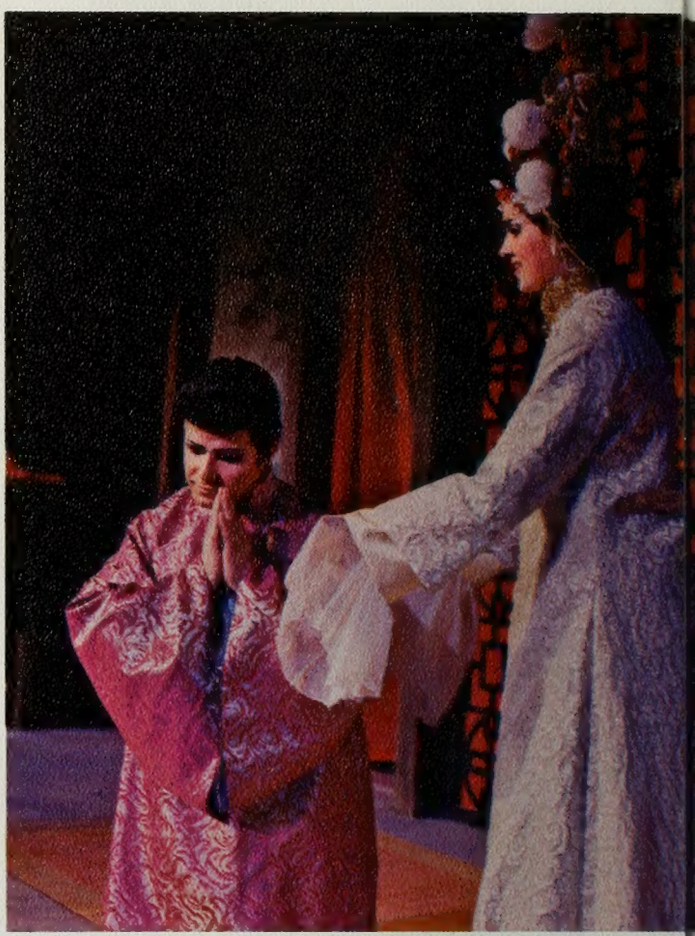


●In 1893, the Athletic Club of BYA was organized and two years later, Utah intercollegiate football games were begun with the Academy claiming the championship in 1897. But the fateful year of 1900 brought the banning of football from all Church academies, and the game was not restored until two decades later.

Brigham Young University's steadily-improving athletic program has risen to an international plane. While victory is usually the goal of every team, the prevailing objective of BYU tours is broader in scope, for it is to favorably represent the university, Church, and nation. An example of this was seen at the Triple-Header Basketball Tournament in snow-bound Chicago. When the game was re-scheduled for Sunday, the Cougars did not contend against Loyola.

This is the world of zest and competition.

Its tender and turbulent expression

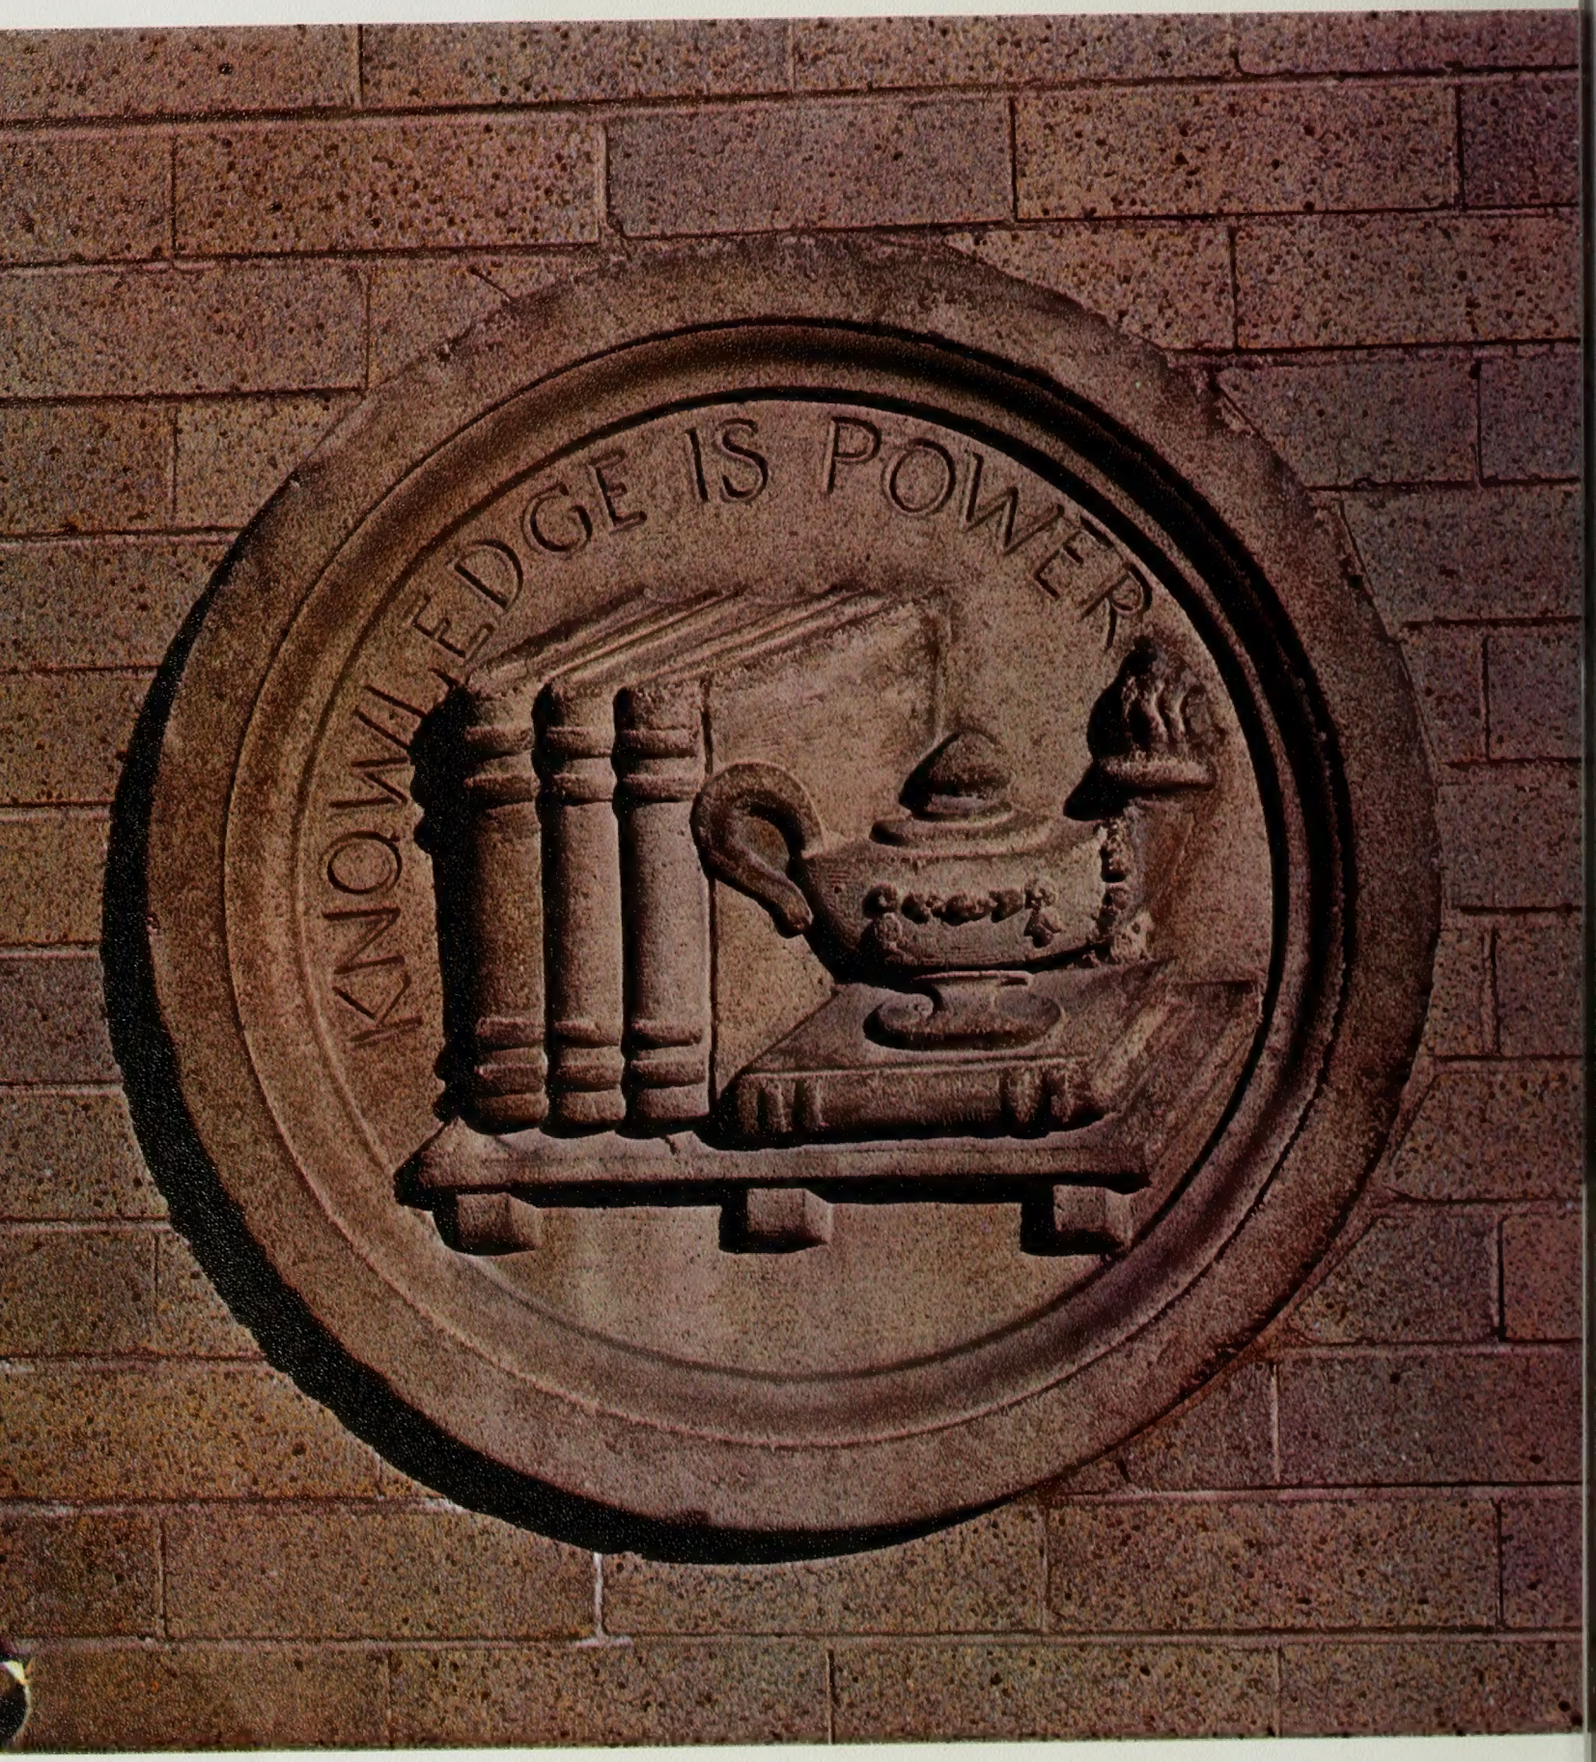


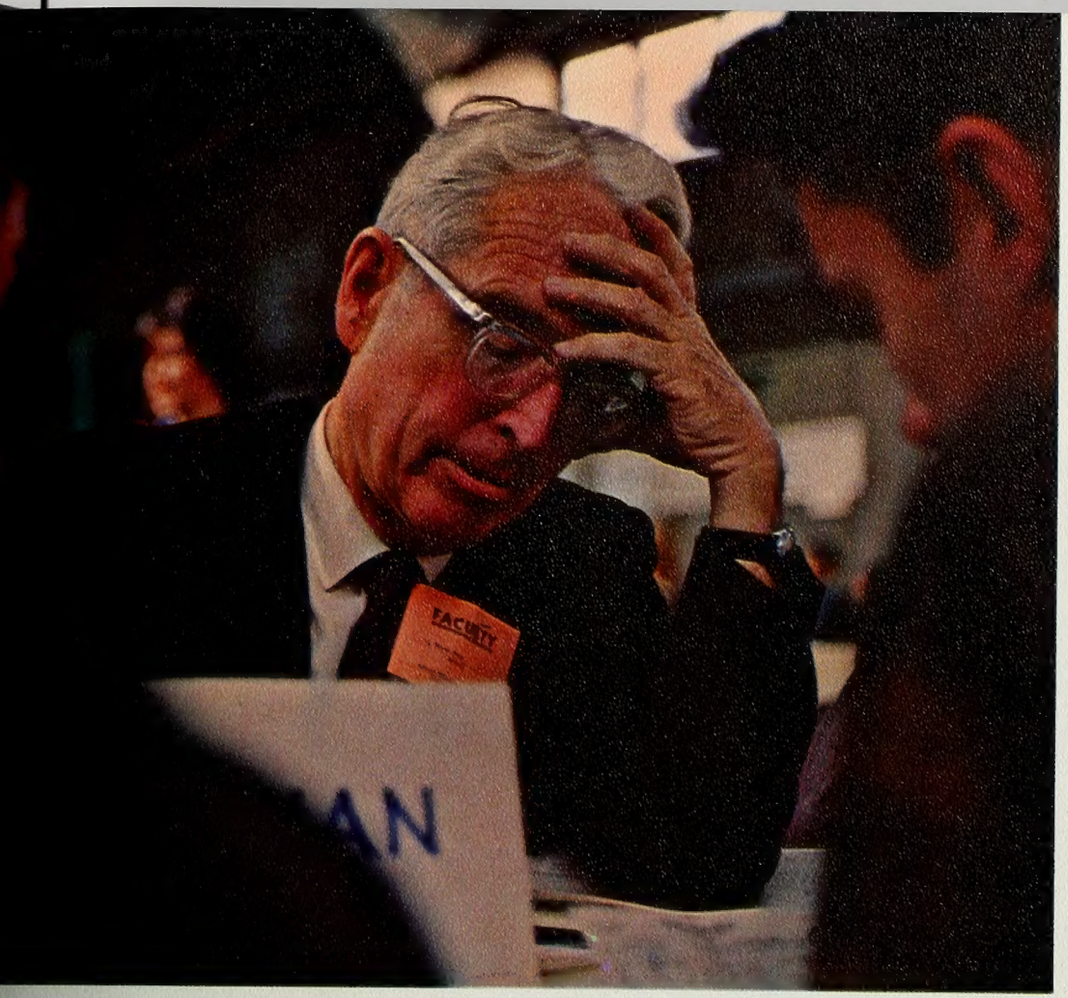
●To browse through the maze of changing art exhibits, concert halls, and to detect the essence of oil paint in the Franklin S. Harris Fine Arts Center is to realize the extensive facilities provided at BYU for the student of creativity.

Expressing life, the artist's world is one of sensitivity, deft fingers and tireless practice demanding perfection . . . a pulsating performance before bright lights, group recitals, mastering melodies of the Masters . . . it is the joy of seeing an exhausting accomplishment or capturing the mind's vision in brush strokes or in stone . . . empty theaters waiting for the magic of life, anticipating applause.

For some it encompasses vicariously esthetic experiences, but for all it means appreciating, cultivating and internalizing beauty and refinement.

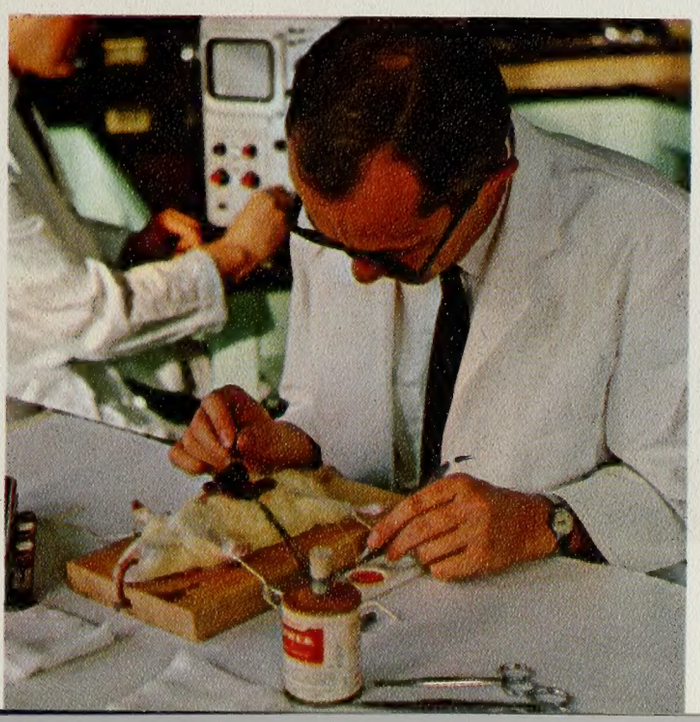
Here are minds...searching, meditating...





●Charged with the responsibility to teach "not even the multiplication tables without the spirit of God," educators at BYU relate learning to theological and ethical concerns and place the whole concept of education into a framework of eternal progress. Of the 1,000 faculty members, 126 were newly appointed this year, and together have received research grants and fellowships in excess of a million dollars.

Encouraging the pursuit of academic excellence, BYU claims more than 90 per cent utilization of all classrooms and laboratories on the basis of a 44-hour week. For 650 students of unusual promise, "knowledge is power" in the Honors Program. Assisting them to achieve the maximum benefit from their university experience, the program promotes an interdisciplinary approach to integrated learning in fields of academic interest.

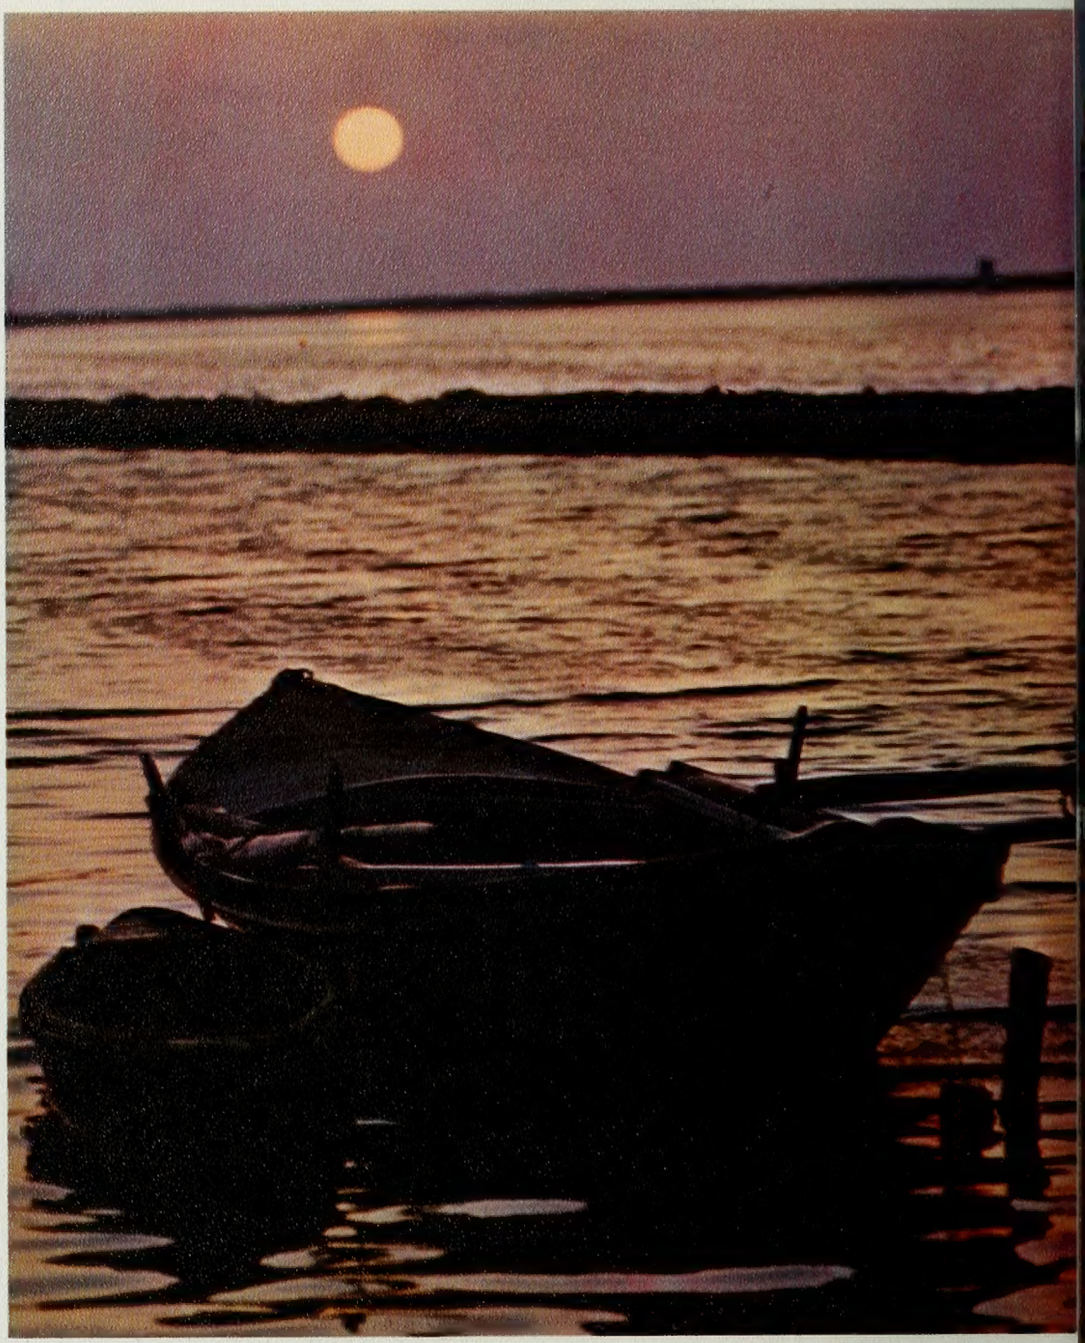


With ideas like ripples from pool-tossed stones, traveling outward, exciting other minds

●A cosmopolitan student body, we hailed from the 50 states. Nine hundred and forty-two international students represented 54 foreign countries and areas of the earth. From the Far East to Africa they came to BYU. And we have departed for just such places . . . traveling outward, hoping to excite other minds.

In addition to the popular touring Program Bureau, the International Folk Dancers have taken our campus to other worlds. They presented over 185 U. S. and foreign performances, and in the European tours of 1964 and 1966, they were the only Americans to represent this nation in the eight major folk festivals of Europe. Their vitality and refreshing spirit were acclaimed the world over.

Here is opportunity...viewing the spectrum of humanity

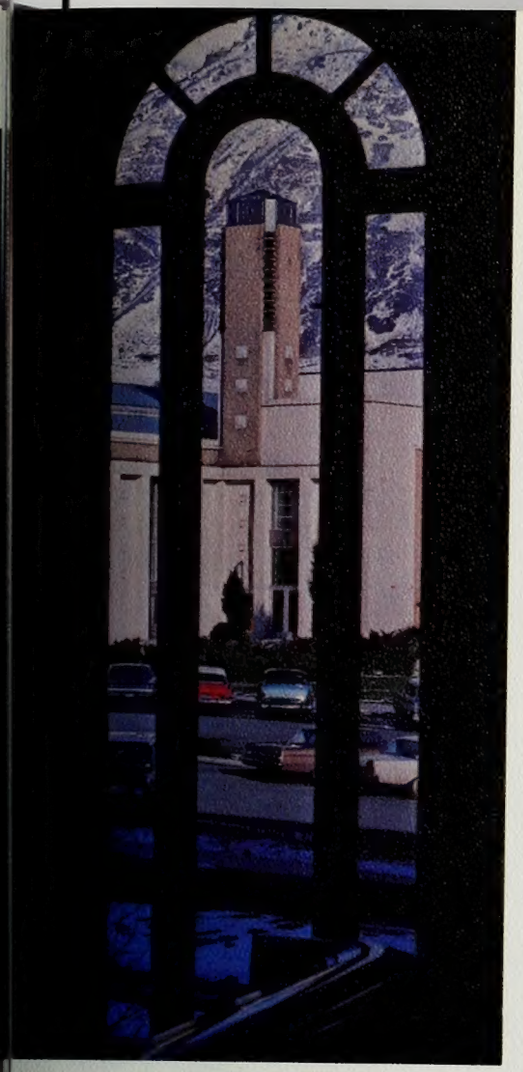


●The mystery of ancient ruins, renowned art treasures, the tulip fields of Holland and hillsides of Italy all become realities to students through BYU Travel Study. In addition to Round-the-World tours, other excursions sponsored by this program bring People and Arts, Genealogy, and Church History to life.

For others there is the opportunity to hear the sound of music in Austria's Salzburg; to ski the picturesque snow-covered Alps of Grenoble, France; to live with a local family in sunny Mexico City. A newly-approved Semester in Jerusalem will accept the first students who will be able to study Biblical archaeology, in the Spring of 1968.

Semester Abroad does not merely conduct students on a tour of a foreign country, but provides residence programs and an entire semester of study in university cities. Both BYU faculty members and local professors teach classes drawn from the native culture in language, music, and history.

Acquiring university credit, these students abroad are also afforded the chance to live the lives and look into the hearts of humanity, thus gaining a lasting education not found in textbooks.



With an awareness of our heritage..... faith in its ideals ...we enter to learn.

●An awareness of the industry and self-reliance of our pioneer forefathers . . . their faith that the desert would blossom as the rose . . . a grateful pride in being students at Brigham Young University upon realizing how we benefit from much that others have done in our behalf . . . the Sunday morning bustle on campus as 67 student congregations convened for fellowship and sharing common beliefs, thereby building individual spiritual strength . . . upholding the Honor Code . . . applying Christian ideals in everyday living. . .

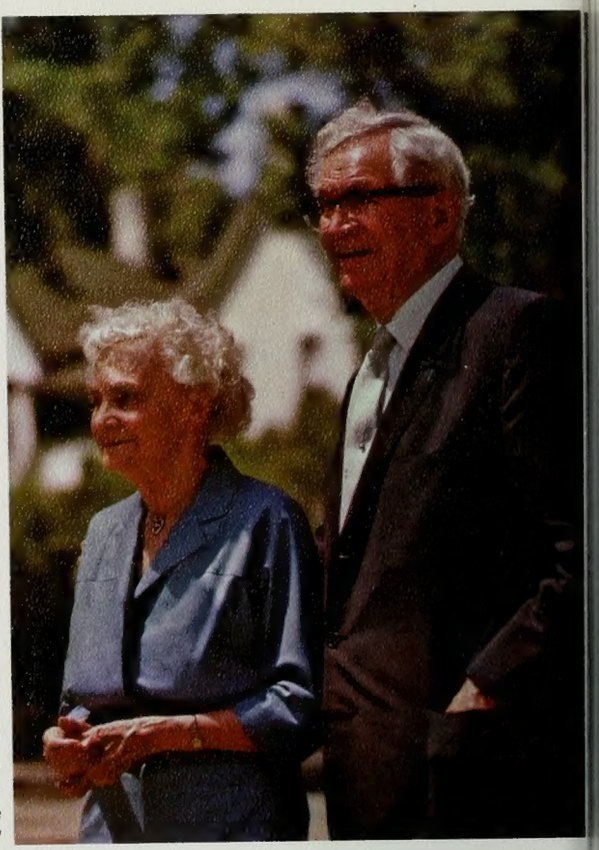
The sponsoring institution of the university is the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the religious faith claimed by 95 per cent of the student body. It is this gospel that is our driving, illuminating force and we seek to keep it burning in our lives, and then the abiding vision of Karl G. Maeser becomes meaningful: "Not by bread alone, neither for bread alone does man live. There are higher objectives yet to be attained, other truths to be learned and greater work to be done."

Administration and Colleges

●Composite Brigham Young University . . . amalgam of red-heads, cool-heads, blonde-heads, egg-heads and an occasional bone-head after the Junior Proficiency Examination. "We have to see your ACT scores. You'll never get through the door without signing the honor code. . . something to think about? Yes, indeed!" Now if the faculty thinks—and it does. . . mostly about papers, tests, why someone slowed up the class progress, and the ward for which that particular faculty member or administrator is serving as Bishop. "Where can I find a fresh approach . . . where, oh where, did I leave those grade sheets?"

Judy Lindsay and Loma Denton, Co-Editors

By Latter-day Saints he is loved, revered, and sustained as Prophet, Seer, and Revelator. Nobly bearing his 93 years, his animated countenance smiles to Conference visitors as President David O. McKay is accompanied by his counselor, Hugh B. Brown who has said that his qualities of greatness have "been distilled and channeled into a mightly fountain which enriches and gives new life to all about him."



Standing before their beloved Huntsville home, the Prophet and his sweetheart companion Emma Ray Riggs McKay, patient, poised and kind, are a living precept: "Man's most important obligation and duty is the making of a home and the proper rearing of children."

An expert rider and avid horseman, President McKay guides the reins for family sleigh ride, an annual affair. His steady hands continue to guide at the controls of the Church, and his penetrating and prophetic vision and inspired leadership have gained him world-wide respect as an ambassador of the Lord. His attributes of wisdom, spirituality, courtesy, and cultural refinement have combined with a sense of humor and zest for living in the charming personality of a humanitarian who understands men and seeks to be his brother's keeper.

Prophet Sends Personal Message

To the students of BYU:

It is my belief, and I have often so stated, that education is a free people's best investment. How great is that investment when it becomes a part of the lives of eager youths, nurtured in the rich environment of the Church, and harvested in the field of potential achievement!

Character is the aim of true education; and science, history, and literature are but means used to accomplish this desired end. Character is not the result of chance, but of continuous right thinking and right acting. True education seeks to make men and women not only good mathematicians, proficient linguists, profound scientists, or brilliant literary lights, but also honest men with virtue, temperance, and brotherly love. It seeks to make men and women who prize truth, justice, wisdom, benevolence, and self-control as the choicest acquisitions of a successful life.

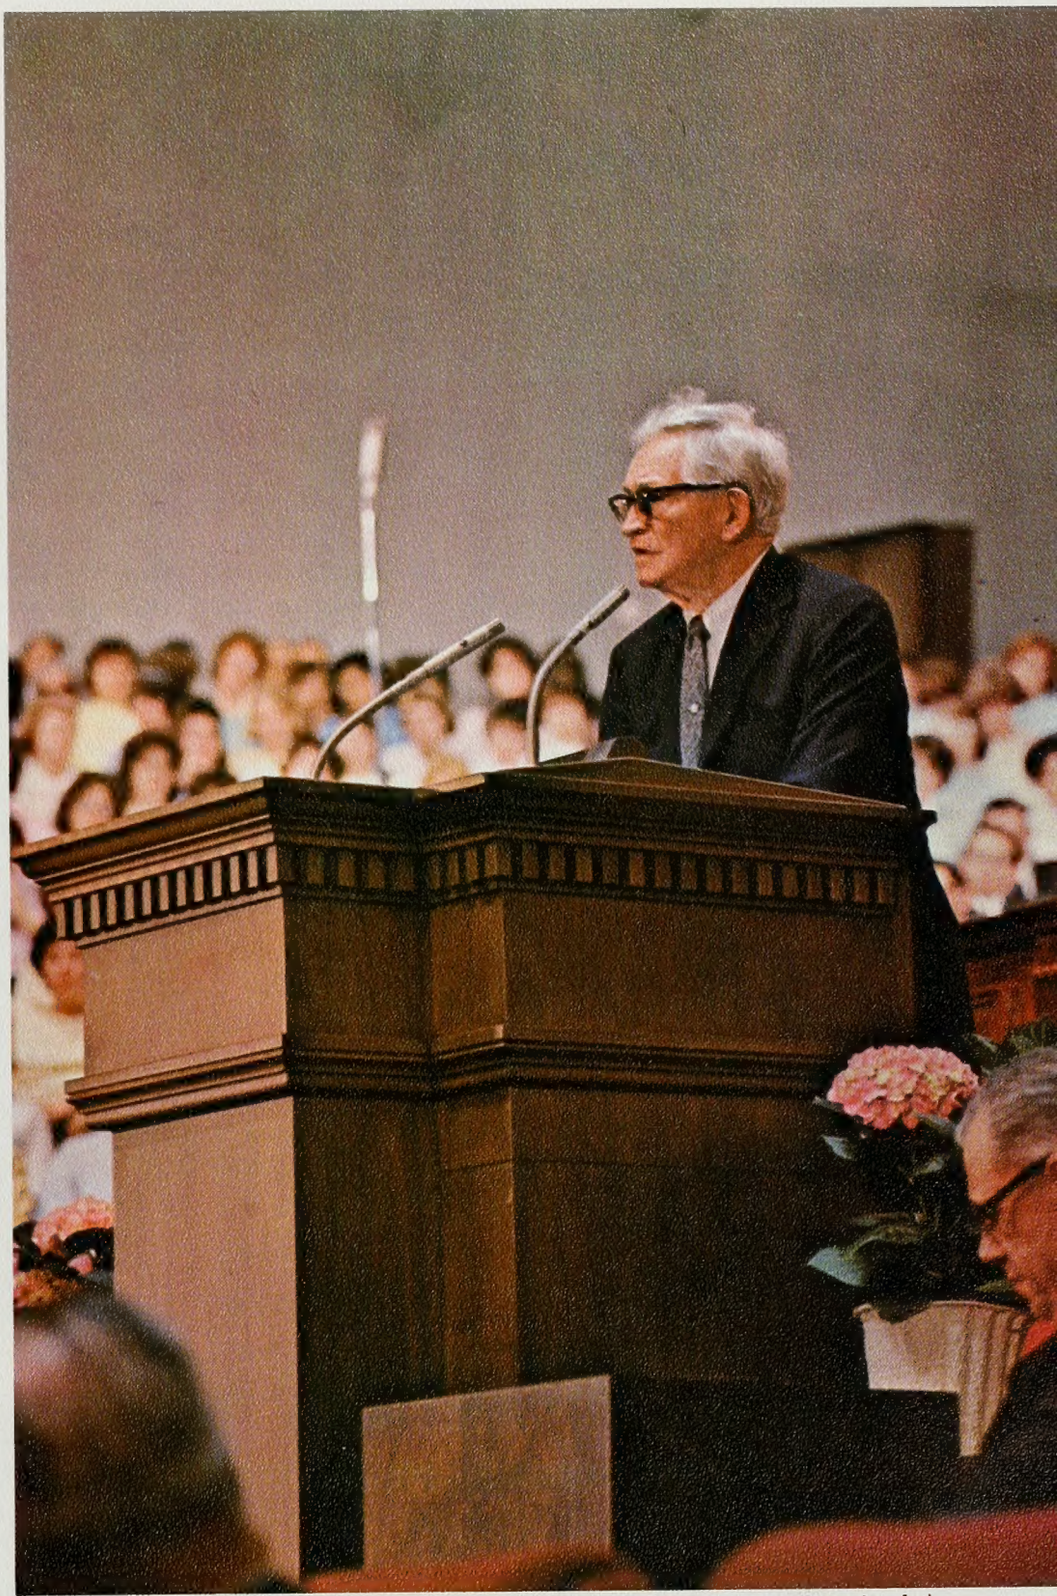
How honestly and well you face the world of business or politics, professions or technical skills is a great challenge, and will prove the metal of which you students are made.

To the members of the graduating class, I extend sincere congratulations upon your having completed the prescribed courses of study in your respective chosen professions, but, more than that, I congratulate you upon your increased ability to preserve the liberties of our country, and your opportunity to be of greater service to your fellow men—for whatever your future successes or seeming failures, I still look upon all recipients of true education as individuals and groups radiating an influence that makes less dense and ineffective the darkness of ignorance, of suspicion, of hatred, or bigotry, avarice, and greed that continue to envelop in darkness the lives of men.

A university is more than a storehouse of knowledge and more than a community of scholars. University life is essentially an exercise in thinking, preparing, and living. Your experience here should have developed resources in you which will contribute to your well-being as long as life endures. This University's aim is to help you develop power of self-mastery that you may never be a slave to indulgence or other weaknesses; to develop virile manhood, beautiful womanhood, so that in everyone of you may be found at least the promise of a friend, a companion, one who later may be fit for husband or wife, an exemplary father or a loving, intelligent mother, one who can face life with courage, meet disaster with fortitude and face the future and even death without fear.

Apply your education, for true education, that for which the Church stands, is the application of knowledge to the development of a noble and Godlike character.

David O. McKay
President, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints



Speaking from the Tabernacle pulpit, the Prophet continually encourages pursuit of the Savior's commandment to "Feed My Sheep," his own love for mankind exemplified in almost a century of service. Teaching was his first profession, and at 23, he served a mission to the British Isles. Later presiding over the European Mission, he now philosophizes "Every member a missionary." Meeting the challenge of change in a jet-age world, and with missionary work and temple building reaching their highest development, David O. McKay has given a dynamic dimension to the Church of Jesus Christ.

Board of Trustees Directs Church Educational Institutions

LDS philosophy teaches that formal schooling is a part of one's purposeful preparation for joy and service here and eternal life hereafter. Supporting this belief in behalf of the students of BYU was the Board of Trustees, chairmanned by President David O. McKay and comprised of men of great wisdom and faith. The Church educational institutions were combined under the direction of this Board made up of the First Presidency, the Council of the Twelve Apostles and other prominent leaders. Conscious of the needs of today's youth, this governing body attempted to provide students with the best in educational opportunities and oversaw expansion of facilities.

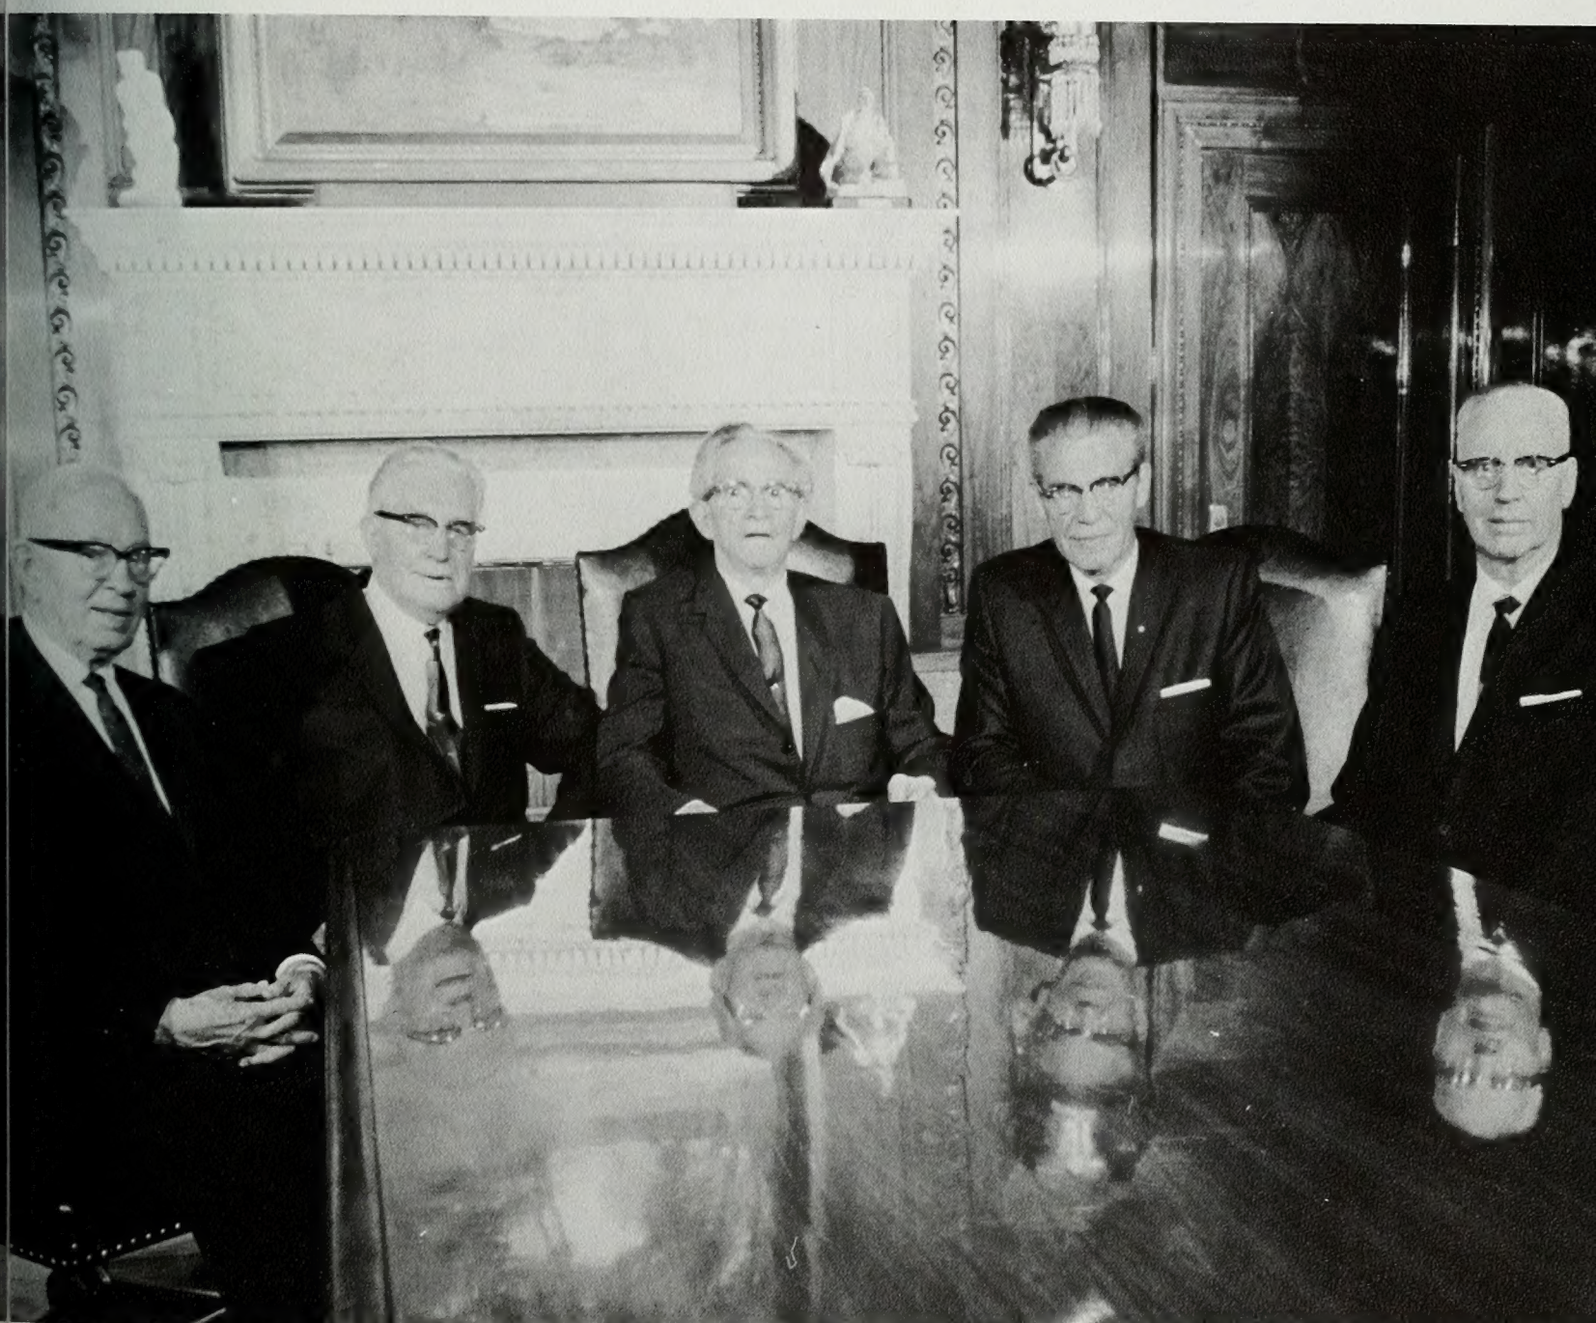
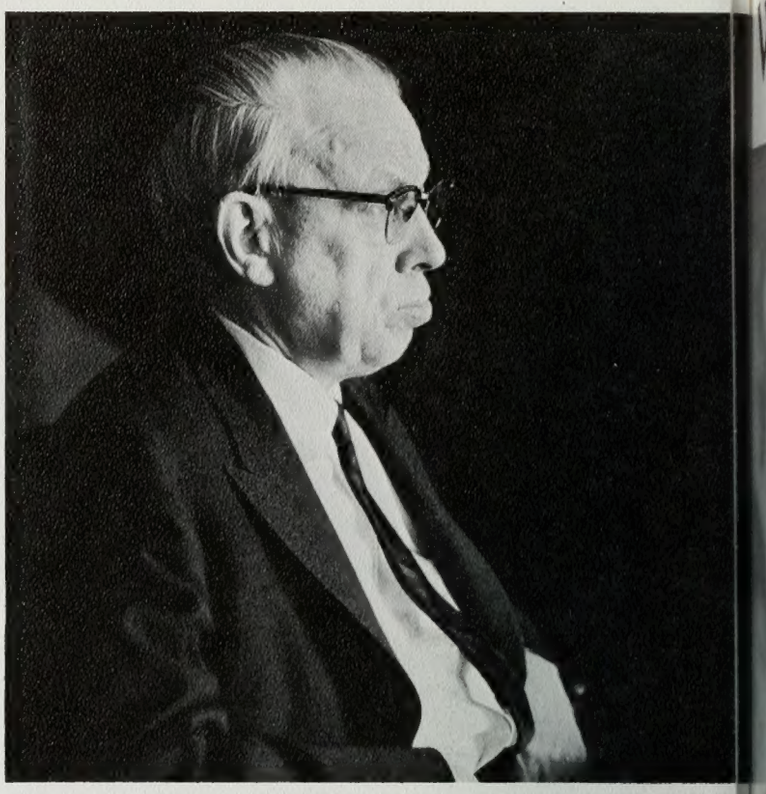
Thousands of saints from throughout the world (left) gather in Salt Lake Tabernacle for Conference. First Presidency of the Church assembles below.



eft to right: Joseph Fielding Smith, Hugh B. Brown, David O. McKay, N. Eldon Tanner, Thorpe B. Isaacson.



"HE IS A MAN who is totally consecrated to this University, to its unique divine purposes, and to the youth of Zion . . . he is a man of tremendous vision. He has a simple and deep faith in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. . . ." Introduced as such in a student assembly by Stephen Covey this year, he is President Ernest L. Wilkinson, a man of tireless dedication and service.

Claiming no "spare" time, BYU's president takes an avid interest in politics, affairs of state, and sports. Extremely energetic, he performs 50 phyiscal exercises, including push-ups and sit-ups, every morning. Though his dynamic personality may at times appear to be brusque, there is no mistaking the glint of a constant light in his eye. "My greatest accomplishment," he said, "is being Alice Ludlow's husband." Mrs. Wilkinson's presence is truly graciousness in their home. They are the parents of five children and a dozen grandchildren. For them the President indicated that his greatest desire is that they "become responsible, faithful members of the Church, and gain a good education with a desire to serve mankind."

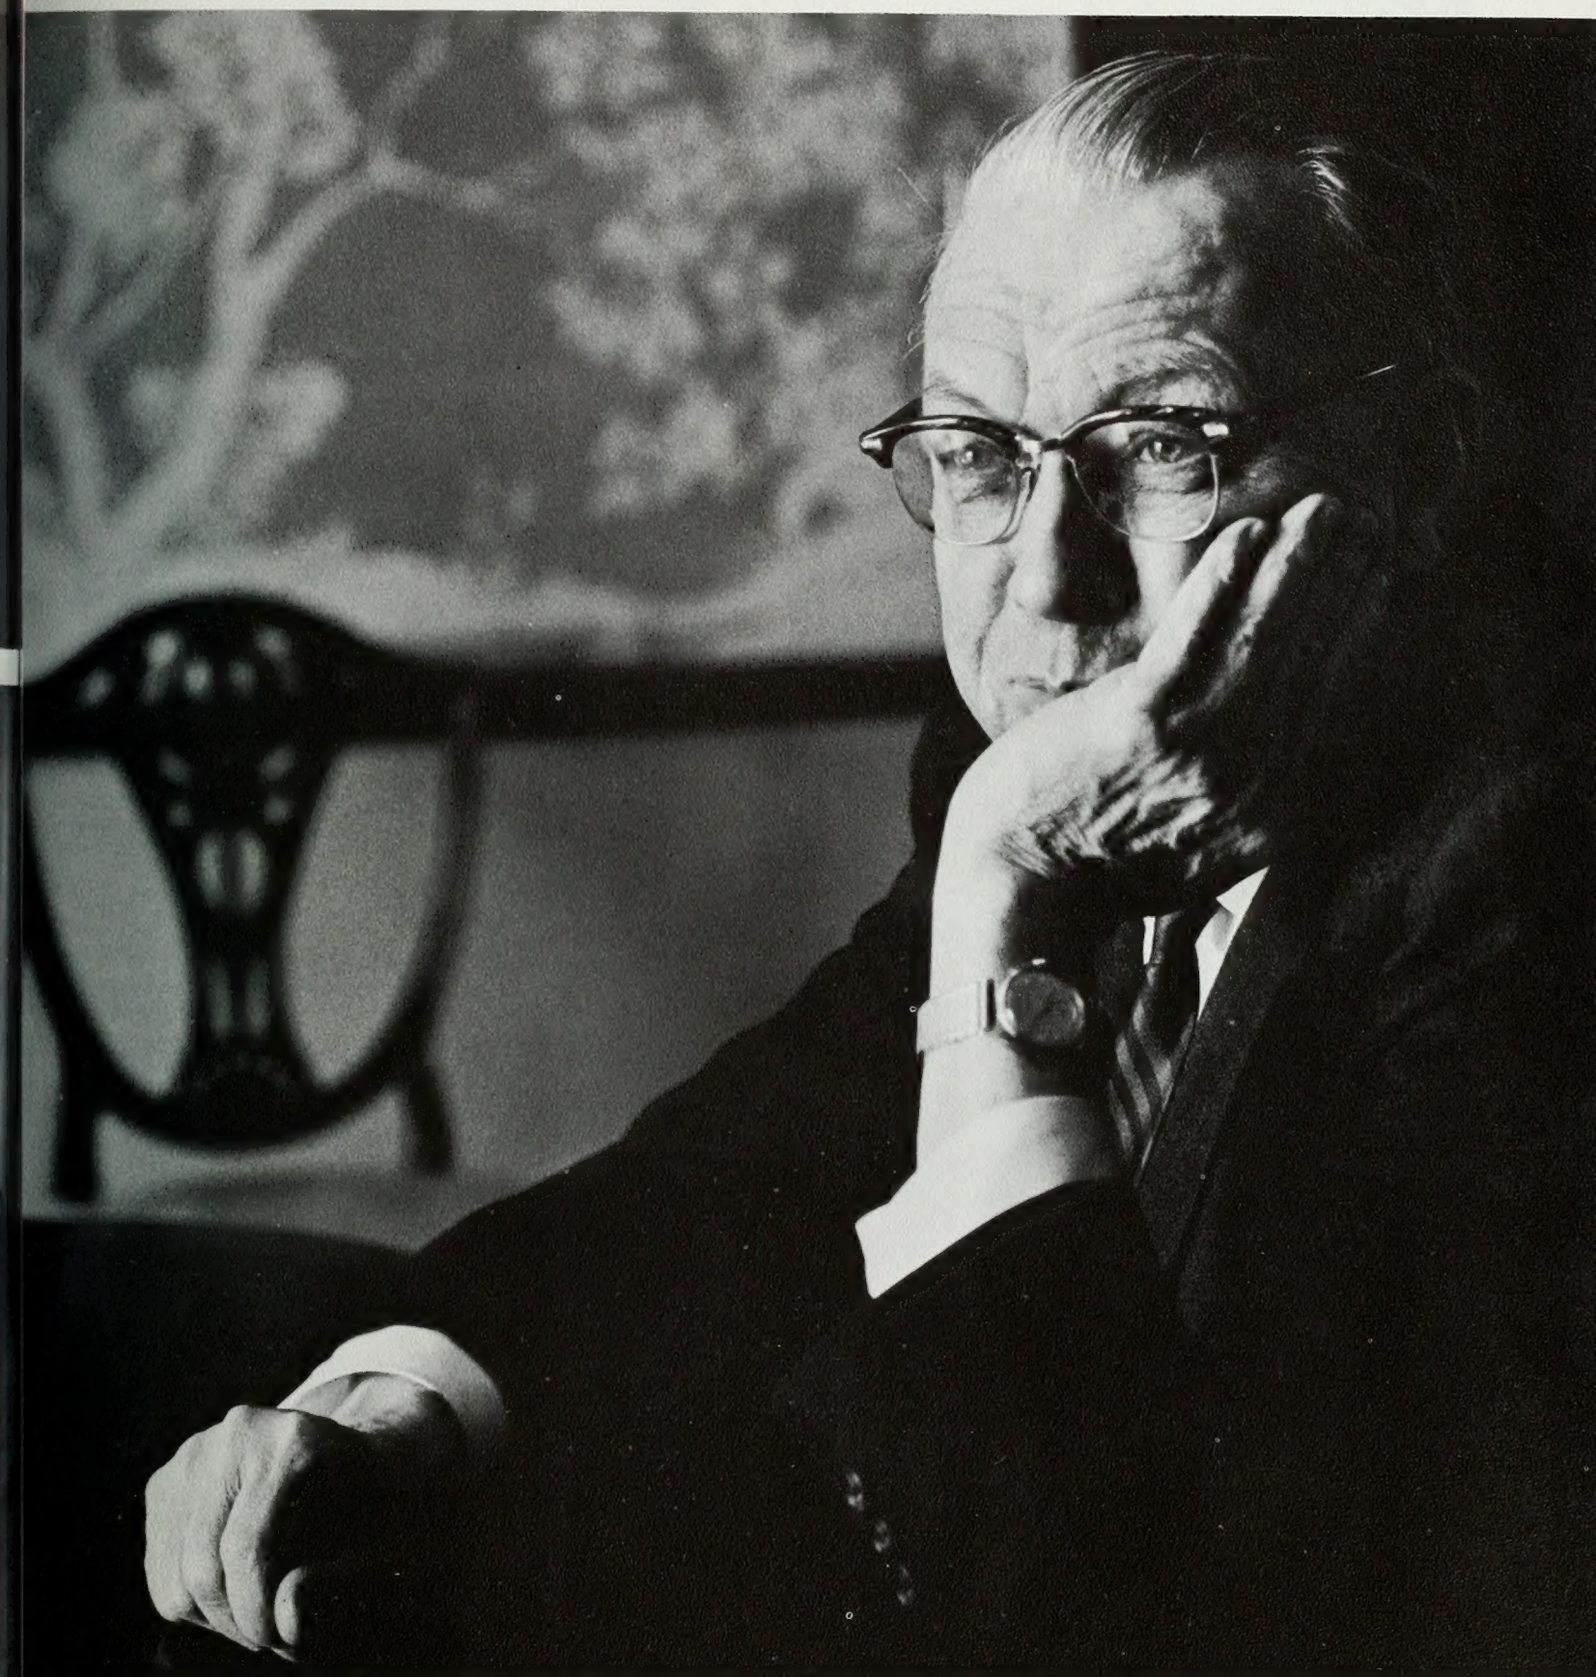
Ogden, Utah, was his childhood home and Ernest Wilkinson was educated at Weber College, BYU, and George Washington University Law School where he graduated summa cum laude. Receiving his doctorate from Harvard University, he then practiced for many years with a law firm in Washington, D.C.

He personally testifies that great strength is derived from rising above one's unfavorable environment, and asserts that his mother and a Church school have been guiding influences in his life. To his father he owes his remarkable zest and capacity for work. "The opportunity to work is God's greatest blessing to mankind" affirms his belief that no one will be successful as a student or in any profession on a 40-hour week.

President Wilkinson's accomplishments and contributions to the nation and society form an almost inexhaustible list. Among them he has helped to reorganize the USO, served on National Right to Work and Army/Navy Chaplains Committees; on the Boards of Trustees of the Foundation for Economic Education and Overseers of Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge. He and Mrs. Wilkinson have offered their time and talents to numerous charities and underprivileged groups, very often in lieu of vacations.

Of the destiny of Brigham Young University in the next ten years, President Wilkinson has said it will become a great center of learning with emphasis on the whole person. Developing individuals with religious dedication, this university "will produce those people who will be the real Christian leaders of not only our Church but of people throughout the world."

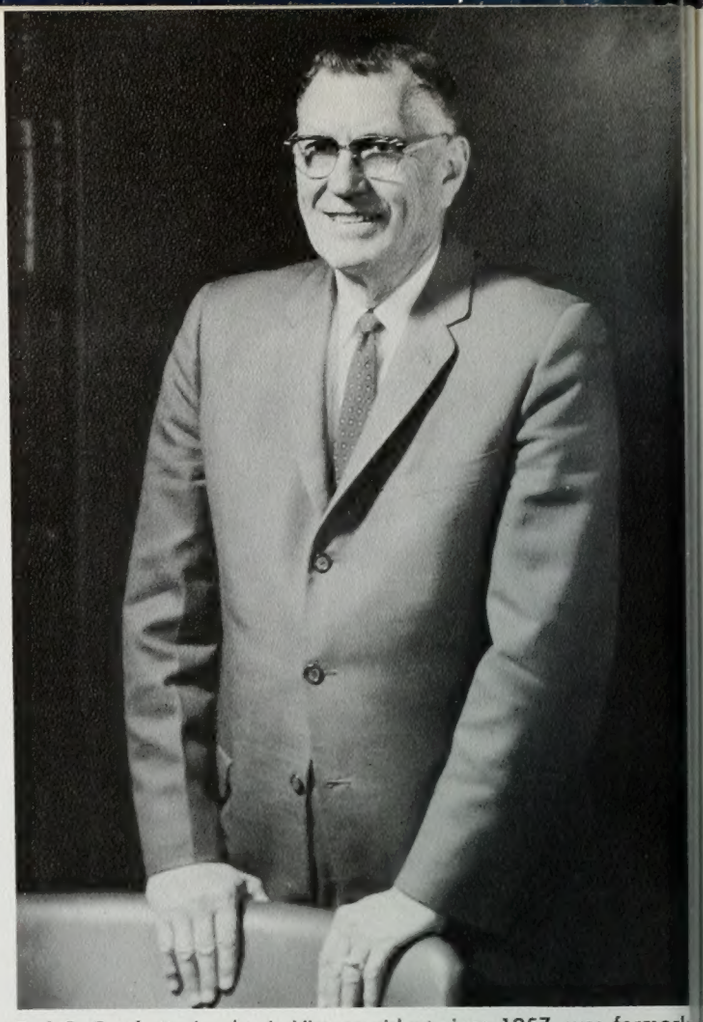
Wilkinson Renders Endless Service



A man of dynamic personality, great vision and accomplishment, and energetic service, Brigham Young University's President Ernest L. Wilkinson displays a sense of humor and quick wit. "My greatest accomplishment is being Alice Ludlow's husband . . . and you can put that down," he told interviewers. Then with a smile, "I'll get a good dinner for that tonight." A living example of the value of hard work, the U.S. Court of Claims discovered on the basis of time devoted to his office that lawyer Wilkinson had crowded 26 years of work into 16.

Administrators Limit Enrollment to 20,000

Functioning as an advisory board to President Wilkinson, the Administrative Council oversaw major expansion programs which included plans for the new Life Sciences Building. When completed, this structure will contain 219,000 square feet (or the equivalent of five and one half football fields) of floor space. In addition it will house eight campus ward bishopric offices. To provide more classroom and office space in the Jesse Knight Building, construction was begun this year on a wing extension. Limiting the BYU enrollment to a student population of 20,000 was also a decision of the Administrative Council. Under the direction of President Wilkinson, Dean of Students J. Elliot Cameron also assisted in administrative policy-making as a member of this board. These were men whose services did not end with their university responsibilities, but extended to a concern for the spiritual and personal welfare of students.



Earl C. Crockett, Academic Vice-president since 1957, was formerly an Economics professor at the Univ. of Colorado where he received the Stearns Medal for outstanding service and teaching

Clyde D. Sandgren, Vice-president and General Counsel, practiced law prior to coming to BYU. President of BYU Second Stake and father of 6 children, he is also Secretary to the Board of Trustees.

Assistant to the President and Director of University Relations Stephen R. Covey studied at Harvard and European universities. Past Irish Mission President, he and his wife have 5 children ppointed this year as Assistant to the President, David B. Haight, ather of 3, was formerly a Stake President and mayor of alo Alto, California, and served as Scottish Mission President.

As Vice-president of Business Affairs, Ben E. Lewis directs varied areas of the university. A former ASBYU president, he has 5 children, 3 foster children, and is East Sharon Stake President.

irector of University Development, Raymond E. Beckham has pro- noted tremendous strides in Alumni and Financial aid programs. ormer ASBYU Vice-president, he presides over BYU First Stake.

In demand as a speaker and lecturer, William R. Siddoway is Dean of Admissions and Records. He served on the San Jose, Calif., High Council, has 3 children, and is now BYU Fourth Stake President.

Graduate School Increases in Size

SINCE ITS BEGINNING in 1918, the Graduate School increased both in enrollment and variety of degrees offered. In order to accommodate the 25 per cent increase of students, Dean Wesley P. Lloyd approved special appointments of 48 new faculty members.

Four hundred graduates were working toward doctoral achievements in 31 fields, 40 of whom received degrees this year. Concentrating on objectivity in research, another 400 sought Master's degrees. The fields of Linguistics and Library Science were added this year to the 81 other fields in which a Master's degree may be obtained. Graduate students with advanced degrees from BYU are in wide demand and are finding positions in leading national firms both in the United States and foreign countries●

Students Manage Animal Science Lab

CELL DIVISION and classification of invertebrates, as well as career training, were interinsic facets of the College of Biological and Agricultural Sciences, which included the department of Agricultural Education, Animal Science, Batceriology, Botany, and Zoology.

The College operated a student-managed Animal Science Project Lab located about a mile from the campus. There beef cattle, sheep, and swine were raised; and a small number of prize-winning show horses kept. The dairy herd was student-owned, the students themselves taking entire care of the animals—even 2 a.m. and 4 p.m. milkings. A monthly profit was made from the milk sales. Also part of the Project Lab was a Meat Science lab where farm animals were slaughtered, processed and sold to faculty and staff. Providing students with training in meat evaluation, identification, and processing, the lab prepared graduates for careers in federal grading and livestock marketing, as packing company executives, agricultural advisers to banks, and researchers for pharmaceutical firms.

Offering first-hand experience was the University farm in Spanish Fork, Ut.

The farm's 400-head dairy herd was started in 1945 by Grant Richards, a noted dairyman, and through his efforts was built up to be the highest milk-producing institutional herd in the United States in recent years. Although the herd was professionally managed, it supplied all the milk to the university and gave students experience in working with dairy cattle. The 650 acre farm was also used by the department of Agricultural Economics and for crop research by the department of Agronomy. A large horticultural project in fruit-growing was developed by that department

The College of Biological and Agricultural Sciences prepared students for cultural Science prepared students for service in such varied areas as Soil Science, Field Crop Production, Farming, Preveterinary medicine, Greenhouse Management, Landscaping, and government as well as commercial employment in these fields. BYU Trains 1,000 Teachers

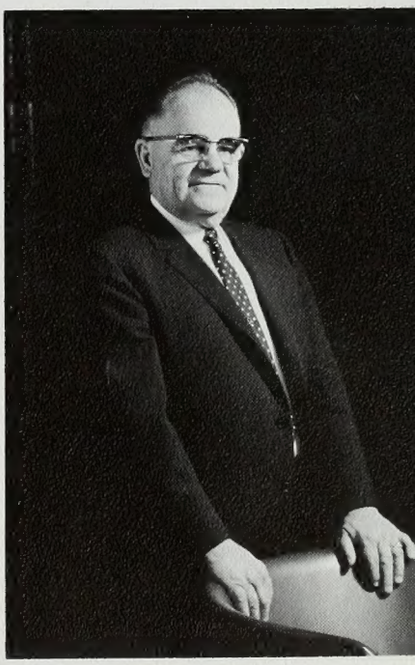
BYU IS ONE of the largest teacher-training institutions in the United States. Aided bya faculty of over 100, the College of Education certifies 1000 teachers each year. Establishing many programs of an experimental nature to be carried out in the Laboratory Schools, Educational Experimental Programming was a service to the College. Planned by the faculty and administration, new programs designed to meet the individual needs of students were initiated.

The Continuous Progress Education Plan emphasized individualized instruction, nongraded curriculum, development of self-instructional materials, and techniques of independent study, as well as better utilization of language laboratories, continuous progress testing and record keeping, and flexible computer scheduling. With all its trials and tribulations, student teaching was to be endured. Involved in this experience were 200 students enrolled in the elementary school, junior high and high schools, with 65-70 students in each grade. These Laboratory Schools had two functions. First, they served to introduce prospective teachers to the many and varied responsibilities of a teacher. Second, they were experimental schools whose faculty members were recognized as leaders in their profession and use of modern methods.



Dean Antone K. Romney

Daily Computer Scheduling is New

A new innovation at the Lab School this year was the use of a computer to perform daily rescheduling of classes. Submitting a lesson plan a few days prior to the scheduled class, the teacher received each day a newly computerized schedule to follow. The process was handled by a high-speed computer which made it possible to solve the complex problem of resolving scheduling conflicts.

The extra time and planning in this program resulted in improved programs for individual students, helping them to progress as rapidly as possible and according to their needs and understanding. More variety was brought to the school day, providing students with opportunities for independent and self-instructional study time throughout the day. Students were able to carry a more challenging class load and more subjects, and also received instruction in groups where individuals shared common problems.

Though still in the experimental stage, the Daily Demand Computer Scheduling system has received attention as an aid to education in the future.

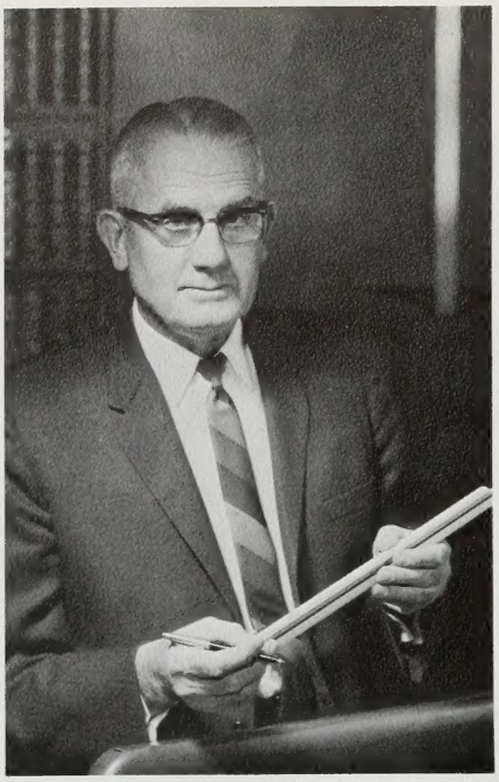
Industry Seeks Technical Grads



Ernest C. Jeppsen, dean of the college.

THE TECHNICAL INSTITUTE was the newest section of the College of Industrial and Technical Education, which also consisted of the Industrial Education and Industrial Technology departments. The primary purpose of the Institute was to provide college-level technical and pre-professional training for students in preparation for employment in business and industry. Its program was divided between general education and specialized courses, offeering majors in such fields as Building Construction Technology and Computer Programming.

Because the young men enrolled in this College had fulfulled their military obligation or a mission, or both, their maturity as well as skills were highly recognized. As a result, graduates were sought after by industry officials and placed in excellent positions offering high starting salaries. Since the Institute's inception, the number of graduates increased substantially almost every year, the most recent graduating class numbering 852.

The Industrial College was host in the fall to professors representing the Tinius Olsen Industrial and Engineering School of Kongsberg, Norway. Favorably impressed with the BYU facilities, the visitors collected course outlines and indicated a hope for future professor exchange programs between the schools ●

College of Nursing Answer

Critical Need

IN A PROFESSIONAL study by the Western Council on Higher Education for Nursing, it was estimated that by the year 1970 there will be needed 1,027 nurses in Utah to replace those already in service. In addition 1,741 will be needed because of the increased population, making a total of 2,768 nurses needed. This critical need in one state was indicative of the nation's need. Helping to meet this challenge was BYU's College of Nursing.

The College prepared its graduates to function as registered nurses in hospital situations, public and school health, mental health and psychiatric treatment capacities, as well as for teaching positions and leadership positions as head nurses and supervisors. Completing a rigorous education in four years, nursing students then trained for one summer. Their first three semesters were spent in general education courses; during the sophomore year, nursing curiculum included theory and practical nursing experience.

Local Hospitals Provide Experience

BYU offered extensive facilities for nursing education—classrooms, libraries, and well-equipped laboratories. The local Utah Valley LDS Hospital became almost a second home to the girls. The Primary Children's Hospital provided experience in advanced pediatric training; Salt Lake's LDS and Cottonwood Hospitals provided realistic practice in medical-surgical fundamentals and patient care. Additional experience in geriatric patient care was obtained at Eldred Center. All of these facilities aided the student nurse to achieve her RN degree. Nurses acquired skills in nursing care, grew in self-understanding and a desire to improve their socio-economic position, at the same time enriching lives through their service to fellow men, Church and community●

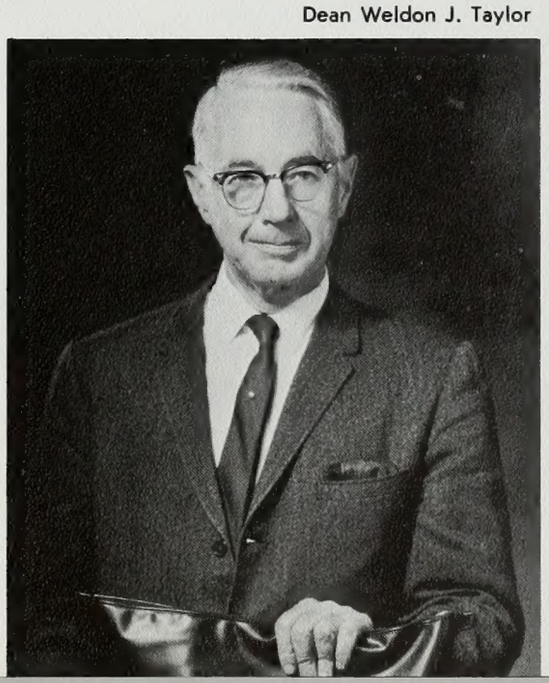
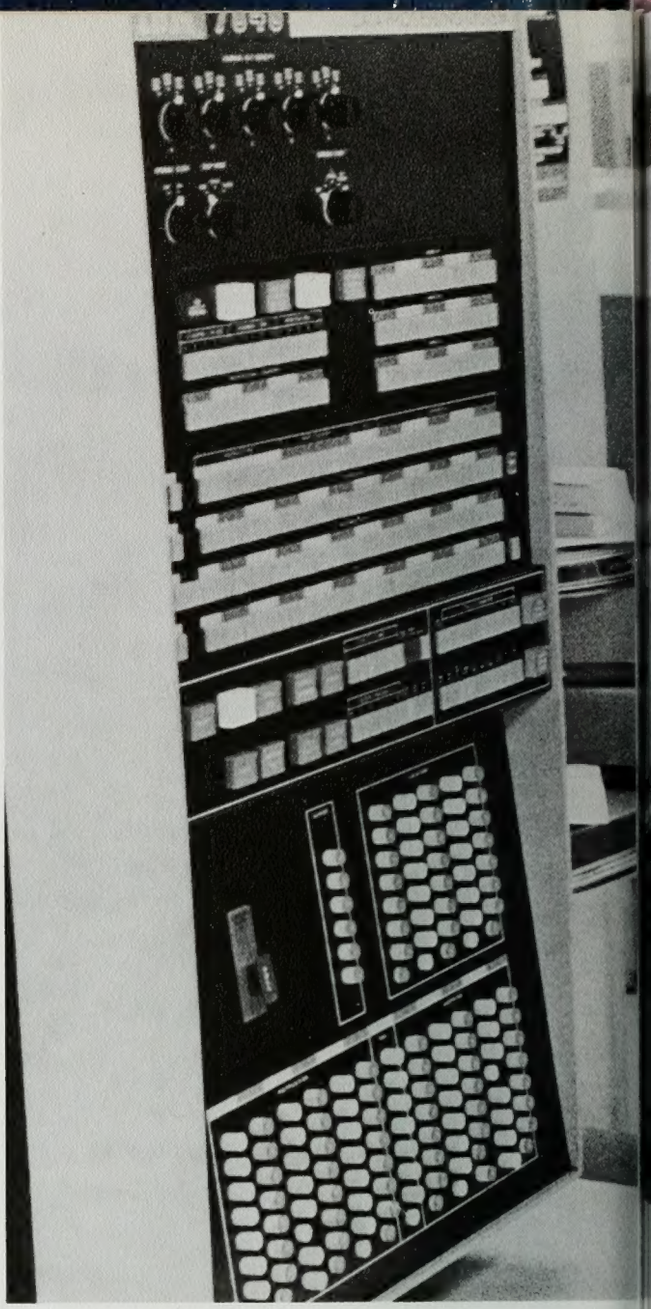
Business Majors Plan For Careers

Dean Weldon J. Taylor



THE DEPARTMENT of Accounting in the College of Business established a national reputation for sending well-qualified graduates into the world, many of whom even utilized this training as preparation for law careers. Preparing the accountant for prospective careers in industrial team control, public accounting, or mathematics in government service, the student was offered courses as varied as Accounting Information System and Advanced Computer Programming. Procedures and problems in system design were learned in addition to operation of the University computer. Computer knowledge enabled the accounting student to keep, analyze and interpret records and then to communicate the results to others by faster, more efficient methods.



Computer Produces Results in Seconds, Aids BYU, Church, and Private Concerns

A significant change came to BYU with the establishment of the Computer Research Center. Serving the data processing needs of the University, Administration, Church, and private concerns, research was enhanced by using the powerful arithmetic and logical processing capabilities of the computer. It not only performed numerical calculations, but also processed symbolic representations of data from all fields, taking only seconds to produce results that would require a person hours or days to compute. Research was encouraged in new computer programming and application techniques.

Constantly aware of changing business theories and practices, the College of Business prepared students for livelihoods in areas from marketing and finance to stenography; developed an understanding of economic factors; and cultivated a desire to contribute to a better standard of living. Regular class and departmental work was supplemented by the Executive Lectures Program where some of the nation's top business leaders spoke to students on campus. Besides Accounting, departments in the College also included Business Education, Economics, Business Management, and Statistics●

Indian Students Benefit From New

IN GENERAL COLLEGE there were three integral departments. The largest, Provisional Registration, provided registration for all students with undetermined majors. Each year approximately 3,000 students registered in this college. By the end of the freshman year it was the aim of Provisional Registration to have helped them choose a major. The second department was Guided Studies, designed primarily to give assistance to those students at the University who need a better background in general courses and academic areas.

The third phase of this college was Indian Studies, a program designed primarily to prepare students to be able to terminate in two years. While at school Indian Studies oriented the Indian students to college life, helped them with their personal problems, provided them with social activities, and helped them to budget money and understand the iminportance of public health. At the termination of this program the students could enroll to work for their B.A. degree, or graduated, prepared for employment. After graduating, many Indian students returned to their homes to teach homemaking skills, nutrition, agriculture, and technical skills to their people. This program was new this year and looks forward to success for all students who know they will be at the University for a short time●

Researchers Study Chemical Inter

IN THIS AGE OF SPACE exploration and advancing technology, the sciences take on a more vital importance than ever before. Recognizing that emphasis at BYU was the College of Physical and Engineering Sciences encompassing the departments of Electrical, Chemical, Civil, and Mechanical Engineering as well as Geology, Statistics, Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Air Science.

Thermochemistry has been taking the international spotlight with the work of Dr. James J. Christensen and Dr. Reed M. Izatt. Since 1958 this team has been working on metal-ligand interactions—measuring the amount of energy involved in the bond between a metal and a ligand. A typical metal-ligand system is the hemoglobin molecule which consists of the metal iron and the ligand heme. They also have been attempting to learn how cell membranes regulate the movement of metal ions in and out of living cells, proposing that metal ions are transported across cell membranes as coordination complexes involving ligands present in the cell wall. These metal completxes are then transported through the membrane and are broken down when they reach the opposite side of the cell.

Students Relate Physical Sciences to Environment

An important achievement of the Christensen-Izatt team has been the development of a method for measuring simultaneously both energy transformations and the degree of interaction of metals with ligands by the use of titration calorimetry equipment. Presently they are the only scientists in the world employing this type of equipment. Presenting their experimental results at numerous national and international scientific meetings, the researchers have merited for themselves recognition and encouragement for further study. Doctors Christensen and Izatt are now working under research grants from the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Institutes of Health.

Through the research efforts of these men, the College of Physical and Engineering Sciences has taken great strides in preparing students at BYU to understand our chemical world and to relate it our our human environment while competing more effectively in it●

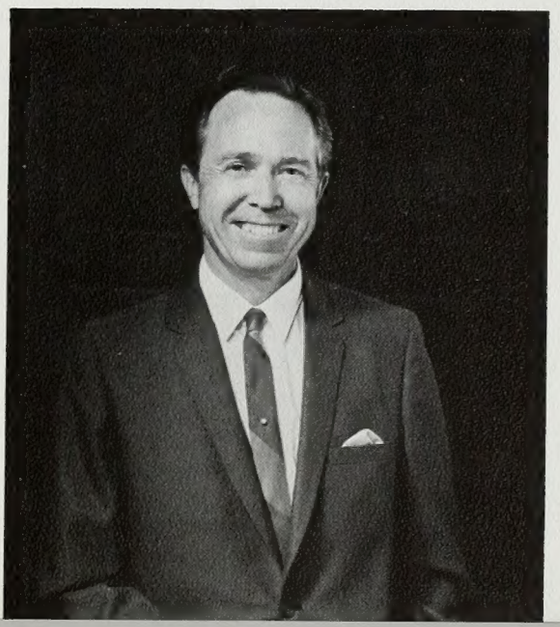
Children Are Teachers Too. . .

Dean Blaine R. Porter



THE COLLEGE OF Family Living offered to Child Development and Family Relations majors a unique learning experience in its observation laboratories. Students observed child behavior so that internalizing "child development" was not merely text and lecture, but actual experience. To insure good health, the pre-schoolers were checked daily by a nurse, then participated in activities ranging from free creativity and monkey-bar climbing to the best of all—lunchtime. Throughtout the day CDFR students observed from the sidelines, practiced teaching skills, or joined with the children. Sociologists, psychologists and social workers also made use of the Lab for special research with selected children.

A national leader in his field, Dr. Blaine R. Porter was appointed this year as Dean of the College of Family Living which includes the departments of Child Development and Family Relations, Foods and Nutrition, Clothing and Textiles, Homemaking Education, and Housing and Home Management. He succeeded Dr. Virginia Cutler who is presently helping to set up home economics programs in Ghana. Dr. Porter was a 1960 delegate to the White House Conference on Children and Youth, and was named BYU's Professor of the Year in 1964.

Humanities College Broadens Understanding

Bruce B. Clark, dean, directs the growth of the college.

ENDEAVORING TO INCREASE students' understanding of the cultures of the world, the College of Humanities emphasized the study of various languages and their accompanying cultures. The Department of English provided each student with a rich background in literature and language skills. Fifteen languages were offered at the undergraduate level by the Department of Language.

In the Latin American Studies Program, one of the three interdepartmental areas of the college, students were prepared to work in the Foreign Service and for United States firms abroad through courses in such areas as economics and history. The Humanities Majors and Linguistics Programs also presented courses from widely divergent areas of the University to give students a background in these fields.

Due to increasing size, the College was in the process of reorganization. The Department of Language was split, and Linguistics was made a separate department. Approval for these changes was received from the Board of Trustees.

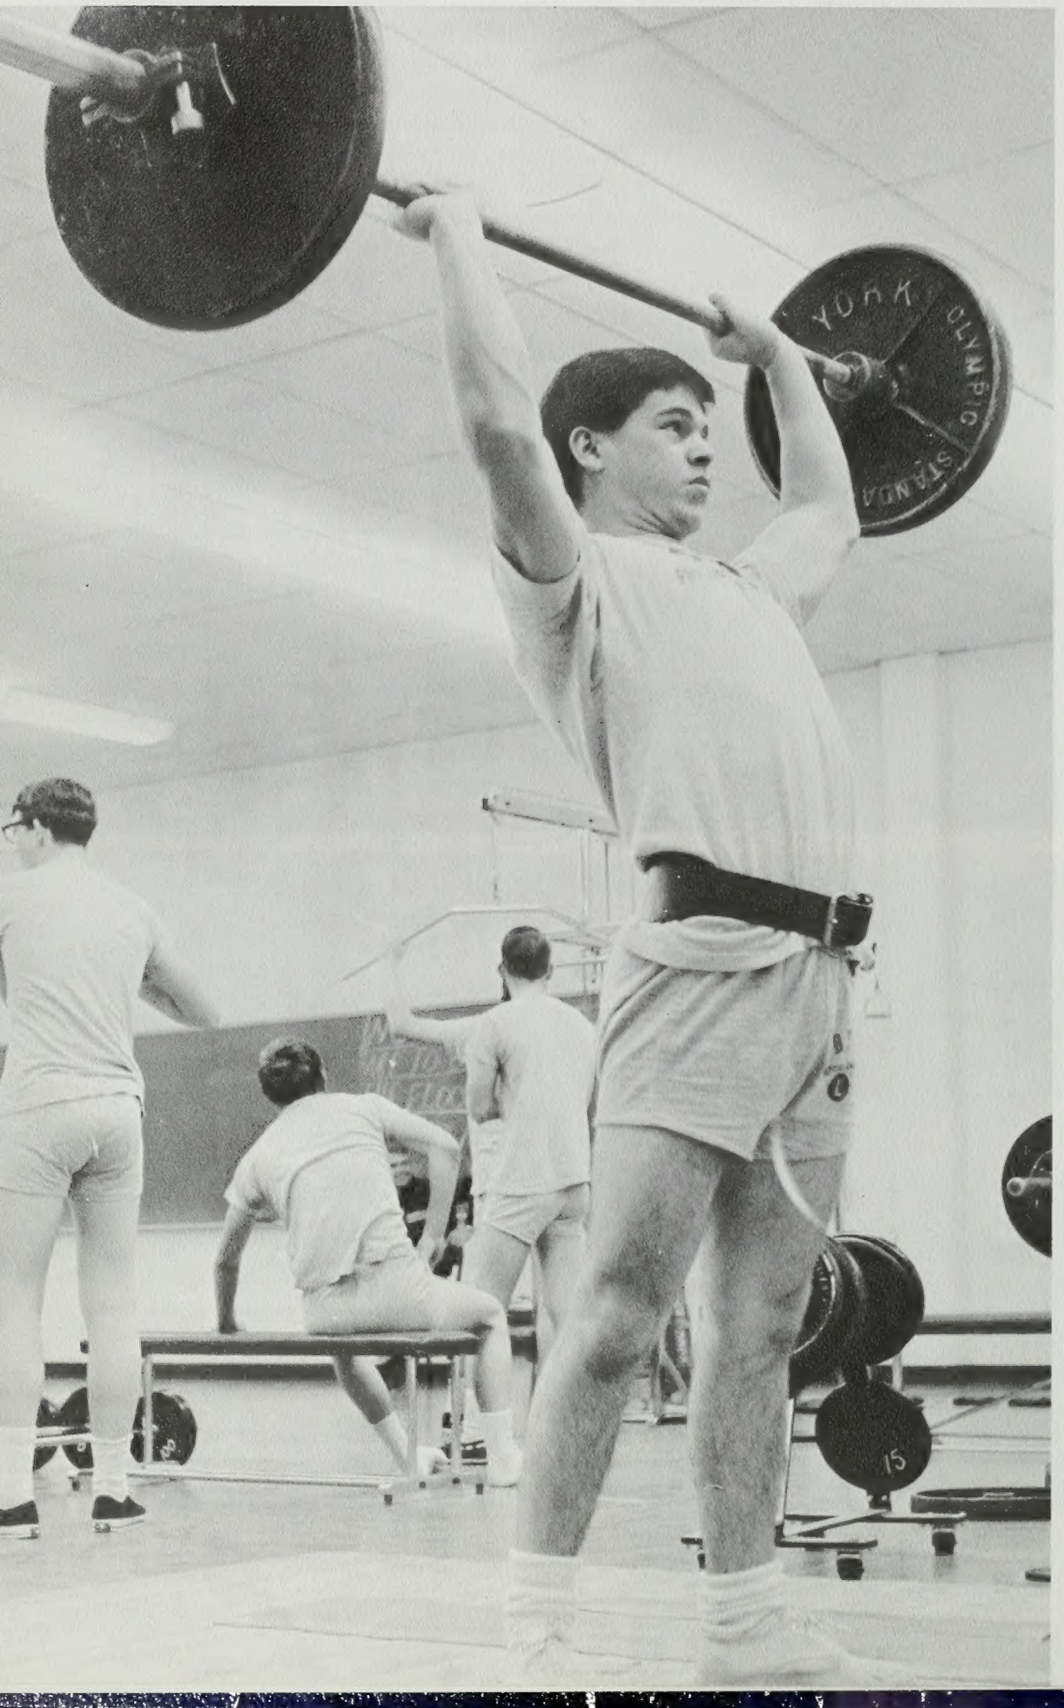
College Builds Skill, Offers Training



"THE HUMAN BODY is sacred—the veritable tabernacle of the divine spirit which inhabits it. It is a solemn duty of mankind to develop, protect and preserve it from pollution, unnecessary wastage and weakness." Thus Stephen L Richards, for whom the physical education building was named, expressed the objectives of the College of Physical Education, which was composed of six departments: Health and Safety Education, Intercollegiate Athletics, Men's and Women's Physical Education, Recreation Education and Youth Leadership.

Prior to graduation, each student was required to take two hours of physical education and two hours of health, and was provided with recreational activities and training for prospective teaching. Special courses in dance and pre-physical therapy as well as a major in Youth Leadership, training men for professional scouting and preparing both men and women to serve in youth leadership capacities, were features of this college ●

KBYU Projects University

Image

KBYU-FM and television not only performed a valuable function in the College of Fine Arts and Communications, but also served to project the image of BYU. Three BYU programs in addition to Tuesday morning Devotional assemblies were rebroadcast weekly by 25 other stations in the surrounding area. The University was also privileged to produce a nationally broadcast radio program over the ABC network for 26 weeks, the first time BYU has been accorded such an honor.

Thirty hours of class lectures were produced each week through the educational television program. The lectures created for Book of Mormon, History, Math, and Psychology classes were projected on a 27-foot screen in the Joseph Smith Building and controlled in the Franklin S. Harris Fine Arts Center.

The television station also produced educational programs to be shown at their regular station time. Students were able to take these classes for credit.

The Making of a Program

How is a television program produced at KBYU? Twenty-four full-time studio employees and 250 students performed the task for one live program each night. The first step in production was the planning. For a musical program it was necessary for the music director to decide where the camera would be at each moment. After rehearsals were held for the cast, the actual work of production began. Lights were set and essential props to be used were arranged. Cameras were readied. Filmstrips to be shown over the air were loaded into the videotape projector in the master control room. Art cards showing the name of announcers were prepared and properly placed so that camermen could switch to them quickly. Finally, came the director's last minute instructions to the cast and technical crew. He then decided which of the three scenes shot simultaneously was to go on the air. Producing actual programs such as these provided invaluable training for all Communications majors●

Psychologists Obtain Grant

EXPLORATION of human behavior was sought in the College of Social Sciences through such departments as Archaeology, History, Geography, Sociology, Anthropology and Psychology.

A most exciting feature of the College was the Animal Research Lab operated by the Psychology department. Opened in September, 1965, it was located in the Rulon Smithson house on the north campus hill. Each of the rooms had been remodeled in order to be suitable for carrying out experiments. The isolation of the spot was necessary to avoid electrical interferences which hampered experiments in other buildings.

Twenty-four-hour use was made of the Lab throughout the year where 25 students had individual research projects, besides the experiments performed for classes as instructional aids. Housed in the animal pens were some 300 to 400 rats, the only animals used for experimentation.

The studied areas of behavioral science included both basic and applied research; trauma and its relation to neuroses and control; brain function; endocrinology with respect to behavior; and memory storage and processes. The lab received government grants totaling $100,000 for just such research.

Department Plans For Move, Expansion

Expansion and a move in the future were goals of the department this year. Plans for development of the Animal Lab indicated that in addition to rats, pigeons, dogs, cats, and monkeys will be used when facilities become available. From $5,000 to $10,000 worth of equipment will be added to present equipment worth $20,000. Hopefully within three years, the Lab will be moved into permanent quarters upon completion of the anticipated Life Sciences Building●

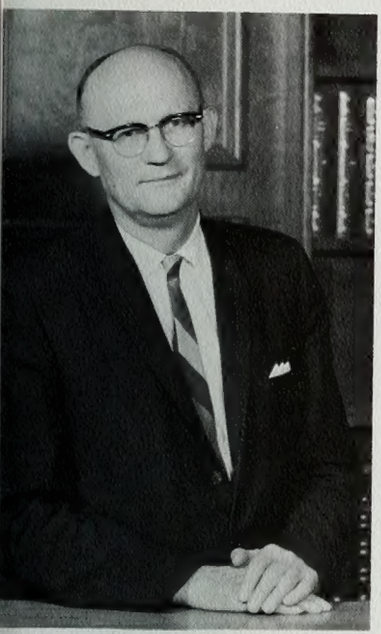
College Offers Variety of Courses



ean Roy W. Doxey

TO INTEGRATE religious, moral and ethical principles with secular knowledge, the College of Religious Instruction provided for the religious education of every student attending the University. The year began with the appointment of Professor Roy W. Doxey, chairman of the Department of Undergraduate Studies in Religious Instruction, as Acting Dean in the absence of Dean B. West Belnap. The College also included the Department of Graduate Studies in Religious Instruction, under the chairmanship of Chauncey C. Riddle.

The wide scope covered by this college was shown in its 31 courses offered in the undergraduate area. These included courses in the Standard Works of the Church—the Bible, Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, and Pearl of Great Price—as well as Theology, LDS History, Genealogy, Christian History, and American and World Religions. Comparable courses were offered on the graduate level as well as in Philosophy.

Under the direction of Daniel H. Ludlow, there was an increase in the number of large-screen TV sections and students in lower division Book of Mormon classes. For the first time a religion credit course in Genealogy was taught on KBYU-TV. The television station also invited the college faculty to participate in a weekly lecture series, "Religion in Action."

Assisting in teaching the large enrollment were 20 part-time faculty from the Department of Seminaries and Institutes, in addition to 23 teachers from other colleges of the University●

Extension Service Ranks Eighth in Nation

AN ADMINISTRATIVE body, the Division of Continuing Education co-ordinated the colleges of the University into the adult education program in three areas: Continuing Education Centers in Ogden, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, and Idaho Falls; on-campus programs including Evening Classes, Special Courses and Conferences, and Home Study; and off-campus programs including Education Weeks, Travel Study, and Off-campus Lectures and Courses.

Tremendous opportunities were provided for students in the Semesters Abroad Programs in Salzburg, Grenoble, and Mexico City, as well as world-wide tours. Benefitting grade school and high school students, patients confined to hospitals, prison inmates, and children of mission presidents in countries where educational opportunity is limited was the Home Study Program.

Sponsoring one of the most extensive continuing education programs of its kind, the Division claimed an extension service that was eighth largest in the nation, enrolling 100,000. Complementing the popularity of Lecture Tours by noted professors, its BYU Education Weeks were well-received as shown by the attendance of 38,000 in 44 locations throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico during the summer of 1966●

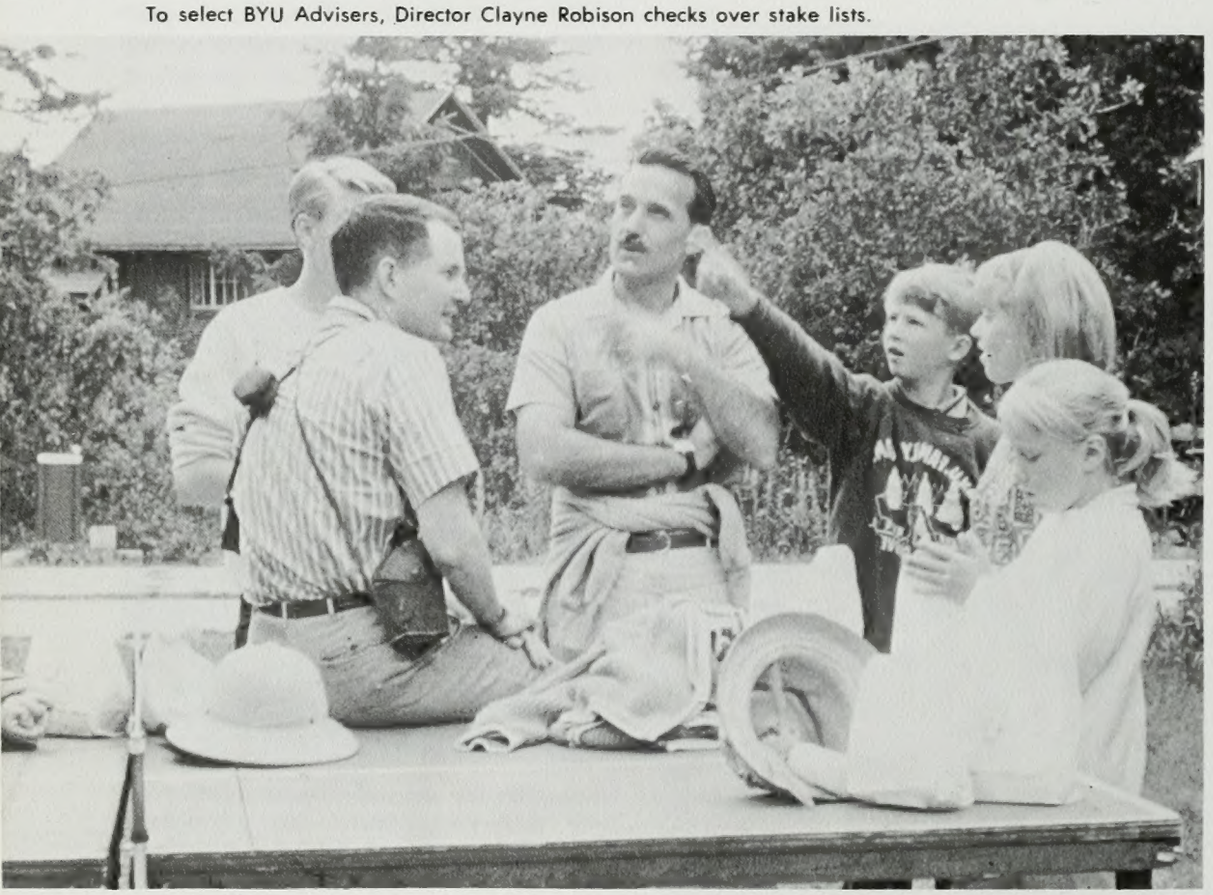
Alumni Promote BYU Development

To select BYU Advisers, Director Clayne Robison checks over stake lists.

AN AIR OF EXCITEMENT prevailed both on campus and off with President McKay's announcement this year of a full scale, long term Development Program at BYU. Headed by one of the country's foremost bankers, David M. Kennedy of Chicago, the executive committee brought together some of the finest talent in the Church, with Raymond E. Beckham serving as Executive Director. Centered around the philosophy of development versus fund raising, the Program set these goals for BYU: To teach and embody the Truth; to develop the whole person whose balanced life is integrated by revealed truth and dedicated to the service of mankind; to develop a faculty and staff who are a congregation of disciples as well as a community of scholars.

Playing a significant role in assisting the University to effect changes in admission policy, BYU Alumni were selected and trained throughout the nation to serve as BYU Admissions Advisers to the young people of their respective stakes. In addition to keeping a personal file on every person who has ever attended BYU, the Alumni Association mails the Alumnus Magazine to all former students without cost.



Surrounded by the rugged terrain of Mt. Timpanogos, ASPEN GROVE FAMILY CAMP is operated by the Alumni Association and is the center of Summer fun and activities for many families and student groups.

Reunions and receptions always draw Alumni together—often to hear the President report the Y as being a great and growing institution.

Alumni Recognize Excellence in Karl G. Maeser Awards

The newly established Karl G. Maeser Awards were conferred on deserving faculty and students this year by Alumni President Harold H. Smith. Encouraging scholarly and spiritual achievement at the University, members of the Karl G. Maeser Associates each contribute $100 annually to support these awards.

The Distinguished Teaching Award which recognizes a career of exemplary teaching at BYU was presented to Dr. Bertrand F. Harrison, professor of botany. The four awards for Teaching Excellence were presented to Dr. Reed H. Bradford, professor of sociology; Dr. Robert K. Thomas, assistant professor of English and Honors Program Director; L. Elliott Tuttle, assistant professor of geography; and Dr. David H. Yarn, professor of philosophy.

Three research awards were presented to outstanding faculty members to sustain research of creative projects of their choice. Dr. Delbert H. McNamara, professor of physics, received a $4,000 grant; and $2,000 grants were awarded to Dr. Clinton F. Larson, professor of English; and to Dr. Richard D. Sagers, professor of bacteriology●

Placement Center Assists Graduates

IN A POLL taken in 1965, the BYU Placement Center under the direction of Keith Duffin, was rated No. 1 in a survey of 57 western universities. Over two-thirds of the graduates took advantage of the services offered by this bureau, which keeps complete files for the use of future employers on all students who have registered since 1933. Regional and national as well as international companies are affiliated with the Placement Center. IBM, Ford Motor Co., Procter and Gamble, General Foods, the Shell Companies, the FBI and Internal Revenue Service in addition to numerous other federal agencies such as the CIA and State Department are some of the companies obtaining their manpower from the qualified graduates of Brigham Young University. As many as twenty visiting interviewers and educators a day were hosted by the University at Skyroom luncheons. Because of the heavy work load in the area of education placement, a special assistant was required who has placed over 1000 teachers into schools●

ELWC Is Living Room of The Campus

SERVING AS THE focal point of informal education at BYU, the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center provided the finest facilities for development of human potential. In a word—the building was student oriented. After years of planning and fun-contributing, construction began on June 16, 1961, and was completed April 7, 1964. One of the largest student union center in the nation, it was completely paid for at the time of its dedication on April 3, 1965. Including furnishings, the ELWC's total cost was $6,765,000 of which 60 per cent was provided by students, 18 per cent by University Auxiliary Services, and 22 per cent by the Church.

Covering six floors, the Wilkinson Center encompassed 304,600 square feet of activity space. First Level features were a 20-lane Bowling Alley, modern Games Center, Hobby Shop, Photo Studio, ten-chair Barber Shop, Credit Union office, two TV rooms, Honor Council office, music practice rooms, and the Lost and Found. The Second Level combined Bookstore, Information Desk, lonnge, 430-seat Varsity Theater, and food services into the heart of the Wilkinson Center. The spacious balconied Ballroom provided dancing space for 2500 couples.

A center for administrative offices, scheduling, food service catering, multipurpose rooms, the Third Level offered a variety of uses. Meeting rooms of all sizes throughout the building accommodated groups from 20 to 3,000, while the Fourth and Fifth Levels housed student offices and student publications. For the 11 LDS wards in BYU Second Stake, the Wilkinson Center became a meeting place on a Sunday schedule. For that special occasion, the Sixth Level Skyroom provided an elegant atmosphere for dining and dancing, besides serving lunch each day and seating 100-250 for banquets.

These Services are Indispensable

Appointed Wilkinson Center Director even before construction began, Lyle S. Curtis oversaw the never-ending student activities: rehearsals, meetings, art shows, movies, plays, firesides, special conferences and conventions, receptions, dining and dancing filled the Center constantly between 6 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and until the midnight hour on weekends. One can hardly picture campus life or comprehend how the University functioned before construction of the convenient and comfortable, attractive Ernest L. Wilkinson Center—the "living room of the campus."

Living Religion Adds to Uniqueness of B

THE UNIQUENESS of BYU manifested itself in many ways. Often referred to as the "Spirit of the Y," it was due in part to the way of life and religious activity among the student body. Pledged to live and uphold the standards of the Church in all facets of their lives, students worshipped together and grew individually through participation in Priesthood, Relief Society and MIA. The University boundaries were divided into six stakes of about 3,000 students each, presided over by Raymond E. Beckham, Clyde D. Sandgren, Fred A. Schwendiman, William R. Siddoway, Harold Goodman, and Wayne B. Hales. To adequately staff the 11 wards in each stake required almost 90 percent of the active LDS student body.

LDS auxiliary organizations made available leadership opportunities in dance, drama, music, and speech. The wards measurably contributed to campus social life, giving members the chance to involve themselves in activities as varied as Gold and Green balls, supervised temple excursions, and genealogical library research. The six stakes combined to sponsor movies, Regionality dances, a dance and song festival, and the highlight of the year's end—Y Day●

Student Government and Publications

●Several times daily the Wilkinson Center elevators ascend the heights of the building intermittently stopping on the fourth and fifth floors. Depending on the individual in the elevator, the stops on these floors could mean an irritating delay, an afternoon job, a newly-drafted constitution, a news scoop, a class meeting, a rebuttal to the last letter to the editor, a yearbook deadline, or merely a slip of the finger... "I meant to push the third floor button. What goes on up here, anyway?" You might be surprised! Your vote, opinion, or just a visit could make a difference. Here you are; here we are . . . together, but as the Prophet said, "there is a separateness in our togetherness."

300 Dive Into Leadership

AWAKENING to their potential and welcoming a unique experience, 300 Brigham Young University leaders stepped into unusual roles played during six days at Fishlake, Utah. They became "searchers"—searching for the best methods of communication, for the art of working with people, and for the strength to lead BYU for the year 1966-67.

Leadership Conference meant interacting in groups of 10 to strive towards understanding self and others; theory sessions where student leaders and university administrators expounded on the policies and programs of BYU.

Arriving back on campus, the enthusiastic leaders spent another week functioning as "Y Group Leaders"—orientating new students to the campus, the requirements of BYU, and offering helpful suggestions for adjustment to the challenge of university life●

Telling of summer experiences in the service, Student Body President Lynn Southam shares his strong feelings pertaining to student government.

Leaders Meet Demands

STUDENT GOVERNMENT always is . . . but not always the same. Every year emphasis shifted and programs changed. New leaders came into authority; the administration emphasized different areas of college life; outside events shaped what was expected of the University and what was demanded in student leaders. To the hundreds of students involved in student government these changes brought about re-evaluation, reversal of previous decisions and a revamping of organization. It brought personal satisfaction in service, the feeling of having been part of a job that needed doing to keep this university from turning into a dormant body ruled by a bureaucracy, losing half its education through the inability to accept responsibility.

ASBYU president Lynn Southam, a graying senior from Pleasant Grove, Utah, was the strong backbone of student government. A Political Science major, Lynn was known for his decisive thinking and deliberate action, on occasion standing alone against the Assembly when he felt his decision, though differing, was perhaps better.

Courts and Assembly Interpret Constitution, Promote Integrity

The judicial sector of student government, the ASBYU Supreme Court handled appeals and offenses against the university's Constitution. This judicial system was entirely student oriented and not connected in any way with administration or faculty. It was also independent of any other governing function under the president. Chief Justice Richard Sharp officiated over three Associate Justices, all of whom hold office until their schooling is terminated.

President Lynn Southam presided over the Honor Council, a student organization. Attempting to insure faculty and students' understanding of the Honor Code, which defines the individual's responsibility to maintain standards of Academic Honor and Personal Honor, this Council provided trained student counselors to work with violators. It was also a resource center for instructing students about the Code and published pamphlets describing and encouraging support of this unique "trust" system which was formally organized in 1949, but has existed informally since the founding of BYU.

Similar to the United States Senate, the ASBYU Assembly consisted of representatives from various student government operations on campus. These included two class representatives, five vice-presidents, two from inter-housing, one from IOC and two members at large. This body voted on bills pertaining to such matters as the allocation of student body funds.

The Traffic Court was composed of five student judges, each having the authority to refund money to students they found not guilty. Students who felt that tickets for traffic violations were unjust appealed to this body. The court was divided into two branches. Day Court interpreted parking violations while Night Court handled moving violations. The traffic policies were set by BYU administrators and enforced by BYU Security.

AMS Introduces New Programs

For 10,898 men students on campus, the Associated Men Students organization underwent constant change for improvement. Helping the men students to get the most out of their college life, they sponsored such programs as the Christmas Car Ride for out-of-state students arranging rides home over the holiday vacation. Also new was the JR. AMS Council chosen from the ranks of the freshmen. The organization was directed by President Dick Budge, his officers and the AMS Council.

AWS Encourages Improvement

A sister organization to the AMS, the Associated Women Students promoted the improvement of BYU coeds as individuals, women, future homemakers and career women and sponsored many activities for that purpose. The year began with the Sadie Hawkins dance and in November, Women's Week, the Preference Ball and the ever-popular search for the Most Preferred Man. Other activities during the year included banquets, fashion shows and teas. AWS membership was 9,130—the coed population of BYU.

BANYAN Staff Is A Rare One

SPRING OF 1966 announced the birth of the 1967 BANYAN as Editor Conrad H. Thorne (who attended the national Philadelphia Associated Collegiate Press convention) started planning and organizing the 512-page book. The BANYAN was the kind of massive project its creators looked back on and wondered how it was ever published. Thousands of labor hours, headaches, heartaches, trauma-inducing situations, and "fun" combined with the growing experience of working with a wide variety of personalities, and real dedication that only staff members can appreciate, to bring about this effort . . . "Are you sure there aren't 6 more pages allotted to football?" . . . "This 'fussy' bee simply must be part of the Introduction" . . . copy rewritten, fitted, rewritten . . . photos taken, printed, retaken. . .

There were several reasons that made this year's BANYAN staff unique, the first being a pint-sized assistant to the Layout and Art Director (her Daddy) named "Gina," who stole hearts away at the same time she made her contribution in rearranging the office. Creating a certain magic in the air was an ephemeral staff mem- whose sharp-shooting was plainly apparent. Cupid had a heyday on the north end of the fifth floor as evidenced by the three engagements, four marriages, and two "steady" couples among the staff members.

As working time waned into the wee small hours of the morning, roast beef sandwiches and chocolate milk from ELWC vending machines were in order. When three or more staff members were thus assembled, it constituted a BANYAN picnic, not accompanied by the summer staccato sounds of crickets, but rather the gay chirping of the UPI teletype. Faithful nocturnal workers were rewarded however, when Editor Thorne could be persuaded to present an occasional impromptu piano concert, including original compositions, in room 562.

The Spring of 1967 brought the distribution of the best BANYAN yet and announced the birth of the 1968 BANYAN as Editor Jeane Woolfenden started planning.

Daily Universe is Innovated

EVERY MINUTE of every day, five days a week, one member of a staff of 55 was working on the newspaper read by 15,000 students daily. Circulation jumped to 18,000 for specials like the 16-page full-color offset Homecoming Edition. The second-largest morning daily in the state, The Daily Universe emerged from a year of innovation and recognition. Under the direction of Neil Snow, advertising revenue increased 30 per cent, enabling an increase in the average daily size of the BYU newspaper to 12 pages.

Several changes added to the popularity and impact of the Universe on campus. Introducing a "new look," the masthead was changed to large Gothic style type. The editors encouraged greater interest in the editorial page by featuring a healthy and wide variety of regular columns, numerous letters to the editor, plus many controversial editorials. Regular columns included such diverse topics as campus humor, politics, fashion, sports, intellectualism, and the war in Vietnam. Pfc. F. Gary Jacobson served as an exclusive war correspondent for the well-read and widely-quoted Universe.

Bringing some of the world to our campus, editors traversed the nation to participate not only in press conventions, but BYU events away from home. Editor Dennis Berrett jetted to Philadelphia in November to attend the national convention of the Associated Collegiate Press. Washington, D. C., and the Student Press Association Conference was the destination of Managing Editor Jaron Summers in January. Sports Editor Gary Wood, with his staff members traveled to Chicago with the BYU Basketball team to cover their performance in the triple-header tournament.

Advertising Is Fifth Floor Charge

BYU ADVERTISING and Public Relations were the encompassing concerns of the Fifth Floor Force, and specifically the Advertising Department. The staff of eleven handled a volume of over $75,000. Duties of the Advertising and Business Managers included supervising page dummies, planning ad strategy, and keeping all accounts. Pictures and half-tones in a newspaper mat service were made available to advertisers.

No single student was found without one—a Student Directory. Edited by Wayne Spracklin, 10,000 copies were distributed during the first semester of the 1967 school year. The staff of seven collected all necessary information for the extensive guide to BYU's 20,000 with the exception of the student names collected at Registration and compiled by IBM computers.

Y Vector covered the Engineering scene—current happenings in the College of Physical and Engineering Sciences at BYU as well as new engineering developments throughout the country. With a circulation of over 800, the professional magazine was published four times a year and was completely self-sustaining from its own advertising and subscriptions. Y Vector affiliated this year with the Engineering College Magazine Association and copies were sent to alumni, engineering companies, and LDS seminaries and institutes to promote BYU's engineering program. It was also used as text by beginning engineering students. Under the editorship of Skip Hellewell, Y Vector involved more students in and out of engineering and had its most successful year.

Why the Wye Magazine? Because the Wye River in England (an appropriate namesake) has inspired many poets to bring forth works depicting noble ideals and virtues and because the literary-minded student at BYU needed an outlet for just such creative expression. Under the direction of the English Department, student writers attempted to provide something for everyone. Articles, poetry and short stories ranged from light reflections of childhood to contemplative items for the intellectual and sentimentalist. Published twice a year, Wye Magazine sales went off campus this year as a more extensive advertising campaign was initiated.

Activities

●Something very special . . . such as hearts and flowers for the Junior Prom ("glamour is wonderful, but my feet hurt"), climbing a ladder in an evening dress ("well, they don't have escalators on homecoming floats"), the dignified recessional march ("I hesitate to mention this, but you're out of step"). In our University, we feel, to paraphrase George Orwell, some things are more special than others . . . like these. . .

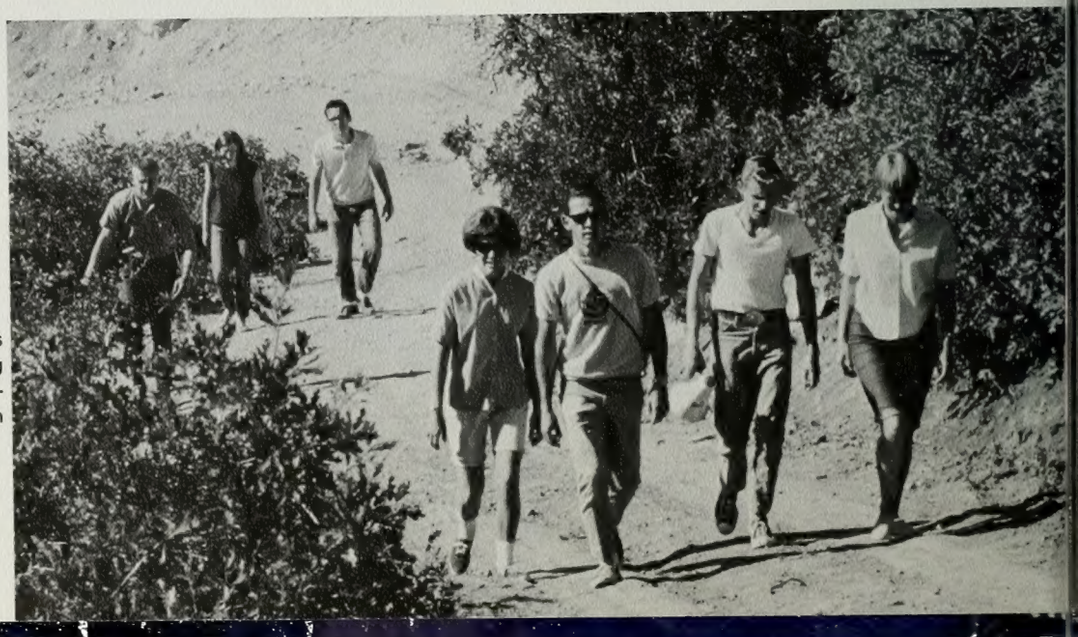
1500 Students Turned Away

Happiness is . . . discovering a friendly face (above) in the maddening rush of registration and making congenial introductions.



Neither dust nor heat (right) keeps these stalwart hikers from making the traditional trek to the "Y" mountain at the conclusion of Freshman Orientation Week.

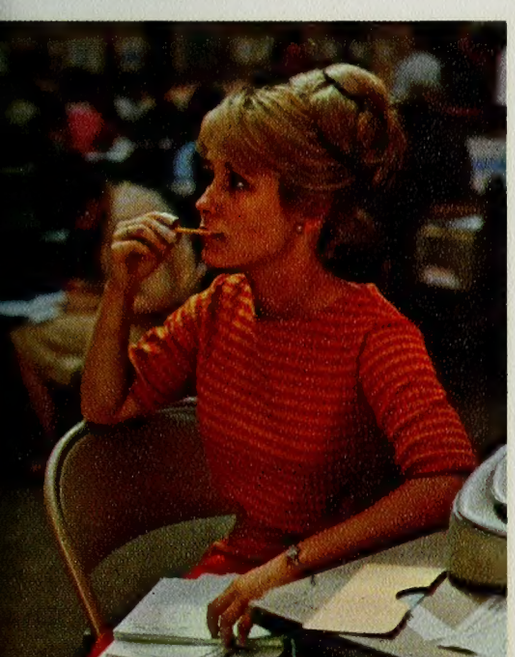
A concerned young lady (left) finds that an older, wiser friend con be helpful when pondering a decision.

BLINKING like bewildered cougar cubs, 6,700 freshman and transfer students overcame the initial frustration of Fall Registration to meet their first year at BYU with enthusiasm. They experienced feelings of relief and gratitude when made aware that 1,500 prospective students were turned away. Rather than place an additional strain on BYU facilities, President Ernest L. Wilkinson stated . . . "our basic and more important challenge is to create visions in our scholastically improved student body so that a greatly improved Latter-day Saint culture will arise and endure."

IBM machines, walkie-talkies, and patient faculty advisers attempted to relieve confusion, but once again the Smith Fieldhouse became a beehive of activity and exasperation as experienced upperclassmen registered at the rate of 800 an hour. For a record 21,355 students the process of securing class cards, paying tuition and fees, and being reduced in identity to a six-digit number was only part of the challenge.

Orientation included various recreational activities, open houses and getting acquainted in "Y" Groups. New students were guided by upperclassmen to the campus and traditions and customs, in short—to the way a cougar "prowls" ●

This bewildered miss (above) pauses to catch her breath and to determine if the class she wants is still open—a familiar sight during the registration rush.



Discouragement is reflected in this pretty but weary coed's face (left) as she revises her class schedule for the third . . . or is it the thirty-third time?

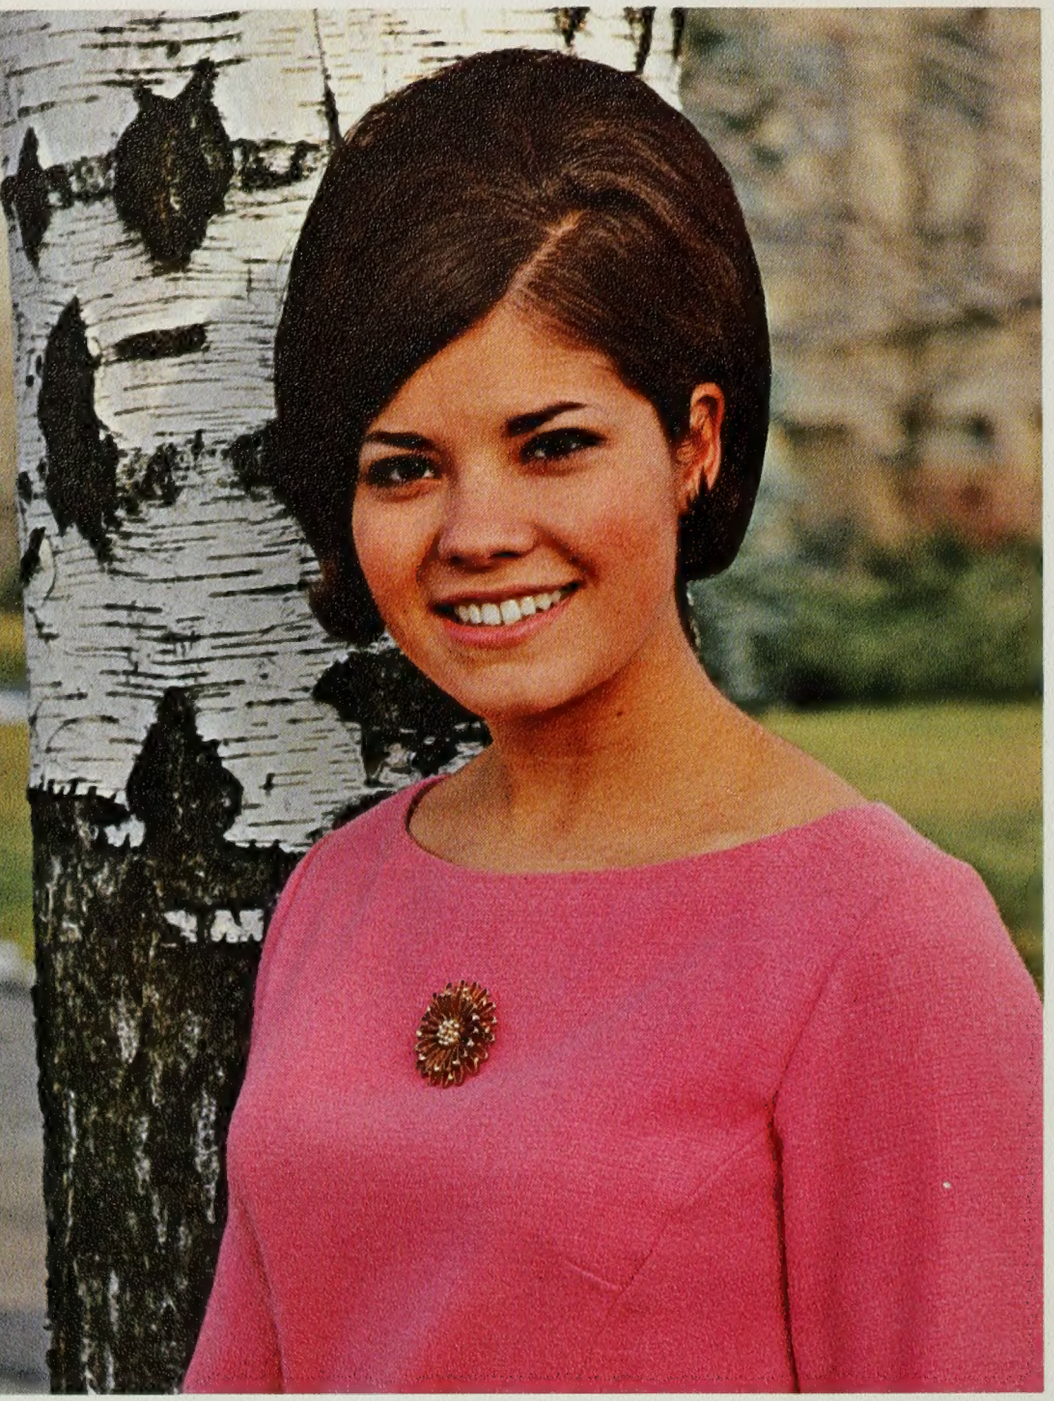
Cougar World Balloons to Homecoming Heights

"SHADES OF FALL have kissed the air . . ." and heralded in BYU Homecoming 1966—"It's a Cougar World." With the arrival of visiting alumni on campus, the first week of November began with anticipation and varied activities. Competitive events in Track and Field, a Turtle Trot, Art Contest, Gymkhana and entertainment throughout the week led to Friday night's festivities which commenced with the Homecoming Concert featuring the Serendippity Singers and popular Kingston Trio. Formally dressed concert-goers then departed for one of the nine dances. To carry out the international theme, decorations represented different foreign countries. The unforgettable evening came to a close with the presentation of Queen Afton and her attendants at each dance.

The brilliance of a crisp Autumn morning provided a background for the vivd color and pageantry—the cougars and the worlds—of the Homecoming parade and housing decorations. Almost 80 units were entered in the parade by various ward, housing, and campus organizations. Sleepless nights, harried days, and academic abandonment were the results of time and talents given by many to decorating and float building. But in spite of it all, one continually heard this exclamation around the campus: "How I love this time of the year!" The chilling wind had little effect on the frenzied crowd at Cougar Stadium Saturday as football fans roared with excitement to see the Cougars 53-33 win over Texas Western University, one of the best games of the season.

Against the backdrop of an azure sky, a determined cougar (left) encourages spectators to "ban the offensive Miners." This float is a vivid example of the hard work that created each entry. Snug in his blimp made of bright balloons, (right) Fugal Hall's cougar prepares to soar over BYU as a colorful reminder of the gladness and anticipation of Homecoming.

Dark-eyed Beauty Reigns as Queen



"How many warm memories can time allow?" For a Homecoming Queen they will be memories to cherish forever. Darkly beautiful Afton Young, a Junior miss majoring in Clothing and Textiles from Westminister, California reigned as 1966 Homecoming Queen. From a family of 10 sisters and one brother, Afton expressed her gratitude for this growing experience and its opportunities to learn to share and love. She looks forward to having a temple marriage and would like to become the kind of wife that her husband will want to come home to after working all day. Afton is appreciative of honest communication in people and said that being Queen afforded her the opportunity to meet President David O. McKay and made her realize how wonderful people are.

Being named First Attendant was only one of blonde Kay Merrill's many titles, but a special one because she said she was representing something she loved. From Farmington, Utah, fair Kay (above) was a senior in Dramatic Arts and performed a major role in "Ah, Wilderness." A pert strawberry blonde, the Second Attendant was Kassie Felt of Brigham City, Utah (below). She felt that being chosen Homecoming attendant was a humbling responsibility. The sparkling junior enjoys the exhilaration of skiing and plans to teach elementary school.

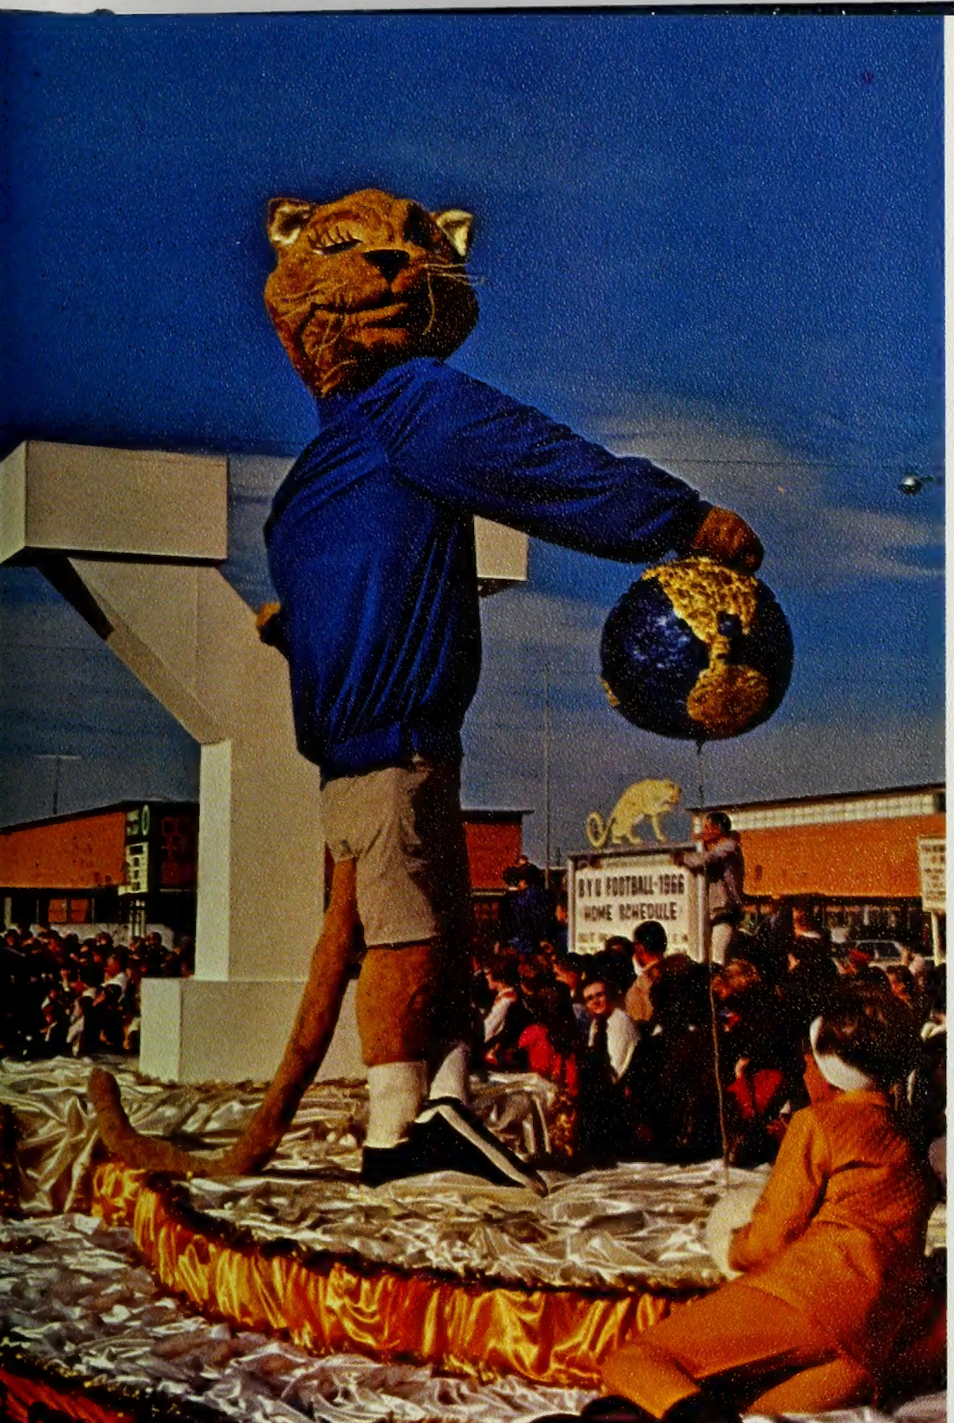
As decorated turtles (right) vie for the coveted champion title, sponsoring fans cheer enthusiastically in the "Nubby World" turtle race, one of the new Homecoming events this year.



A very special part of Homecoming 1966 was "My Cougar World," a theme song especially written and composed by senior Terry Jeffers. The fitting words and lovely melody enjoyed immediate popularity in a Capitol recording featuring soloists Wendy Johnson and Gordon Harkness. Homecoming Chairman Roy Brown said, "We feel this song and the way it was presented, did as much as anything to make Homecoming a success."

Homecoming climaxed and became memorable Saturday night in the Program Bureau's Fieldhouse Frolics. Called one of America's finest college extravaganzas, it was that indescribable, indefinable presentation of talent and personalities that combined to represent the "Spirit of the Y." Special guest Jessie Evans Smith received a standing ovation for her rendition of "I Believe."

Bringing Homecoming to its close, Howard W. Hunter of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles spoke to students of a "Spiritual Cougar World" in a fireside Sunday evening. Remembrances of the breathtaking weekend may have dimmed a little with reflection and the thought that soon for many this Cougar World would become "just a light in the past"●

Engineering Relates to Human Environment

GEARED TO THE THEME "Engineering for Human Development," BYU observed National Engineering Week, Feb. 20-25, always held during the week of Washington's birthday because he was an engineer. An open-house allowed the public to tour the Harvey Fletcher Engineering Science Laboratory Building and view graphic projects on display from each professional field.

Civil engineers illustrating "Modern Engineering Advancements Meet Human Needs," exhibited a model of a revolutionary thin shell dam and the award-winning display of the proposed athletic fieldhouse. Considered by the judges to be the outstanding department exhibit, electrical engineers illustrated "Electronics, the Nervous System of Future Transportation." The obvious problem of air pollution was considered in the mechanical engineers' exhibit, "Engineering Control of Atmospheric Contamination," while chemical engineers practically displayed "Control of Man's Environment in Space."

Women "Climb Every Mountain"

ONE HAD ONLY to browse through the display of coed talent on exhibit in the Wilkinson Center Art Gallery to sense the distinctly feminine touch on campus as Women's Week unfolded. Themed "Climb Every Mountain," each day of the week represented a climb upwards, promoting Culture, Spirituality, Creativity, and Beauty—qualities that represented and helped to define the true meaning and realm of womanhood.

Sponsored by the Associated Women Students, booths were set up Monday at various locations on campus where international women displayed native cultures in the form of cooking, sewing and craft demonstrations. Women students were also encouraged to enter a creative writing contest. Florence S. Jacobsen, YWMIA General President, graced the Tuesday Devotional place. After she encouraged students to set goals and reach them, she was met by BYU women in a special reception. Wednesday brought professional cake decorating, painting, and tissue paper flower-making displays.

Spirited Coeds Select Most Preferred Man

The "Cowboy Magician," comedian Clive Court (above) provides entertainment before Preference Ball.

Charm and Beauty were emphasized on Thursday by fashion coordinators and coiffure consultants. An interesting touch was a fashion show in the BYU Bookstore window featuring live models. Elaine Cannon, Associate editor of the Era of Youth, spoke of a more serious beauty—that which comes from within.

November 18 marked Friday evening's Concert and Preference Ball, "Only in Dreams," the grand finale to Women's Week. The formal dance featured an Arabian Nights motif in oriental red and ornate gold, and entitled every BYU damsel to invite the date of her choice. The week before had meant the anxiety of waiting in long lines and even battling other coeds in order to have first choice for "that preferred man."

The highlight of Women's Week was of course . . . a man. Chosen as Most Preferred Man for 1966-67 was handsome senior Bob Hughes of Spanish Fork, Utah. A Speech and Drama major with a Physical Education minor, he plans to pursue a teaching career in the Church Seminary program. This was Bob's second year as a Yell Leader for BYU. From an original field of 64 men sponsored by housing units, clubs, and organizations, voting lasses limited the group to 24 and then to 12 finalists from which he was chosen●

"Imported Snow" Brings Fame

WHILE THE EASTERN states were mercilessly battered by driving snow and blizzards, truckloads of the white stuff had to be hauled onto the BYU campus for the annual Winter Carnival Snow Sculpturing competition. Receiving national news coverage, the "imported" snow creations were sponsored by various organizations and housing units and then judged for their artistic merit and ingenuity. Delta Phi Kappa took First Place for the second consecutive year with their re-creation of a Volkswagen in the snow.

The 1967 Winter Y-Land Week featured hot chocolate and donuts and such competitive festivities as skiing, hockey, and ice carving as well as the Winter Y-Land Follies. Promising to be a popular annual event, the Follies were new this year and presented the Sculpture awards and Carnival Royalty to the students.

Climaxing the week on Friday evening were The Lettermen in concert, singing "Our Winter Love," the Carnival theme song. The popular group entertained with a much-requested list of favorites including "When I Fall in Love," "Smile," "The Way You Look Tonight," and "A Summer Place." Accompanied by the Wilson Brown Trio, they impersonated hit groups and performed a medley from the musical "West Side Story."

Regal Pair Rules in Winter Y Land

Suggestions of dripping icicles, swirling snowflakes and a Winter village mural scene transformed the Wilkinson Center into the Winter Y-Land Dance. Sixteen-hundred couples danced on a floor covered with imitation snow crystals to the music of the Carl Williams' Quintet. Vocalists were Sandy Jensen and the Andersen Sisters.

Chosen as 1967 Carnival Royalty were Karen Lynn and Don Dalrymple. Snow Queen Karen, a sophomore nursing major, hailed from Los Angeles, California. An art and dance enthusiast, she was sponsored by Angel Flight. Supported by the Young Men, King Don from Seattle, Washington, claimed the distinction of being the nation's youngest pilot at the age of 16. A political science major, he served a West German mission and plans to enter Law School after graduation from BYU.

Both avid sports enthusiasts, the First Attendants were Tanya Palmer from Preston, Idaho, and the defensive captain of the BYU football team, Bobby Roberts from Pleasant Hill, California. Second Attendants were Cheryl Benike from Santa Ana, California, and Lance Miner of Orem.

Top Politicians Address BYU

CURRENT AFFAIRS became more current with the October visit of Hubert Humphrey, Vice-President of the United States. Speaking to the student body of America's role in the modern world, the Democratic leader stressed th importance of setting a good example at home in the U.S. before we can expect to be successful preachers of freedom abroad. He praised BYU for its contribution to the world in the form of touring program groups.

U.S. Republican Senator Wallace F. Bennett came to the campus in November. A 16-year member of the Senate, he commented on a dangerous trend seen in federal government and proposed solutions for reversing it. These included strengthening congressional representation, increasing individual abilities of men, and reducing the federal drain of private resources●

Commenting on the affairs of the U.S. at home and abroad, Senator Wallace F. Bennett (left and right) said we should elect congressmen who ask questions and reject the idea that the government is our only problem-solver.

LDS Leaders Visit BYU

Canadian student Emery Baldrey meets with his bishop.

MORE THAN 2,000 LDS bishops, presidents of stakes, missions, and branches from throughout the world visited BYU Friday, April 7. The Church leaders are guests of the University each April during the General LDS Conference. Guests sat among local students, who were seated in the Smith Fieldhouse according to their geographic homes. The groupings aroused some cheering for the home states before the assembly began. Following an address by President Ernest L. Wilkinson, the leaders viewed a cross-section of BYU talent which included the Program Bureau, International Folk Dancers, the Y Americans, Orchestra and Choirs. Luncheon was served in the Wilkinson Center followed by reunions. The guests were then show BYU campus●

One-day Conference recess brought a record assembly attendance.

Internationals

REVOLVING around the theme "It's a Small World," the International Students Organization brought culture, brotherhood and interest to the campus during International Week. The 942 foreign students from 54 countries comprised nearly 5 per cent of BYU's entire enrollment. Commenting on why he came to BYU, ISO President Zeke Sanchez said, "We come here to study the American form of government. We see how it functions and then try to apply it." With this idea in mind, a Model United Nations has been active on campus this year as many of the students represented their own countries.

During the successful week, Mrs. Francis Nyeu, wife of a nationalist Chinese representative, lectured on "The May Fourth Revolution in China." Other lectures, displays and presentations took students around the world in a week. The cafeteria offered students a special dish indigenous to the featured area of the world for the day, and films from various countries were shown each afternoon in the Varsity Theater. Judged two of the best exhibits, the Indian and Pakastani displays featured native music and burning incense, creating an atmosphere that swept observers and participators away to those "far-away places with strange-sounding names . .●"

Belle of the Y is

SEARCHING FOR THE Ideal Girl at Brigham Young University, the annual Belle of the Y Contest was themed "Traditionally Yours." Forty-eight lovely hopefuls—and then six finalists—needed to be versatile also as they competed for high point totals in areas of Beauty, Poise and Personality, Arts and Crafts, Cake Baking, Dance, Culture, Talent, and Popularity. Breath-taking indeed was the evening of March 10 as the long-awaited moment finally arrived—the block Y on the mountain blazed and beside it, the flaming initials L and T.

Traditionally Ours

Blue-eyed freshman Belle Laura Tippetts came to BYU on an academic scholarship from San Diego, California, to major in English. With interests in creative writing, sewing, and dramatic arts, she philosophizes that people must work to be happy. Commenting on being Belle, Laura said of her visit to President David O. McKay—"This has been the most thrilling part of the whole contest."

First Attendant Susan Fry from Chicago spent five hours frosting her cake. A Ballroom Dancer, the sophomore collects antique china, enjoys swimming and majored in Elementary Education.

Men Students Honor Billy

"He-men" indulge in tasty pie-eating race followed by Men's Week Indian wrestling and tug-of-war contests.

FAR BETTER THAN "par for the course" was the AMS-sponsored Men's Week, March 20-25. With emphasis on the qualities that represent exemplary Manhood, Monday was "Athletic Day" and featured karate and fencing demonstrations; AFROTC participated in "Armed Forces Day" Tuesday; the Vietnam conflict was the debate subject for "Intellectual Day" on Wednesday; Thursday's "Cultural Day" sponsored a fashion show; and Friday was proclaimed by Mayor Dixon as "Billy Casper Day."

Billy Casper, the PGA 1966 Player-of-the-Year, was chosen to receive the AMS Exemplary Manhood Award at the AMS Spectacular Banquet-Dance at which the Otustanding Men in each College at BYU were also honored. Since 1954 when he turned professional, Casper has been victorious in 33 tournaments and earned over $500,000. In 1966 he captured the U. S. Open title, and won the Western, San Diego, and Indianapolis 500 Open tournaments. He is respected among pro golfers for his calm concentration and discipline, and putting ability.

The tanned handsome, even-tempered "Brother" Casper intrigued Forum assembly and Banquet audiences with the story of his conversion to the LDS religion, stating ". . . . the greatest change I have ever experienced came over my life." He and his radiant wife Shirley and their three children were baptized members of the Church on January 1, 1966. This Exemplary Man made an inspiring and memorable course of Men's Week.

Mobile Units Provide Convenient Polls

WITH A VERY COMFORTABLE 72 per cent of the votes Paul Gilbert of Provo was elected ASBYU President for 1967-1968. Of the 20,000 students enrolled, 9,516 voters or 47 per cent of the student body went to the polls. Perhaps the greatest single reason for the election success was the greater availability of voting booths. Two mobile units were stationed at different points in Provo, allowing students their first opportunity to cast ballots off campus.

Bringing the usual air of electricity, the cement stretch of campus between the library and David O. McKay building became a veritable carnival of campaigning. A peopled maze . . . hoarse voices making campaign promises, friendly politicians, and outstretched hands . . . all of these added to the excitement of election time and created a confusion that while confusing, was still enjoyed and decided that Merwin Grant will preside over Social activities; Bob Fitch, Athletics; Grant Richards, Academics; Russ Booth, Culture; Lee Radebaugh, Finance; and Lowell Castleton, Student Relations●

Vera Miles Accepts Award

FORMER MISS AMERICA contestant, actress Vera Miles attended a special assembly with Disney representative Winston Hibler for the BYU Family Movie of the Year Award honoring the film "Follow Me, Boys." A musical tribute to the late Walt Disney was rendered by the BYU Concert Band including such favorites as "Whistle While You Work," and "When You Wish Upon A Star." Guest speaker for the assembly was L. H. Curtis of KSL-TV. "We are met here to honor excellence," he said, indicating that the award was to encourage excellence in the production of family movies. A final response was made by Vera Miles who played the wife of actor Fred McMurray in the movie. Other activities during the day included a question and answer period with Miss Miles and Mr. Hibler, a tour of the campus and motion picture studio, and a luncheon sponsored by ASBYU officers. Concluding the day's events, an evening banquet was held in the Wilkinson Center Ballroom. Sponsored by BYU, KSL-TV and Radio, The Deseret News, and the Improvement Era, the trophy was presented that evening by President N. Eldon Tanner●

Highlighting the program were popular recording stars Sandi and Sally.

Musical number and skit features Provo's Andersen Sisters (above) who were followed by 30 Boy Scouts piling out of a pitched tent.

Lovely Vera Miles' gracious personality and radiant charm were felt and appreciated by all in her presence.

Pleased expressions light the faces of Miss Miles and Mr. Hibler—narrator and writer for 30 years, he indicated that the Walt Disney organization would continue on unchanged.

ian Week Features Varied Cultures

BRINGING THE MAGIC and charm of balmy islands, colorful peoples, and fragrance of tropical blossoms to BYU, "Polynesia Calls" was a special week. Singing, dancing, food and displays of South Sea cultures were features during Polynesian Week. Monday the Hawaiian Club displayed costumes, artifacts, and handicrafts, and members of that culture were on hand to explain their way of life. During the noon hour, entertainment was presented by Hawaiian singers and dancers. The Samoans were highlighted in a similar program on Tuesday, followed by the Maori groups from the "land of the Long White Cloud" on Wednesday, and Tahitians on Thursday.

A festive Luau, or Polynesian feast was served in the Wilkinson Center ballroom on Thursday evening, the main course a kalua pig wrapped in leaves and cooked on hot coals. Chicken, long rice, poi, fruits and lomi lomi (fish) completed the exotic fare. Activities concluded with an assembly where the audience was taken on a tour of Hawaii, Samoa, Tahiti, and New Zealand through dances and songs of each group●

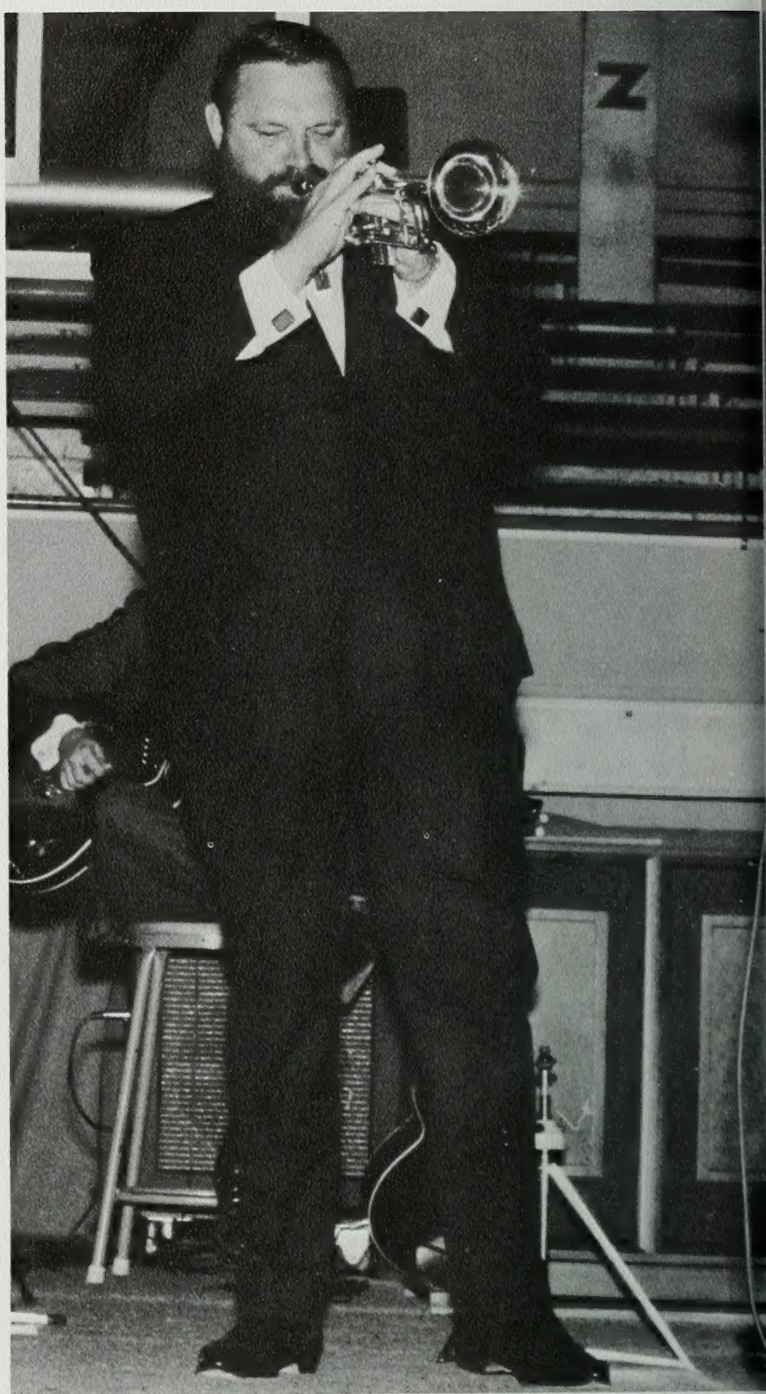
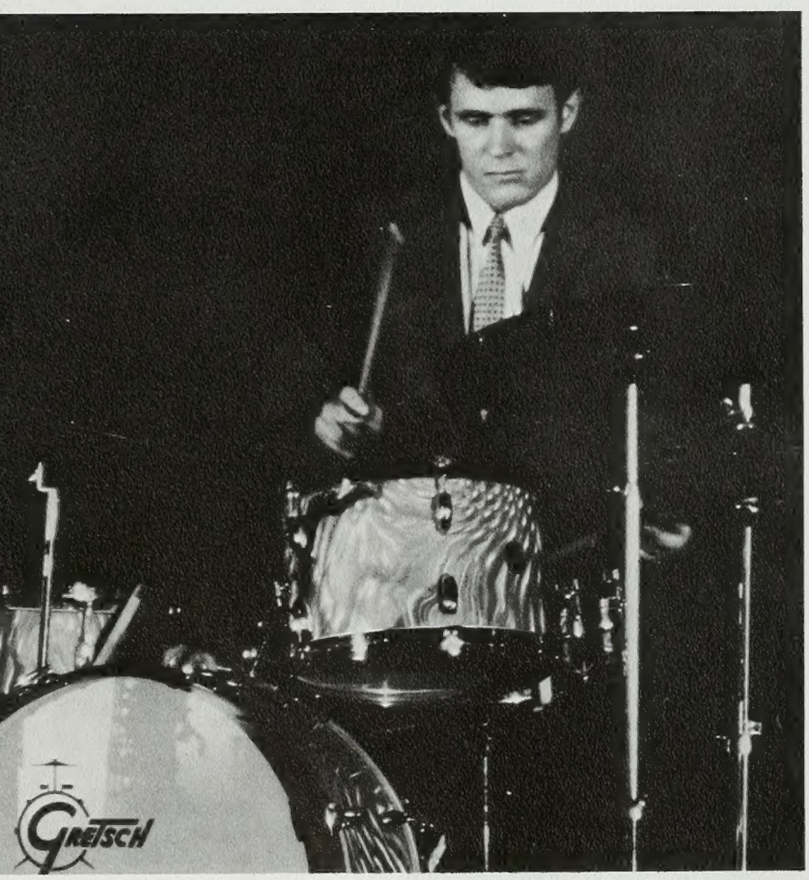
"Tara By Twilight" Charms Prom-Goers

THE WAFTING FRAGRANCE of gardenia corsages and scenes of Southern mansions transformed BYU's Wilkinson Center Ballroom into a plantation garden. Recalling an earlier romantic era vividly brought to life in the American classic Gone With the Wind, "Tara by Twilight" made April 15 one of the social year's most gala events. George Fisher's Orchestra provided Prom musical atmosphere, and the Junior Class draped the balconies, and adorned pillars and trellises with over a thousand flowers. Southern "belles" at each exit presented each coed with a single long-stemmed rose—in true gracious Southern style.

Trumpeter Al Hirt and his combo were the featured Concert attraction. His shining trumpet disappearing like a toy into a broad, bearded face, the well-received virtuoso delighted the audience with such favorites as the captivating "Music to Watch Girls By" and the lilting strains of "Cotton Candy." Each of the six combo members was featured on one or two solos including piano, organ, electric bass, drums, sax, and clarinet. Joking affably, happy-faced Hirt established a warm rapport with the audience, then he and his Dixieland group left them on the banks of the Mississippi with a swinging version of "New Orleans, My Home Town."



Some people have attributed Hirt's motivation to the fact that he has eight children. The popular entertainer confirmed this, adding, "It's rough sometimes. Have you ever tried to make Jello in the bathtub?"

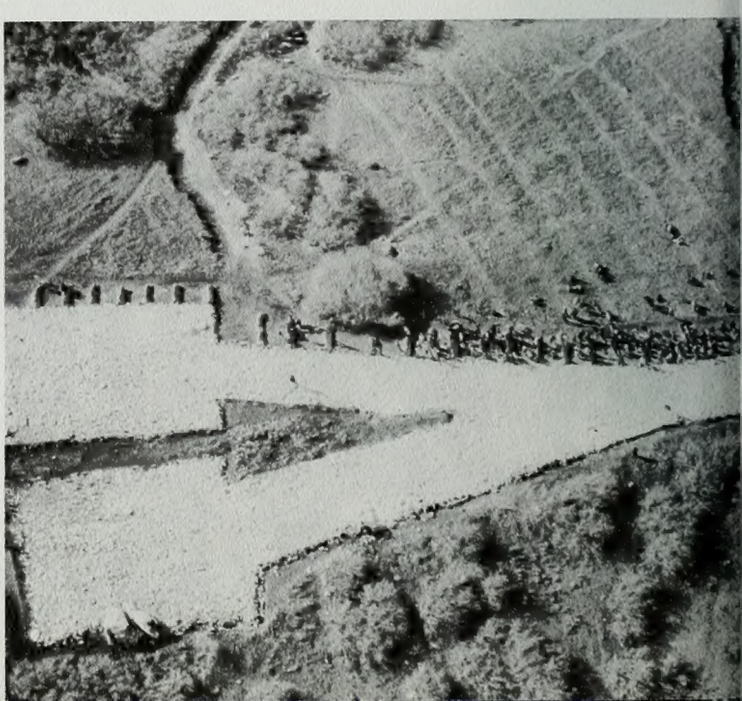


Capturing audience, drummer with the Al Hirt combo (left) highlights Dave Brubeck number with an eight-minute solo.

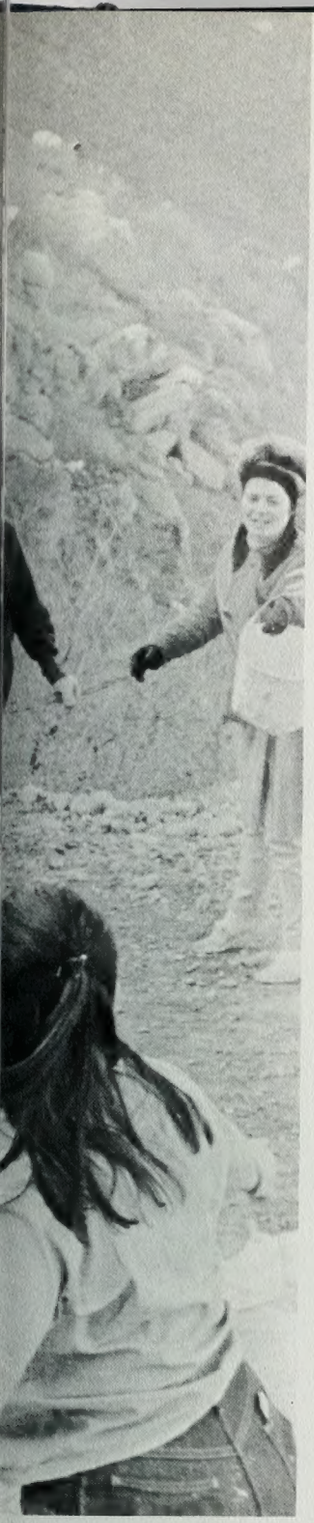
Prom-goers enjoy Tropicana refreshments (above) in southern atmosphere as they are entertained by a special minstrel show, "Our Gang."

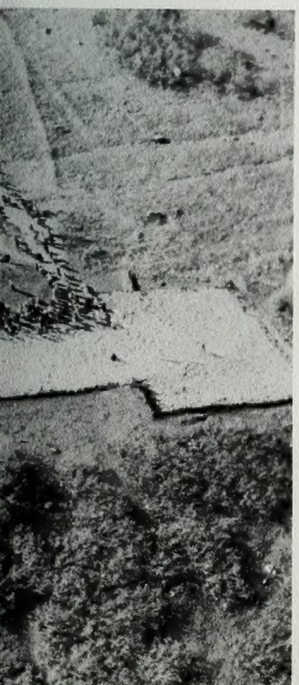
A Confederate flag, flower-draped balconies, and mansion scenes create southern charm of "Tara By Twilight."

Even though an occasional coed was passed up the serpentine line, members of 17 LDS wards manage to transport whitewash to the Y in bucket brigade.



The newly-whitened 380-foot block Y miniaturizes its 1800 face-washers (right) in this aerial view.





Y Day Swings With Buckets Full of Fun

TOM SAWYER would have envied this whitewashing job—but maybe not the stamina and adventurous spirit required to arise at 5:30 a.m., trek 2,000 feet up steep rocky terrain, and then balance precariously on frozen feet for over 2 hours passing endless buckets of lime to wash the face of the block Y. Every Spring since 1906, BYU students have climbed the old Y trail not only to rejuvenate the cherished letter but to maintain and promote the spirit of tradition surrounding it.

The annual Y Day provided "Buckets Full of Fun" as nearly 1,800 mountain climbers formed a snake-like bucket brigade up to the block letter that measured 380 feet long and 60 feet wide at the top. From the mixing station at the base of the line, a double line of students passed the buckets of 75 fifty-pound sacks of lime and 200 pounds of salt mixed in water to the top of the Y where it was poured into vats feeding a pump sprayer that whitened the entire area from top to bottom.

Slipping, sliding, and screeching on their descending journey, lime-spattered whitewashers swarmed with other workers to Cougar Stadium for "buckets full of food." Claiming work passes and voracious appetites, they devoured (would you believe?) over two tons of spaghetti and meat balls, 4,000 heads of lettuce in a heaping salad, over 1,000 gallons of milk and orange juice, and 1,000 gallons of ice cream.

As the Y was whitewashed, student (above) found himself experiencing the same.

Kicking off activities in a pre-Y Day concert, balladier Glenn Yarbrough (left) sings in his unique, well-known style in fieldhouse.

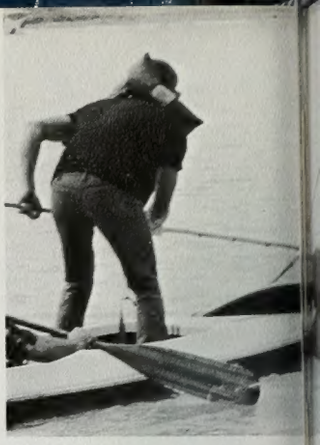
75th Y Day - - "It Was Worth It!"

By the 15,000 students not assigned to Y mountain, an estimated $50,000 worth of work was donated to Provo City and surrounding area on Y Day in America's biggest and oldest whirlwind clean-up campaign. In spite of the fact that May 3 was the only vacation students were granted during the entire second semester, they compiled approximately 45,000 man hours in cleaning, painting, and beautifying the Provo airport, parks, cemeteries, golf courses, empty lots, play grounds and camp sites.

As usual, the afternoon of Y Day was reserved for amusement, fun, and recreation. Stadium activities included everything from pollywog races to Carnival booths, while Utah Lake was the site for kayak and tubing races, water sports and boating, a dance and campfire. The Richards PE Building and ELWC offered every variety of game and sports participation imaginable. For late afternoon relaxation movies were shown and climaxing the "one-day vacation" was "Encore '67," a review of top events of the school year 1966-67 performed by BYU's top talent. Sponsored by the ASBYU Culture Office, it was followed by a live-band dance in the Wilkinson Center—but who could dance by then?

Renewed, sunburned, and completely exhausted, enthusiasts of Y Day gazed with pride at the newly-washed letter lit on the mountainside that night, and many were still heard to remark, "It was worth it!"

At least for a day, Tom Sawyer never had it so good!



Afternoon amusement and activities took place in Cougar stadium and at Utah Lake: thrilling motorcycle races (above); all the spaghetti you could eat; relay racing with wiggling pollywogs; (all right) just plain horsing around in the water; and a sling shot that used coeds as ammunition—something for everyone on Y Day.

Like knights without the shining armor, Cougars of valor battle (left) in kayak jousting contest at Utah Lake.

John Hall proves its superior strength, downing all opposition in Tug of War competition.

Coeds chum up in teams (left) with three legs each in stadium races. Rubbing ankles can have its entangling consequences.

Organizations

●Extra-curricular activities . . . who needs them? . . . maybe not a fifth-year Freshman. "Concentrate on your homework, son," his adviser would say. "If you really work, we'll get you over that 32-hour barrier and you'll be a Sophomore next semester! . . . Yes, you might have to give up Fencing Club, International Students (you are from Orem, you know), Ballroom Dancers, and Shomrah Kiyel." He is the exception, the remaining 19,999 students here can serve and be served by membership in an organization on campus. The high school cheerleader, pep-club president, and yearbook editor can feel jolted, to say the least, at the realization that there are hundreds like them here who, chances are, also feel "out of order." There are organizations for everyone and they need members to function . . . take your choice!

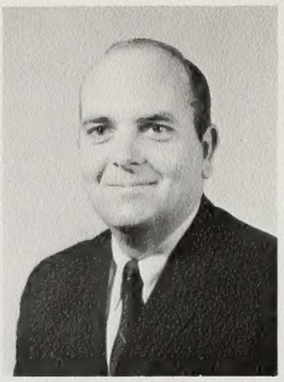
Alpha Phi Omega



Steven Atwood
President

The Eta Omicron Chapter of the Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity was organized at BYU in 1948. From its founding Eta Omicron has served the school through such projects as selling stadium seats at games, ushering at devotional assemblies, maintaining a first aid booth at athletic events and on Y day, and working at the campus information booth. They also provided officials at track meets, sponsored the annual Ugly Man on Campus Drive for the campus chest, and assisted in local Boy Scout councils and conferences. With a philosophy of developing leadership and furthering the spirit of brotherhood and service, Eta Omicron participated in ISC Week, established a scholarship program for men in youth leadership, and enjoyed a dinner-dance.

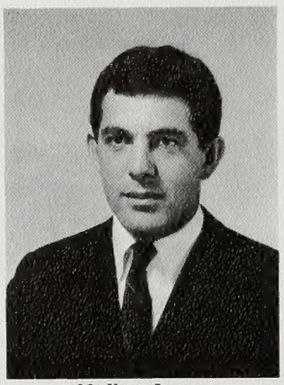
Blue Key



Madlyn Jensen
President

Campus leaders in scholastic, religious, and student government activities comprise the national honor fraternity Blue Key. Since its beginning at the University of Florida in 1924, membership was sought after "because it stamped men with the brains and ability to think straight, to act after due deliberation, and to make their contribution to the University." The BYU Chapter was organized in 1932 with willing members striving since to improve student life. These junior and senior men with 3.2 GPA's have contributed in areas of the University as varied as honor, scholarship, safety, athletics and campus beautification. Placement of needed bulletin boards, the Brigham Young Statue, and providing the baseball scoreboard, Wagon Wheel, and Y Victory Bell have been services of Blue Key. In the interest of promoting faculty morale and student pride in BYU's teaching staff, Professor of the Month competition was initiated this year by Blue Key. Activities included a Fall Pledge Dinner, a Spring Formal and Initiation, and Senior Breakfast in the Skyroom to honor graduates.

Sixty Chi Tri's began their year with a Welcome Back Party, then launched into a round of activities: Vivian Park was the site of a Halloween exchange with CAA. Members also enjoyed a Mormon Tabernacle Choir Broadcast and Testimony Meeting on Temple Square, and a Winter Formal in Salt Lake. Samuel Hall Society participated in a fireside and exchange, and a Christmas party marked the end of the first semester's activities and beginning of rush activities for pledges. Keeping in mind their goal . . . "If there is anything virtuous, lovely, or of good report or praiseworthy, we seek after these things," Chi Triellas closed the year with a Spring Formal and election of officers for the coming year.

Circle K

Clyde Louk
President

Circle K International has been in existence for 10 years nationally with approximately 735 clubs throughout the United States and Canada, and a membership of 14,000. The unit has been on the BYU campus for eight of these 10 years. Since 1959, when the Utah-Idaho district of Circle K was formed, this service unit has filled its time with service to the University ushering concerts, guiding tours, aiding visitors, and sponsoring Turtle Trots. This year the Circle K inaugurated the "Knothole project" for children 14 years old and under to see the football games. The proceeds from this project made scholarships of $100 each for three BYU students.

President

In 1913 an organization known as the Three I's initiated the spirit that now prevails in the Collegiate Athletic Association. Chartered in 1962 to function as an athletic service organization, CAA members have since assisted in ticket distribution and ushering for athletic events and with special projects such as the Christmas card campaign for servicemen in Viet Nam. One of the Association's most outstanding activities of the year was sponsoring lovely Queen Afton Young as their Homecoming Royalty candidate. As well as school spirit promotional events, CAA social events of the year included the favorite Western Breakfast, Halloween party, annual Deerbust, a Tubing Snow party and traditional Topper Picnic at the year's end. Cougar Club

Clark Christensen
President

Designated as the official booster organization of BYU, Cougar Club was originally formed in 1963 as a student organization. The National Cougar Club now boasts seven other chapters of over 400 members whose membership dues contributed over $30,000 to the BYU Athletic Department this year. Promoting BYU athletic programs, Cougar Club at the same time provided a unique fraternal association for its members. Such annual events as the Alumni-Varsity football and Frosh-Varsity basketball games were sponsored by this campus chapter which also directed the production and distribution of "Rise and Shout!" an LP album of BYU college sounds and songs. Prospective athletes were shown around the campus by Cougar Club members who aided also in the closed-circuit televising of basketball games and edited the weekly sports publication, "Chalk Talk."

Cougarettes

Judi Miller
President

"Up Cherry Street" and like "A Taste of Honey," the sparkling Cougarettes are a special part of BYU. Vivacious freshman and sophomore women wearing blue and white, they served as a campus spirit unit while at the same time developing a sisterhood through social activities. Their synchronized, head-turning routines were frequently performed to the rousing and popular sounds of the TJB. Encouraging game enthusiasm through spirited football and basketball halftime shows, they accompanied the teams on such away trips as the basketball tournament in Chicago. On these occasions the Cougarettes not only represented and cheered for the absent sudent body but invariably charmed the opposition as well, assuring at least a feminine victory every time! Following their final Fieldhouse performance, the coeds were presented with a single rose each, a fitting tribute for such lovely Y spirit.

Delian Vesta

Marie Hodson
President

The motto was "My Better Parts Above the Stars Shall Soar;" the colors powder blue, white and silver; the club was Delian Vesta, a relatively new cultural unit on campus organized in 1964. Taking the names of the Greek god of truth (Delian) and goddess of the home and hearth (Vesta), members aimed at self-government and preparation for service in the home. During February Rush, 45 new members were welcomed at a Pledge Dinner and Canyon Party and new officers were installed at a Testimonial Breakfast. Other activities were a Luau in September with six candle passings, a Homecoming Dinner with members and alumnae, a Halloween Square Dance and Christmas Canyon Party. Spring semester brought a Roaring Twenties Party in March and Spring Dinner-Dance in May. Promoting personal development and strong bonds of friendship, Delian Vesta participated in and supported BYU activities.

Díleas Chalean

Phyllis Nuttall
President

Officially organized in 1963, Dileas Chalean (Gaelic for "Women of Devotion") is a service unit drawing its membership from all four classes. Working directly with the Public Relations Office, they have served the University by conducting campus tours for visitors, including elementary school children and important dignitaries. Ushering, staffing the information booth, selling tickets, participating in ISC Service Week, and sponsoring an annual book drive to send literature to Asian countries were duties performed. Inspiring invitational speakers opened new vistas for the young women in firesides; a slumber party was held as well as social exchanges, and co-sponsorship of a Homecoming float with Alpha Phi Omega. Dileas Chalean pledges participated in a six-week training and pledging program which ended with a special early morning initiation ceremony and completed their year of service and activity with a Spring Banquet.

Intercollegiate Knights

The reek of kerosene was hardly bearable, but somehow went unnoticed in the excitement and preparation of torches for lighting the Y. Tensely they awaited the hour of 8:30, then the race was on! Torches were passed as quickly as possible down both sides of the great white Y. At the finish, hundreds of tiny fires burned orange all down the mountain, and from the campus, the gilded symbol blazed gold against the black night. The IK's have traditionally held this charge since 1919. Sponsoring the Belle of the Y was the year's highlight, a week charged with activity and anticipation, but the club claims its real pride in its dedication to service which constituted over ten thousand hours annually. Hats go off to the IK's for outstanding performance in promoting and sustaining the Y Spirit.

Norsemen

Bob Taylor
President

The Norsemen Sports club was organized in 1962 to offer its members a wide base for athletic achievement and a well rounded social life. They were built around four ideals, service, sportsmanship, scholarship, and sociability, keeping in mind at all times the fraternal brotherhood and unity of the ancient Norsemen. The members considered this year their most memorable. They received the first place supremacy trophy for the Homecoming activities and won first place in the annual blood drive. The Norsemen's interests enveloped many areas; hunting, skiing, intramurals and varied social events. A winter formal, a spring luau, and numerous sports nights filled the year. Through participation in these areas a strong feeling of brotherhood has developed in the members.

Program Bureau

Thomas Powell
President

Dazzling sequins and flurries of color and song combined with enthusiastic performers to create the edifying entertainment offered by BYU Program Bureau. Sponsoring and booking different campus groups and entertainers around the community, country and world, this service unit produced over 300 shows from which tours for servicemen, government diplomats, and world-wide audiences were evolved. Of these, seven major tours have been conducted for various government agencies in Asia, Europe, the Middle and Far East. "Curtain Time USA" has gone around the world; "Holiday in the USA" made a tour of the Orient; and "Star Time USA" successfully completed a tour of the military installations in the European Command in Greenland, Iceland, Newfoundland, and Labrador. Janie Thompson stood at the helm of the entertainment troupe, and a force of 30 MC Directors provided its backbone. Trained to operate under pressure, not only did the MC's sing and dance, but exhibited a knowledge of lighting and sound equipment. New talent and new acts this year continued to bring the same world-wide rave notices, standing ovations, and appreciation for BYU and the LDS way of life.

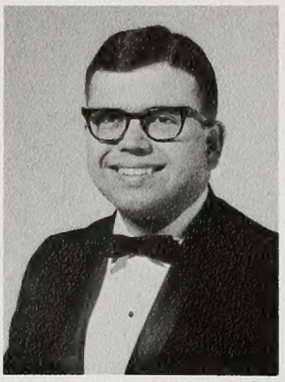
Samuel Hall



Craig Wentz
President

Having lobsters and clams flown directly from Boston to Provo wasn't the major purpose of the Samuel Hall Society, but their authentic New England Clam Bake was the traditional opening for the year's activities. They sponsored an extensive program of Dinner Lectures with noted faculty members whose speeches were followed by a questioning period for the benefit of Society members. A favorite tradition of the group was the Halloween Party where monster costumes, complete with coffins and attempts to identify the ghouls, provided members and their dates with some ghastly entertainment. Outstanding in athletic, academic, and leadership fields, Samuel Hall Society members socialized and strived for brotherhood and personal growth. Awards given at the year's end to outstanding members promoted the pursuit of excellence in these areas.

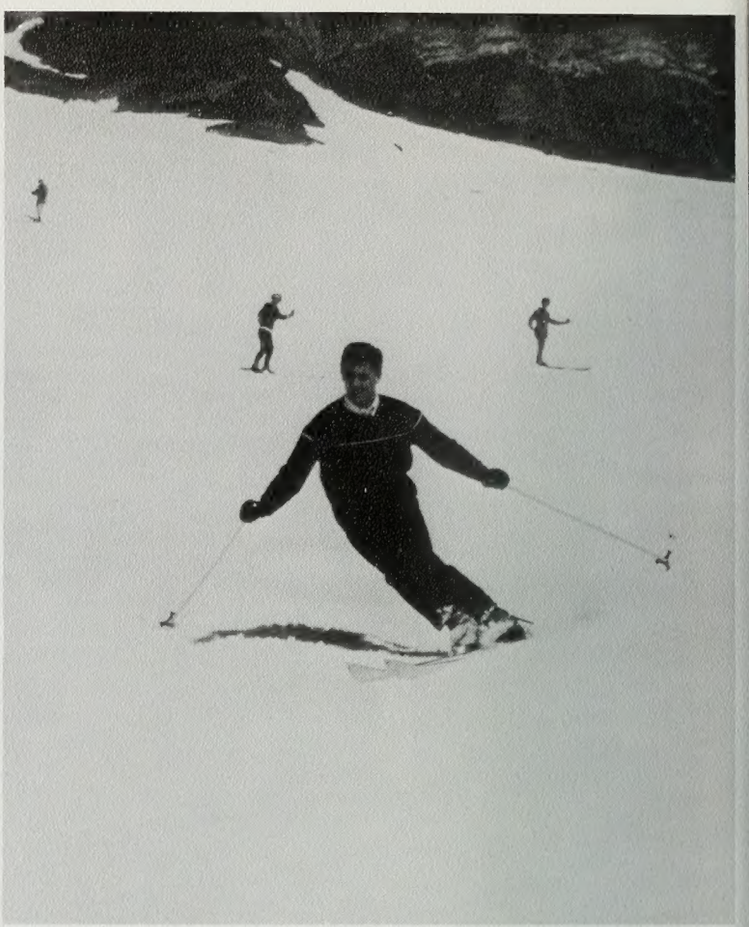
Sportsmen

Oliver McPherson
President

The report of a gun, challenge of a slope, and whir of an outboard brought together the adventuresome young men known as the Sportsmen. Hobble Creek Canyon was their destination in October as they began a year of activities with a Deer Hunt. The sports-oriented club sponsored clinics twice monthly where one member, particularly skilled in one sport, coached his fellow members. It was not uncommon on Saturdays to find the entire group out hunting pheasants, skiing or mountain-climbing together. Besides wild game served by the Sportswomen at the annual Sportsfeast, Sportsmen enjoyed Traditions Night, an Overnight Ski Trip, Rabbit Hunt and water skiing and camping at Lake Mead, developing a close fellowship in all of their activities.



The Sportsmen always find something to do, come sun, sleet, or snow.

Sportswomen

To spot a group of wind-blown girls bicycling from Heber City to Provo or notice the same group dressed like hobos hiking up the railroad tracks in Provo Canyon on an early Saturday morning, one could bet his Brigham bottom they were Sportswomen. Promoting participation and good sportsmanship, this women's unit instilled in its members a desire to cultivate a well-rounded personality. Also one of their attributes, they cooked the "prey" killed by the Sportsmen in their annual hunt, then combined with the fellows for the November Feast. As a group they were active Intramural participants, while other activities included rollerskating, tubing, synchronized swimming, and bowling. The annual Invitational Dinner-Dance was held at Ft. Douglas on March 31, and the year climaxed with a Hawaiian luau.

Spurs

Susan Carlson
President

Thousands of hours of willing service were rendered by 50 active Spurs this year. Exemplifying their motto "At Your Service," these sophomore women served in varied capacities, sometimes in the limelight when they ushered special guests to the President's box at football games, or counted Forum assembly crowds in the Fall. But more often they served behind the scenes, as when they read to blind students, entertained patients weekly at the State Hospital, styled ladies' hair at the Eldred Center, and taught the mentally retarded at American Fork. Some Spur projects were unusual, like cutting and serving 200 pumpkin pies at an ASBYU Thanksgiving dance. Often they were routine, necessary duties, like sitting at election tables or manning the Information Booth. Whatever the service project, willing Spurs were there, looking sharp in their well-known white.

Thea Alexis

"Goddess of service" is the translation for Thea Alexis, a BYU organization for Freshmen women. It's tradition of service began in the mid-fifties on this campus, organized to encourage activity and scholarship, to uphold tradition of BYU and to promote the Spirit of the Y. This year the members had a special project at the American Fork Hospital to organize a Christmas party for the patients, but they also participated in varied other projects during the year including, manning the voting and information booths, and counting Forum attendance. However, life was not all work for the girls, they filled their freer moments with slumber parties, ice skating, exchanges, and a Skyroom invitational highlighted their social calendar.

Vakhnom

Colleen Croft
President

Vakhnom, a Swedish word meaning "beauty within," is a culture unit founded in 1964 by 30 members. The membership this year reached 45. Sharing cultural experiences and at the same time promoting friendship among girls with similar interests, Vakhnom members fostered such activities as a Homecoming openhouse and a float with Samuel Hall Society; a Christmas Formal on December 9th in the Provo City Court House; and assisted in cultural activities for Associated Women Students Week and helped with Sub-for-Santa. The highlight of the year was the Vakhnom Dinner Dance in April.

White Key

Beverly Burrup
President

Leading the Homecoming parade with the traditional block Y were the members of White Key, the first women's service unit to be established at BYU, organized in 1933. Candidates for membership were required to be senior women with a cumulative GPA of 3.2. An extremely active organization on campus, White Key members enjoyed a Get-Acquainted brunch, Christmas Fireside, and provided a Christmas box for needy families. Other services and activities included selling Student Directories, a "Tasting Bee" (recipe party), as well as a "Happy Unbirthday" party, and lecture-slide presentation by former Peace Corps member Karen Johnson. To foster service and further the best interests of BYU, to promote a spirit of fellowship and to encourage scholarship were the primary objectives of White Key.

Y Calcares

Cheryl Kyle
President

A sister organization to the nationally established Spurs, Y Calcares decided to remain an independent unit when this service group was first organized, and kept the Spanish name for spurs, "calcares." For membership in Y C's, 60 junior and senior women must have a desire to serve as well as maintain a 3.0 GPA. Freely giving of their time, they spent countless hours each semester ushering at assemblies, staffing information centers, reading to the blind and working at Child Haven, a day-care center for mentally retarded children. Y Calcares also co-sponsored the Belle of the Y with the Intercollegiate Knights. Social activities were as varied as a Slumber Party, Surprise Breakfast and the Spring Invitational at Memory Grove in Salt Lake City.

Young Men

David Miller
President

Acting as a "task force" for all University pep activities, the Young Men were part of the BYU Pep Committee. From the unit's beginning in 1963 with only eight students, it has grown to a diversified group boasting over 60 active members. Young Men roused the spirit and mustered the cheers that sent Cougar teams to continual victories. They provided pre-game and pep rally publicity, crowd control at sports events, pre-game stunts, film shorts on rival teams, and guarded the bronze Cougar from rivals' mischief. Young Men were dedicated to improving and maintaining the Y spirit.

International Folk Dancers

Whether exhibiting typical Hungarian excitement, Russian intensity, the wildness of the Poles, Israeli grace, or the happiness of the Americans, the International Folk Dancers whirled through an exhausting year, performing for over a hundred audiences. Shouting and clapping in time to rhythmic beats, they captured the hearts of all with whom they came in contact. This vibrant troupe has grown from seven couples into a hundred in eleven years, broadening their exhilarating repertoire to include every dance culture from the American Appalachian Clog to the exacting native dances of the Eastern hemisphere.

The Folk Dancers demonstrate their proficiency in world dance.

Square dancing adds that extra leap of the heart and sparkle in the eye.

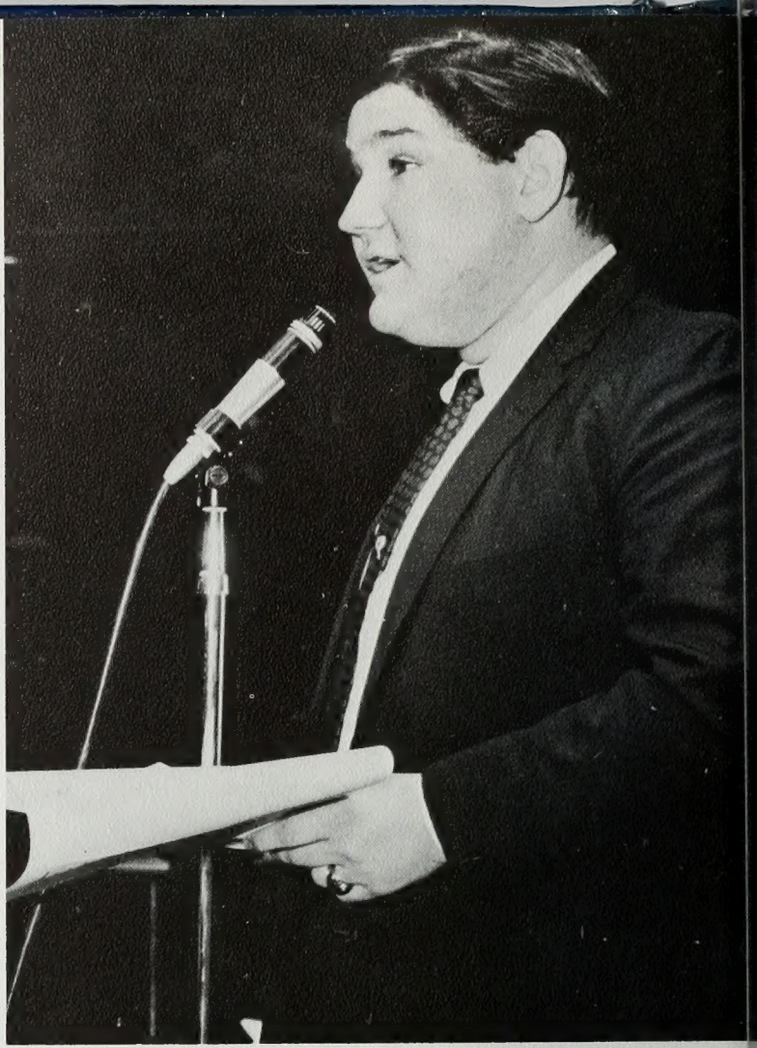
Forensics Team

Competitive speech and debate were initiated eleven years ago as an active part of BYU by a small group of students. Contrasting this in recent years, the team has traveled to over 27 debate tournaments, having placed in all of them in both Junior and Senior divisions, taking first place honors. Honors and trophies were won on an individual level as well. Forensics operates under the jurisdiction of the Speech Department and those students interested in this area of learning are encouraged to try their hand at debating, matching their wits, and thinking logically and clearly on the spot, but most important they then developed a better presence and delivery.



Now I ask you . . . Can you resist that art of persuasion?

Heels in the air, eyes alight, and keeping time to swinging rhythms, members of the Arizona Club fairly ripped through the year. Enthusiastically capturing the flare and flavor of the wide open spaces, and with it the hearts of those who glory in it, club activities meant Western-style fun and fellowship for dudes and natives alike. The bi-monthly Arizona Stomp won them perhaps the most renown. Membership has grown over the years to include not only the Westerners but admirers, and the club held the record for being the largest geographical club on campus. The year full of fun and festivity was brought to a close in style with the aroma of Spring, charcoal and barbecued steak.

Outstanding events this year have included teaching others how to officiate at swim meets; a Diving Clinic; and a Drown-Proofing Clinic where participators learned a unique way to stay afloat for long periods of time. Archon

Founded in 1959 as an auxiliary unit to the Blue Key, Archon Honor Fraternity took its membership from freshman and sophomore men who proved themselves outstanding academically. Striving to develop intellectual excellence and leadership ability, they continued a program of lectures and firesides throughout the year featuring outstanding speakers whose purpose it was to arouse new planes of thought and a new awakening of minds to higher levels. In keeping with their motto "Leaders also serve," Archon members ushered, offered a tutoring service, and contributed to the Blood Drive. The special interest group also conducted a Halloween Candy Drive for the Children's Hospital and a similar good will program at Christmas in the form of food and clothing for needy families. Chinese Club

The Chinese Club was a gathering of a culture within a culture. It provided the Asian students, students of Chinese ancestry, and interested friends with opportunities to keep the traditions of China, and emanated a lingering flavor of the Orient for those who longed to relive memories of missionary labors there. This organization offered the means for an Eastern culture to learn of and blend into another—the Western way of life. February marked the beginning of a Chinese New Year, and with its gala celebration, the tinkling music and delicate foods of the Far East. Subtly teaching by their example, the Chinese Club brought to the campus the force of Eastern simplicity and strength of its quiet reserve.

Engineering Joint Council

Composed of representatives from the four engineering societies (mechanical, civil, electrical, and chemical) the Engineering Joint Council co-ordinated activities and promoted interest in each field. The societies competed athletically, sponsored symposiums, and high-lighted their year with the visit of Astronaut Don Lind. Held the last week in February, Engineering Week encouraged school-wide interest and featured lectures, detailed displays and the annual Engineers' Awards Banquet. Suzanne Gerszewski was chosen as Engineering Queen.

During Engineer's Week, plans for a new fieldhouse are displayed.

Hawaiian Club

Lazy rolling waves on a hot, peopled beach, white splashing surf and the pipeline, soft breezes, and soft music that grass skirts sway to. These are reminiscent of Hawaii and the bonds that drew together those from the dream island and those who served missions there. The club shared the traditions of Hawaii with others through exhibits, firesides, and presentations, while at the same time renewing for themselves old memories. The Luau, Hawaiian roast pig, poi dinner was a popular event on the agenda, and of course there was dancing, dancing, dancing! The club was spotlighted during Polynesian Week, attracting interested observers with their traditional Hula. The successful year closed with Aloha.

Y Judo Kai

Fly through the air with the greatest of ease—not on a trapeze, but by the skillful maneuver of an arm or leg. Judo was originated in the Orient, the art of self-defense by a knowledge of balance and leverage. The club was first organized at BYU in 1955, and over the years the interest has increased by leaps and bounds. Along with teaching its members the skill and techniques involved in the art of Judo, their purpose was also to instill a feeling of confidence and humility, a basic Oriental belief. The art has become quite popular in recent years, and the club has been called on to perform on many different occasions, for various interested groups and organizations, as well as competing in tournaments.

Karate Club

"Shoto-Kan" is the style of Karate taught at BYU. "The ultimate aim of karate lies not in victory or defeat, but in the perfection of the character of its participants." So admonished Master Gichen Funakushi, who brought karate to Japan from Okinawa. Whenever a man struggles to raise himself above himself, whenever his spirit masters his flesh by his own sweat, then a student is on his way towards understanding karate. Self defense is self perservation. A true man of self defense then should be ready to defend not only his physical body but also to discourage evil that is directed against his heart, mind, and soul. To be able to protect himself and his loved ones a man must have self control. He must know how why, and when, to apply karate. Etiquette, calmness and a strong attitude is his way of life. Above all he is made to realize that development of a state of being thereby obedience to God's commandments and laws for his fellow man, in essence is the perfect self defense.

Student Education Association

Information afforded to prospective teachers is the greatest advantage of being a member of the Student Education Association. A professional association for college and university students preparing for teaching careers, the SEA is an integral part of the Utah Education Association and the National Education Association. SEA provided opportunities to learn more about the teaching profession and major issues facing it. This year a Leadership Conference at Aspen Grove was sponsored and SEA members were afforded tutorial services for teaching mentally retarded adults through the Rock Conyan School Project. The organization also participated in an 18-month case study program initiated by the NEA and ended the year with a Spring banquet.

Ski Club

Whoosh! Down the slopes went a member of the Ski Club. The unit was organized to have fun together with fellow snow bunnies. It provided instruction, touring, racing, and just plain companionship, talking over a hot cup of chocolate after a few spills. This year the group went on an overnight trip to Park City, and tried night skiing on for size. In addition to skiing the group held a few square dances . . . probably to thaw out! They wound the year up with a cross-country trip for the more experienced members. They hope to grow with the years gaining both novices, and Mambo runners.

Orchesis

Colleen Shields
President

At first glance, a tense silhouette and pattern in contrasts giving form to human imagination, but in reality, a living design—a moment with Orchesis. A national Modern Dance fraternity of dance artists, Orchesis members were dedicated to the study of design and movement represented by the human body and met to improve techniques and to study primitive and modern jazz dance forms. Performing for numerous audiences throughout the year and on such programs as Dancers' Showcase, they opened to many, new worlds of expression and dispelled the belief that modern dance is an odd sister to the older classical ballet. Under the direction of well-known modern dancer Ruth Currier, Orchesis presented their annual Spring Concert as a student-choreographed program highlighting the presentation of Doris Humphrey's "Shakers." The dance depicted the lives of the "Shaking Quakers" of Colonial America and their peculiar beliefs. Through their efforts, Orchesis members promoted modern dance as an art in its own right.

Let me give you the lowdown on national affairs .

Young Republicans

The Young Republican unit was formed by those interested in the movements of the national government, favoring the Republican party policies. It has established itself as a medium of information to the student body concerning the affairs of the nation. They had a legislative committee who watched the movements of Congress and then relayed this information to the rest of the club. During the year they set up information booths and petition stands such as the petition sent to Senator Bennett. Over the year the group was quite active, attending two conferences, one in Colorado and one in Los Angeles where they met other similar groups interested in political functions from various other states. A peak in the year for them was sponsoring the tickets and transportation to hear Governor Romney, who spoke at Valley Music Hall.

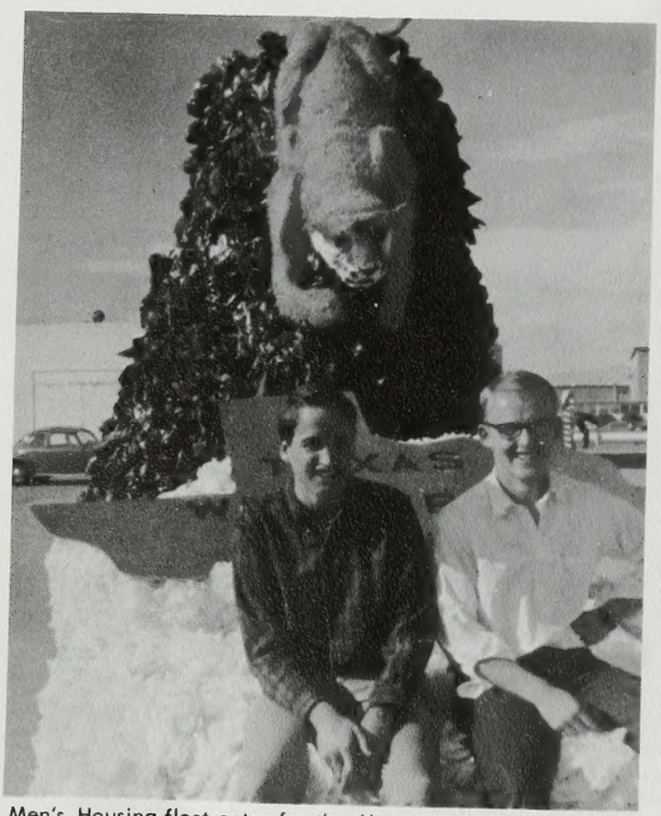
The Inter-House Council was reorganized from the Student Administration Council and has been functioning four years now. Its members consist of the various housing area presidents, and they function as a go-between for housing and student government. Since the adoption of the new constitution this year, Housing lost its vote in the assembly, but at the same time gained a place on the President's cabinet. The Council has therefore become more an informat rather than a power and policy maker. However, it does act as the policy maker for the on-campus housing. One issue they acted on this year was the restriction of campaign posters and speeches in the housing areas. Twice a year they hold leadership conference for all the hall officers at which they stress task and sensitivity leadership methods. The year was capped with an academic banquet held in the spring, at which Steven L. Covey was the guest speaker.



Men's Housing float entry for the Homecoming Parade won.

A conference was held in New Mexico for housing representatives.

The theme of the Men's Housing Invitational was Edelweiss.

Helaman Halls Council

Replacing the Men's and Women's Residence Halls Council, the Helaman Residence Hall Council was organized this year in order to coordinate all activities within a given geographical area. To encourage participation within the living area, the Council sponsored weekend social dances and movies. A Talent Show was staged for the public on December 14, drawing 50 applicants and 15 finalists who were awarded for their vocal, instrumental, speech and dramatic performances. Emphasizing academic achievement, the Council awarded trophies to the floors and Halls having the highest GPA, and also granted two deserving students scholarships of $125 each. The year's highlight came on March 31 with the Spring Invitational Dinner-Dance hosted by the Helaman Council with residents of Deseret Towers as invited guests. This year Helaman Halls won First place award at Homecoming with John Hall taking Fourth place for House Decorations. Helaman Halls took First place among Housing units in College Bowl competition.

The Heritage Hall Council was a group of girls selected from among the 24 elected Hall Presidents. Their main purpose was to advise, plan and coordinate activities for the girls living in the housing units. There was a running program of Intramurals which all the girls could participate in according to their own interests. Cultural and social activities were also stressed in the form of speakers, buddy parties, dorm invitationals, and exchanges with the men's Housing units. The highlight event of the year was the Heritage Hall Invitational, "Our Heritage of Dreams." This was the opportunity for the girls to ask their favorite boy, and dance with stars in their eyes. One change for the halls this year came with the adopting of the new constitution, which deleted the vote for the housing units in the assembly.

AFROTC Develops Leaders

Feeling the impact of a matter of life and death in the dense jungles of Vietnam, students increased interest in world affairs and awareness of the military. With the added realization that thousands of LDS servicemen presently serve in the major freedom conflict, BYU took note and deserved pride in its AFROTC. Born in the aftermath of World War II, this program found on 177 college and university campuses is now the Air Force's largest continuing source of career officers with a claimed membership of approximately 80,000. Lt. Col. Sharp declared values gained as "education, service, leadership, and a thrilling and rewarding service in aerospace."

Forming the thirteenth largest unit in the nation, 600 BYU cadets were grouped into a "wing" with military ranks and organization. Developing leadership and discipline, responsibility was channeled from commanders through officers to cadets in individual squadrons and flights. Studying required courses and subjects from Astronautics to Military Law, cadets may complete a minor in Aerospace Studies.

Instilling confidence in the men, discipline is the basis of all military training. Here Dave Allison hams it a little for an inspection.

Arnold Air Society

Gary Baugh
Commander

A professional fraternity for AFROTC cadets who are second semester sophomores or above, the Arnold Air Society enabled members to gain an insight into the purposes, traditions, and concepts of the Air Force. Members held weekly meetings which featured informative films and special speakers, and this year traveled to the Houston Space Center and the Davis-Monthan Air Base in Tucson, Arizona. There they were briefed on the operations performed by the Phantom II F4C fighter bomber currently in use in Vietnam, and were allowed to inspect the jets that some of them will be flying in the future. AAS members sponsored instruction in the Boy Scout Rifle Safety Program at the ROTC rifle range. Social activities included various events and exchanges with the Angel Flight unit.

Commandant

Mascara-fringed eyes straight ahead, shoulders back, coiffured heads held high, and bringing a touch of the angelic to the military were young women in blue known as Angel Flight. Completing their sixth year as the feminine service unit to AFROTC, they were organized to support and assist the Arnold Air Society, the AFROTC, and the University as well as to offer opportunities to each girl for developing mentally, morally, culturally, and spiritually. Called on to execute varied duties and services, Angels spent hours of volunteer time each week ushering and selling tickets, in registration work, and other University and community services as well as co-sponsoring the annual Blood Drive. A more special "duty" at the year's end was attending the most elite and formal event of the military world at BYU—the Military Ball.

Fine Arts

●What's fine about art? The reed that splits; cold, clammy hands and unruly stomach butterflies before the curtain rises; the fearful second when the well-rehearsed line momentarily flees the memory; the sore throat that comes the morning of that big day—your first solo; the line misquoted that results in an embarrassing combination. Maybe we should consider the finer side of art in our University . . . Expression of the individual in every phase—painting, music, drama, dance, sculpture. Expression subsides as appreciation swells at the realization of excellence in the masters. Art means a new experience; a fresh outlook on a previously stale subject; letters and words of praise for a job well done; a desire to improve and perfect with a promising reward from the instructor who might say, "not bad this week."

Comedy Opens Drama Season

What's the matter kid, never drank efore?" Belle taunts Richard (above) s he takes his first drink of liquor.

A HECTIC MEETING between a Jewish mother and Freud in Leonard Spigelgass' Dear Me, the Sky is Falling opened the 1966-67 BYU drama season from October 12-29. Staged in the Pardoe Treatre under the direction of Dr. Preston Gledhill, the play was reviewed favorably by critics as "delightful" and a "tremendous success."

The play tells the story of Mama Hirsh, sent into a tailspin by her husband's desire to retire in Florida and her daughter's wish to break her engagement to a promising lawyer to live with a beatnik. After all else failed, Mama joined her daughter at the psychiatrist's.

Eugene O'Neill's Ah, Wilderness was the second offering of the season and took theatre viewers into another family situation. The only problem in the Nat Miller family seemed to be young Richard making his first attempt to understand life and his initial experience with puppy love. Under the direction of Dr. Charles Metten, Richard was found expressing his feelings for his sweetheart and life in the words of his favorite authors, much to the frustration of all. Through Mother's love and Father's wisdom, Richard overcame his disillusionment●

Chinese

Prince Nieou (Robert Day) commands Tsai-Young to marry his daughter.

The Princess Nieou-chi (Cheryl Pope) anticipates her wedding with the handsome young magistrate.

THE MAGIC of a classical story and enchantment of the Orient came together before a silhouetted pagoda in the captivating Lute Song. Directed by Dr. Lael Woodbury, the play told of the lovely and devoted wife Tchao-ou-Niang who remained faithfully in the west country of ancient China to care for her husband's parents. Respecting his father's wishes, her husband Tsai-Young left to seek his fame and fortune as a chief magistrate in a far off kingdom. But having attained a higher station, he was denied the right of returning to his wife and was forced to marry the royal princess Nieou-chi.

Having witnessed the death and burial of her husband's parents, Tchao-ou-Niang took up his treasured lute and wandered in the habit of a nun over mountains and valleys until she was reunited with him.

Lute Song completed a two-week performance run in the Pardoe Theater from January 4-16, a television-video taping, and then toured California's San Francisco Bay area for ten days.

"Beautiful color," and "Excellent acting and singing" were only a few of the favorable remarks made in press reviews of the delightful Chinese drama●

Tsai-Young (Steve Covington) sings in remembrance of his undying love for his absent wife.

Russian Satire Comments on Evils of Tyranny

MEDIEVAL COSTUMES and a castle scene set the stage for Yevgeny Schwartz's deftly written Russian comedy, The Dragon. Directed by Charles Whitman, the Gothic fairytale with political overtones moralized that fighting tyranny is futile because one tyrant will be replaced by another. Because of hero Lancelot's love for the damsel Elsa, he fought the Dragon who had terrorized the land with his claim of supremacy. But after Lancelot's victory and disappearance, the people immediately succumbed to another dragon—the villain Mayor. Lancelot returned to his love, sadly noting that the dragons in individuals must be killed before tyranny can be conquered.

Clifford Odets' Golden Boy, recently revived on Broadway as a musical, was the first Reader's Theater production. The story told of a young Italian-American boy who was trained as a violinist but chose to become a prize fighter. Dr. Preston Gledhill directed the hero Joe Bonaparte in an interesting portrait of a sensitive man endeavoring to overcome his feelings of failure by adopting a materialistic philosophy repulsive to himself●

Musical Satirizes Success Story

PLAYING BEFORE a nightly sold out house, How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying was a "success in every sense of the word." Cast members performing on the largest set ever constructed for a college production—a two-story office building designed by Charles Hensen, spoofed the American success story in Loesser's and Burrows' Pulitzer Prize musical comedy.

The colorful satire revolved around aspiring J. Pierpont Finch, the window-washer who discovered a paperback brimming with Machiavellian advice about the steps to getting ahead in the business world. Finch followed instructions so unwaveringly that he soon gained a reputation as an up-and-coming lad at the World Wide Wickets Co., Inc. After a disasterous blunder as Advertising Vice-president, he slithered slickly out of his predicament and proudly found himself not only Chairman of the Board, but a new bridegroom as well.

A combined Music and Drama effort, the play, deemed one of the most phenomenal successes in theatrical history, was directed by Max Golightly. Brandt Curtis and Richard Ballou led the musical score, and choreography was by Ellen Davis and Frank Hatch●

Mankind Fights for Truth, Rights

WHAT HAPPENS to a man who must choose between his intelligence and his conscience? This was the conflict faced by Sir Thomas More—lawyer, judge, and Lord Chancellor to England's proud Henry VIII. Robert Bolt explored the tragedy in his chronicle play, A Man For All Seasons, the first production of the season staged in the Margetts Arena.

Dr. Harold I. Hansen directed the dramatic contest between the King and steadfast Sir Thomas when the latter refused to find Ecclesiastical approval for the King's divorce from Catherine of Aragon and subsequent marriage to Anne Boleyn. Although declared an enemy to the crown, charged with treason and sentenced to death, More remained loyal to the Roman Church and maintained in his wisdom that the mightiest King could not flout God's laws.

The folk comedy, Hobson's Choice was performed in early March under the direction of Dr. Albert O. Mitchell. Nineteenth century England was the setting for playwright Harold Brighouse's story of the domineering father, Mr. Hobson, who tried to marry off his two younger daughters but keep the hard-working eldest to help with his shoe business. Opposing the idea, the strong-willed heroine Maggie married Will Mossop and together they set up a competitive shoe business.

Brought before the Magistrate Court, Sir Thomas More (Brent N. Monson) is declared an enemy of the Church (above).

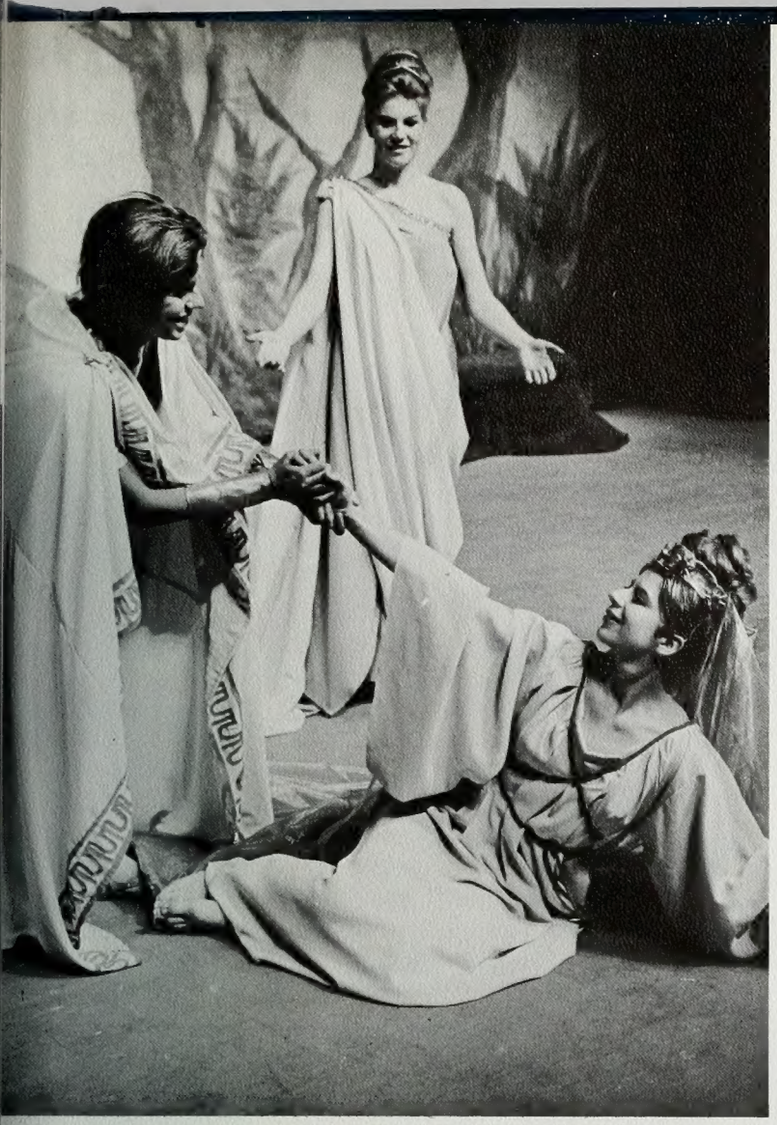
"No, Will, you'll marry me," declares Maggie (Cindy Hargrave) as Will (Randy Anderson) and his friend Ada (Patricia Harston) look on (left).

Accompanied by Tubby (Christiffor Johnson) Mrs. Hipworth (Susan Birch) tells Mr. Hobson (John Maning) she is particular about her shoes (right).

King Henry VIII (Lane Bateman) presents Margaret More (Paula Reedy) with a special whistle, requesting her father to grant his divorce.

Operas Express Human Emotion

After taking poison, Lakme (Kristine Comendant) tells her father (LaMar Laws) that she and Gerald (Rolando Gonzales) have drunk of the waters of marriage and now the gods have called her and she is their victim.



Euridice (Elizabeth Groberg) is restored to life for a second time.

COMBINING ROMANCE, drama, and suspense, French composer Leo Delibes created the opera Lakme, an emotion-charged tale that touched the hearts of theater goers. The story centered around a beautiful Brahman princess, Lakme, who fell in love with the English army officer Gerald after his entering a forbidden garden. The opera was directed by Brandt Curtis.

The depth of true love was depicted in the mythological classic Orpheus as Orpheus was shown braving the spirits of Hades to reclaim his dead bride Eurydice. The audience was also delighted the same evening with the comedy that arose when relatives of the late Buoso Donati had his fruitless will illegally altered to better suit them in the opera Gianni Schicchi●

Opera Workshop Shows Versatility

Before curtain make-up and hair dressing preparation begins.

COMPLETING ITS twenty-second year on campus, Opera Workshop gave its members the opportunity to increase their knowledge of music, dance, drama, literature, stagecraft, costuming, and lighting through actual participation in opera productions. Directed for the third year by Brandt Curtis, the Workshop produced Lakme, La Boheme, Ruddigore, Gianni Schicchi, and Orpheus. As well as performing for the public, such operas as Impressario and Gallentry were produced within the Workshop enabling all students to develop their talents and abilities. This year's annual Spring Tour took the casts of Ruddigore and Gianni Schicchi to LDS stake centers in Montana and Wyoming as well as Utah.

Serving the organization as officers were Steve Leefe, Rebecca Totten, Neldon Maxfield, LaMar Laws, Paul Larsen, Gregory Charlton, Evan Call, Bette Bacon, and Linda Page Steimle●

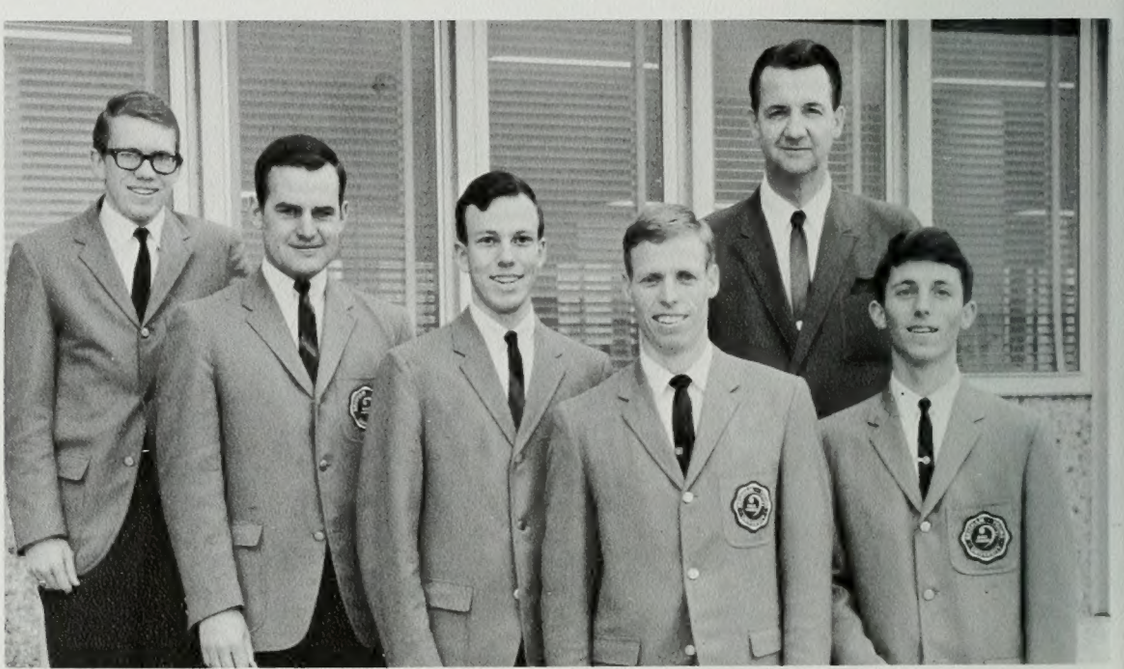
Male Chorus Promotes Spirit of Y

Devotional Assembly features Male Chorus members singing opening and closing hymns.

VERSATILITY in both music and activity made Male Chorus a campus favorite. The group started the year by entering a float in the Homecoming parade. Titled "It's Always Been a Cougar World," it contrasted the difference between music of the early Twenties and contemporary music. During the Christmas Drive, members of the Chorus collected toys and food to make a basket for a needy family.

Composed mainly of non-music majors, the fifty-voice Chorus sang a wide variety of music from its repertoire. Following a three-day tour throughout Utah, the Chorus received favorable reviews and praise from both critics and public.

Perhaps best known to campus audiences for their renditions of "The Cougar Song" and "The Old Y Bell," the Male Chorus was a major contributor to the "Rise and Shout" album produced by the ASBYU. They combined with the Women's Chorus in the Fall for a concert of sacred songs, and in the Spring gave their annual concert featuring some contemporary American numbers and folk music. Working in conjunction with other music organizations to present an afternoon Easter program, they also performed at several Devotional Assemblies. Directing Male Chorus for the fourth consecutive year was Dr. Ralph Woodward●



Officers are Larry Litster, Ned Karren, David Adams, Larry LeBaron, Dan Bates, and Dr. Ralph Woodward.

Women Perform Seasonal Music

FORMERLY UNITED with the Male Chorus as Schola Cantorum, Women's Chorus has been performing on campus as a single organization since 1961. The group's first major performance of the year was in conjunction with the Male Chorus in a November concert. In keeping with the season, their program consisted of sacred songs. At Christmas time the feminine group combined with others to present the traditional "Christmas Music at Midday" in the HFAC Gallery area.

Aside from their annual Spring Concert, the singing Women, under the baton of Professor Robert Downs, performed at various Devotional Assembly programs and in the Music Department's "Easter Music at Midday." With a repertoire ranging from light to classical works, the Women's Chorus was also one of the music organizations contributing to the success of the BYU program "Speaking of Music," nationally televised by ABC. The Chorus did not confine their activities to singing●

Completing its sixth year as a separate musical organization, Women's Chorus presents its last formal concert in April.

Choir Sings Dramatic Poems

THE ORATORIO CHOIR was a group of highly skilled vocalists dedicated to the fine art of performing the oratorio —a dramatic poem set to music but without scenery and action. After countless hours of memorization and practicing, the 135-voice Choir, accompanied by the BYU Symphony Orchestra, presented Franz Joseph Haydn's "The Seasons."

At the conclusion of their Fall concert, they immediately began daily practice for the Spring Concert which spotlighted Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana." Supplementing their major concert appearances, the Choir participated in the combined Music Departments' Christmas and Easter program and provided music for some Devotional Assemblies as well.

Dr. John R. Halliday was assisted in directing the artful vocalists by Jean Blaser, Wallace McCloy, Bruce Walker, and Robert Shedd. One of the youngest vocal groups, the Oratorio Choir was organized in 1961 to lift the cultural standard of the campus community●

A Capella Choir to Tour Europe

ALREADY KNOWN nationally, the A Cappella Choir made plans for its Summer Concert Tour. The Tour, which is sponsored by the United States State Department, will be the first foreign tour made by the group of singers. Choir members especially looked forward to performing at the International Music Festival in Llangolyn, Wales.

Another highlight of the year for the vocalists was the release of their new record album, "Music for Christmas." Funds from these record sales were used to partially finance their European trip.

Chosen by audition from over 500 candidates who try out, more than half of the Choir members were music majors and those who were not majors in that field, had extensive backgrounds in music. The Choir had very few freshmen with sophomores having the largest membership representation. Under the baton of Dr. Ralph Woodward, director of all BYU choral activities, the Choir presented its annual Winter and Spring concerts●

Chorale Opens BYU Music Season

Director Kurt Weinzinger

UNIVERSITY CHORALE, BYU'S largest singing organization, opened the year's musical season with an October concert. Composed mainly of non-music majors, the group's 200 members sang music in eight-part harmony. Aside from their fall, winter, and spring concerts, the Chorale performed at Devotional Assemblies and the Christmas and Easter programs of the Music Department.

Until leaving second semester to teach in Salzburg, Austria, Professor Kurt Weinzinger directed the singers. Second semester the group was under the conductorship of Professor Brandt Curtis for the first time.

Planning activities of the organization as officers were Chuck Borough, Vivian Gilbert, Joel Hansen, Elaine Bower, Bob Thomas and Wayne Marler.

Music Educators Hear Symphony Orchestra

THE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, composed of 95 skilled instrumentalists and directed by Professor Ralph G. Laycock, experienced an active year. Their formal concert circuit began in October when they played for the regional Music Educators Convention in Salt Lake City. After hours of practice and rehearsing, the Orchestra combined with the Oratorio Choir to present Haydn's "The Seasons" in a November concert. In the Spring, the musicians toured for a week throughout Nevada, Idaho, and Utah, highlighting their trip with a concert in Las Vegas for the Division Convention of the Music Educators National Conference.

The rare opportunity of premiering a symphony was given the Orchestra by Dr. Merrill Bradshaw, associate professor of music at BYU. Upon completion of his "Symphony No. 3," the talented group performed it in a March concert. Their repertoire consisted of music from the great Masters, such as Brahms and Beethoven to more recent composers, Charles Ives and William Schuman. The Symphony provided music for several operas, the oratorical music programs, and a number of assemblies in addition to their own concerts, spending many hours in practice mastering a large volume of varied music●

Concert Band Under New Director

AS ONE OF THE OLDEST musical organizations on campus, the Concert Band was a group of accomplished instrumentalists who were selected through careful auditioning. The band was similar to a wind ensemble and was dedicated to playing the best quality music available.

The group was directed by Professor Richard Ballou, founder of the Cougar Marching Band and newly appointed director of bands at BYU. With the guidance of Professor Ballou, a new band, the Symphonic Band, was formed in conjunction with Concert Band. The new band was opened to the studentbody without auditions and vacancies in the Concert Band were filled from this group. Assisting Professor Ballou as director of the new group was student director, Richard Mooney.

Another group was also formulated under Professor Ballou and the Concert Band. This new group was the Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

The group of 40 highly selective students demonstrated their worth and ability at the November concert in such numbers as Roger Nixon's "Fiesta Del Pacifico," Richard Maltby's "Hail to the Fleet, Concert March," and Shostokovitch's "5th Symphony."

Occasionally the three groups would combine to give a concert, however, they also gave separate concert performances. The three band units combined with other groups in the music Department to present the traditional "Christmas Music at Midday" and "Easter Music at Midday." They were a major contributor to the album "Rise and Shout" and appeared on "Speaking of Music."

Band Receives National Praise

"INCOMPARABLE" became the word most often used to describe the BYU Marching Band. Proof of their merit was received from Sports Illustrated, The New York Times, other college bands, and the ABC television network, who lauded the band after a telecast for presenting "the best halftime show to have appeared on the network."

Stylish and colorful, the 110-member band was directed by Professor Richard E. Ballou, who was assisted by Grant Elkington. Experienced Drum Major James Brague and solo Majorette Sue Long led the band in pre-game and halftime performances. They were aided by vivacious, baton-twirling Brighamettes.

Band members spent a tremendous amount of time in practice. For every minute of their seven-minute halftime performances, the marching unit spent one and one-half hours in preparation. For the 56 minutes the band performed at halftime shows during this session they had rehearsed 84 hours.

Whether meeting the challenge of new music, rendering the favored "Lonely Bull," or pacing through showy routines, the Cougar Marching Band helped to boost school spirit, especially at football and basketball games. They also made a major contribution to the "Rise and Shout" record album produced in conjunction with other music and pep groups●

Lyceums Feature Renowned Artists

Famed Bolshoi Opera mezzo-soprano Irina Arkhipova sings Prokefiev's "The Sorcerer."

THE OPPORTUNITY for cultural enlightenment was brought to students through the 1966-67 Lyceum series which presented the talents of internationally known artists to BYU. Leading off the concert series with an early October appearance was the young American tenor Brian Sullivan, noted for his operatic versatility. Irina Arkipova, one of the Soviet Union's most renowned vocalists and leading mezzo-soprano of the Bolshoi Opera, followed Mr. Sullivan. November brought the spirited Spanish flamenco dancers of Manuela Vargas and Company, who had performed for eight weeks in the Spanish Pavillion at the New York World's Fair.

One of the main features of the series, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, was featured in a January concert. Under the expert baton of Swedish virtuoso, Sixten Ehrling, it was the first performance by a major visiting orchestra in BYU's deJong Concert Hall. The highlight of the Lyceum program came in February with the appearance of the world famous Vienna Boys Choir. Singing to a capacity audience, the 22 young Austrian boys audition and remain with the group until they reach the age when their voices change. Making his debut tour of the United States, Soviet violinist Mikhail Vaiman rounded out the Lyceum series—an outstanding year-long program providing the best for those who appreciate the best in entertainment●

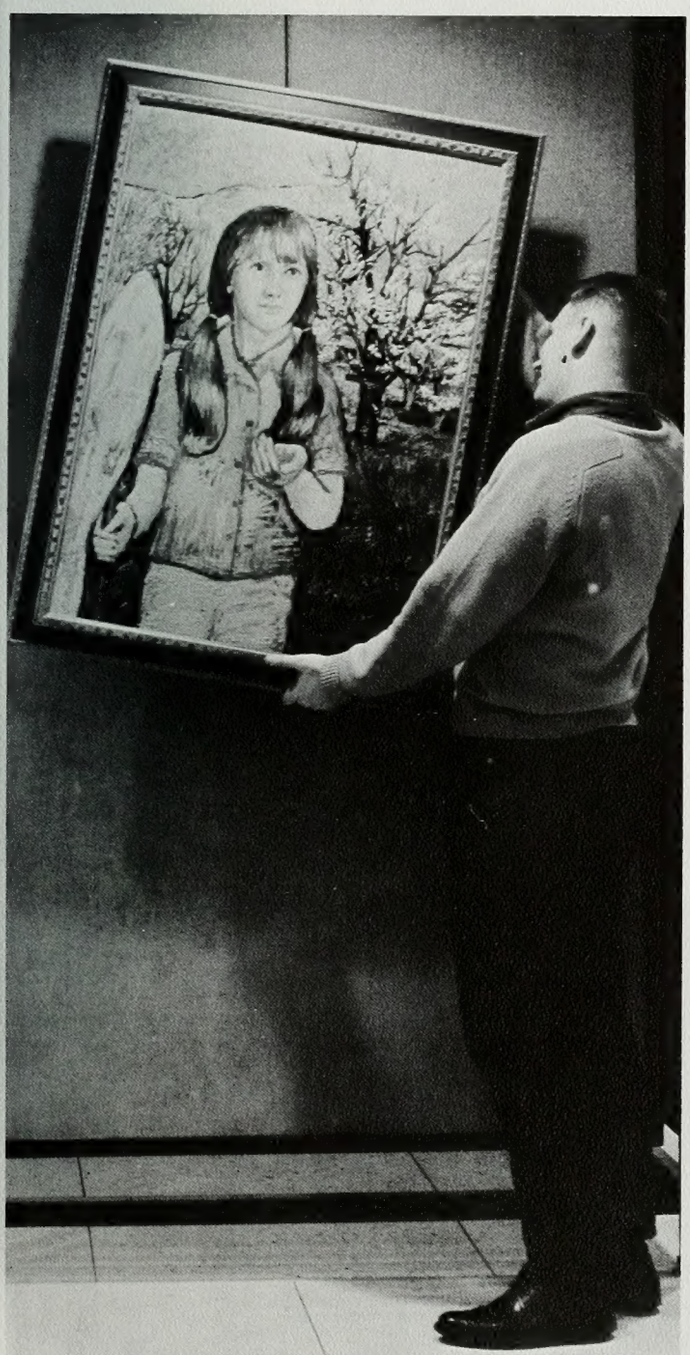
Artists Capture

An artists's works reveal the vision he has of life as well as his emotional response to his experiences.

Man's Emotions

THE PERCEPTION, VISION, and scope of trained minds combined with skilled and able fingers constructed the world of art. A world of sensitive, feeling people who captured the beauty of nature or the life vein of mankind on canvas. In detail they captured the likeness of an individual in the once formless mass of clay. They preserved the old tradition of pottery making and advanced the basic ideas into ceramics. They combined just right colors, principles, and shapes to produce a predetermined effect whether it was emotional or aesthetic. They saw, felt, and interpreted their world and in return produced another world--the world of art●



The likeness of an individual is captured on canvas according to the traits that the artist sees in the subject.

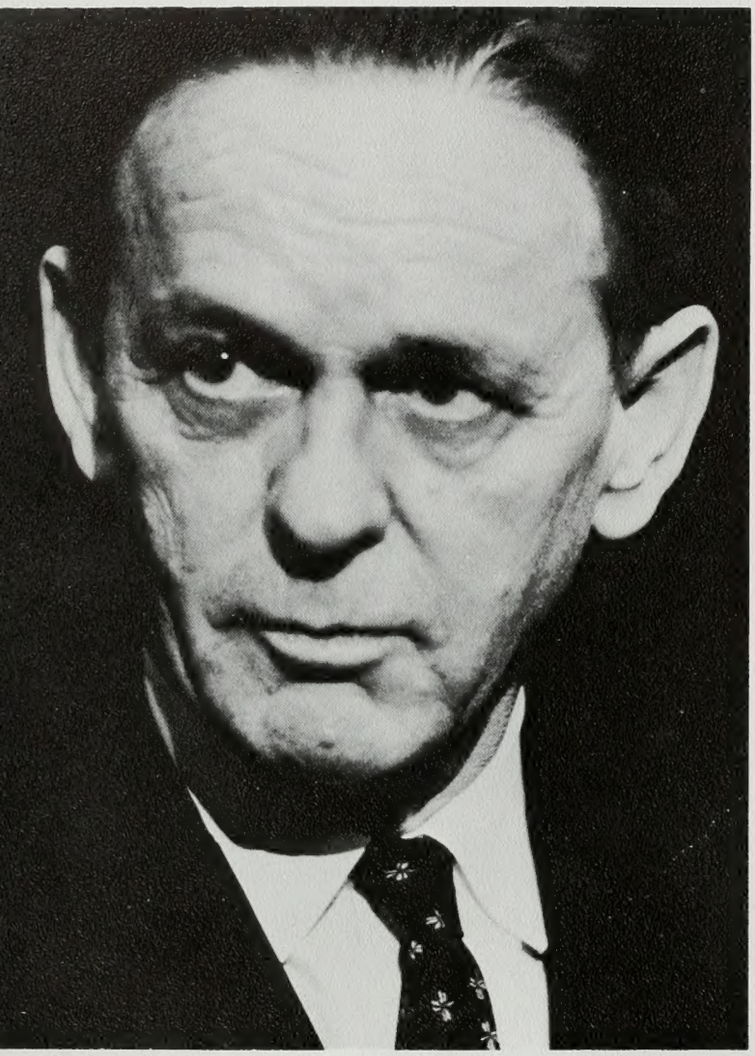
Forums Broaden Students' World



Assistant director of the FBI, William Sullivan, tells students "The FBI Story" in February.

EVERY THURSDAY MORNING at ten o'clock, eager, curious, or dedicated students pushed, shoved, walked, or strolled to the Smith Fieldhouse where a segment of the world was presented to them in the Forum Assembly. Occasionally campus groups expanded the world by giving programs relative to their native area. However, the more broadening aspects were the guest speakers who represented various professions, geographical areas, opinions and interests , and religions.

Roger Conklin, who was in charge of filming the TV "Flipper" series, broadened students' knowledge of sea life. Journalists such as CBS's former Moscow correspondent, Dr. Marvin Kalb, and columnist Drew Middleton opened the world of the press to the students' view.

The world of literature was presented by American playwright, Dr. Robert E. Lee; the wife of the late Lt. Gen. Claire Lee Chennault, Anna; the great-granddaughter of Charles Dickens, Monica Dickens, and Pulitzer prize winner Joshua Logan.

Presenting concepts of religion were Presbyterian reverend, Frederick Fowler, and Tifereth Israel Synagogue's Rabbi Monroe Levens. Rounding out the series was British lecturer Dr. A. L. Rowse and assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, William Sullivan.

"Dare to be different," challenges Robert E. Lee, author of Auntie Mame and Inherit the Wind.

An expert on marine lore, Roger Conklin discusses the challenging world of inner space during Forum.

"Jews are people who live in an evolving religious civilization," Rabbi Monroe Levens tells Forum audience.

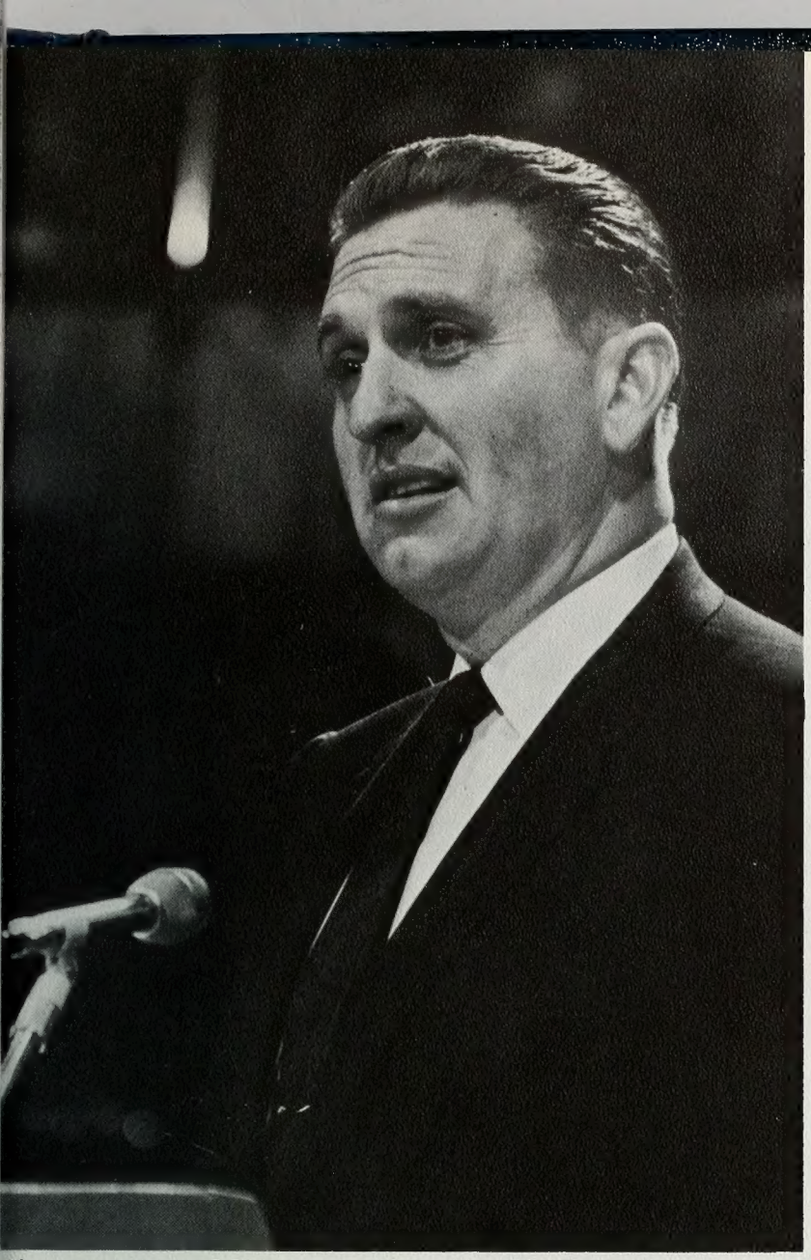
Devotionals Provide Spiritual Pause

"Without the scriptures, what would we know of the love of our Father in Heaven? What would we know of the great atoning sacrifice?" questions Elder LeGrand Richards.

EACH TUESDAY morning at 10 o'clock the campus quieted and came to a stand still as students, faculty, and administration paused for a Devotional hour to receive inspiration from LDS Church Authorities. All offices were closed and activities stopped, enabling students to take advantage of the opportunities for personal meditation and listening to uplifting talks live in the Smith Fieldhouse, or broadcasted in the Joseph Smith Auditorium, de Jong Concert Hall, Pardoe Theater, Varsity Theater, and the Recital Hall.

For many students it was a unique and thrilling experience to be able to see and talk with as well as hear prominent leaders of the Church so frequently. Coming from distant areas of the nation and world, these had not been previously privileged to have had personal contact with General Authorities. Following the weekly Devotional Assembly all students who desired were given the opportunity to question and talk with the speaker.

"Learn, choose wisely, and then act," Presiding Bishop John H. Vandenberg tells students.



The true meaning of Christmas is explained by Elder Thomas S. Monson.

Hoping to take first place nationally in May, the Cougars swept through a tough field of competition to win the University of Calgary International Invitational championship. Losing only one of 22 games, they outscored their opponents 330-193, then rapped the Washington Athletic Club 15-11, 15-11 to win the tournament. Preliminary to NCAA games played in Detroit, Michigan, late in April, BYU hosted inter-collegiate volleyball on the home floor for the first time when they met the nation's number-one ranked team, UCLA. Top performers on the Cougar team were Richard Cox, Jinx Naumu, Wilfred Navalta, Alphi Laufau, Jeppy Kekekai, Bob Kwoa, Ted Winfield, Brent Child, and Dave North●

Netters Beat Defending NCAA Champs USC

THE Y NETTERS opened 1967 with a 7-2 win over New Mexico on Cougar courts, and went on to trade serves and volleys successfully throughout their California tour this year, bowing only to UCLA, and downing powerful NCAA defending champions USC, 5-4. Success followed when they beat highly-touted Long Beach State and later triumphed over Santa Barbara 7-2. Scheduled to play California, Stanford, and San Jose State, the three meets were rained out when the weather took over. "We wanted to play the three teams in the Bay area to prove to them we play top flight tennis," remarked tennis Coach Wayne Pearce.

One of the WAC's most improved tennis players was BYU's Keith Nielson. In 1967 he has moved into the Number One Singles spot from a fifth position on the 1966 Championship team. "To be a successful tennis player you must be able to play the right shot at the right time or play percentage tennis in order to get the most out of your game," commented Coach Pearce. In four years he has guided the Y racketeers to a WAC Championship and a seventh place in 1965 NCAA finals●

COUGAR BASKETBALL lacked nothing in the way of interest or excitement during the 1966-67 season. The BYU cagers finished better than most experts had figured, surprising forecasters by winning a share of the WAC Championship. Facing a traditionally difficult season schedule, they compiled a 17-10 record. Eight of the teams played against wound up in post season action in either the NCAA or NIT. Playing before nearly a quarter of a million fans this year, BYU was the only WAC team to claim an overall winning record over league opponents. With each team playing 50 Conference games to date against common rivals, the Cougars held a substantial edge with a 33-17 win-loss record.

Five seniors on the squad looked back on some well-earned distinctions for their four years at BYU. As freshmen, Craig Raymond, Gary Hill, Neil Roberts, Jim Jimas, and Ken James were undefeated in 14 games. As sophomores they were on the 20-5 team that won the 1965 WAC title. As juniors they were part of the NIT Championship squad, and this year as seniors they were Co-Champions of the WAC. During these four years they never lost a game to the University of Utah, and compiled an overall 77-25 Varsity record.

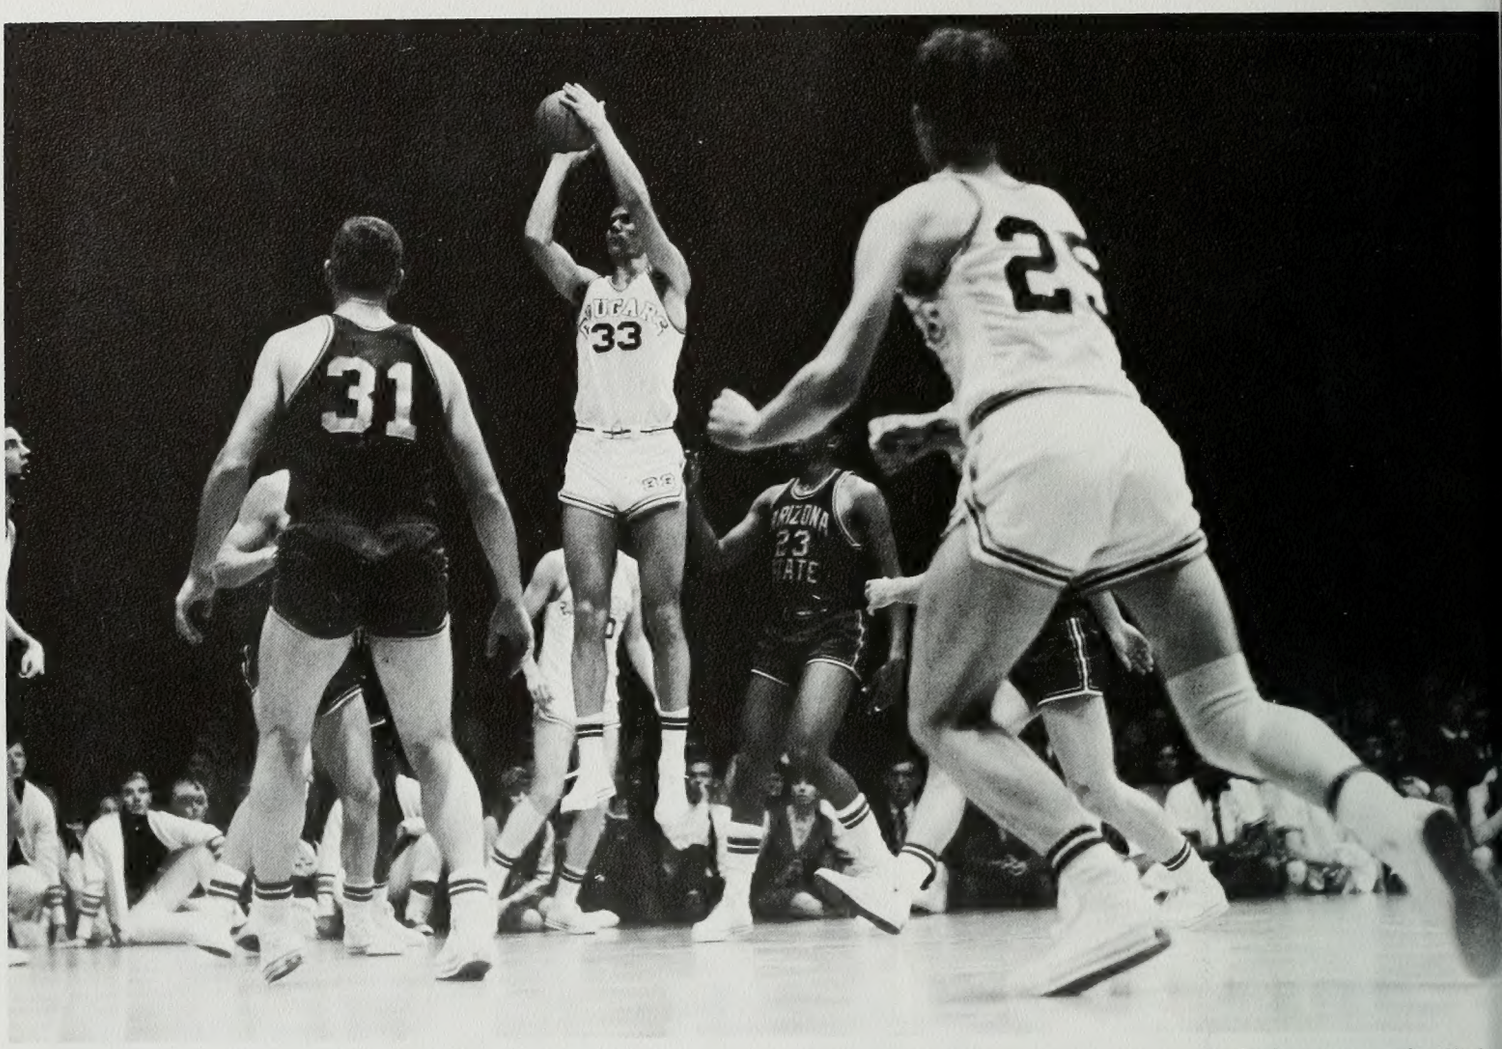
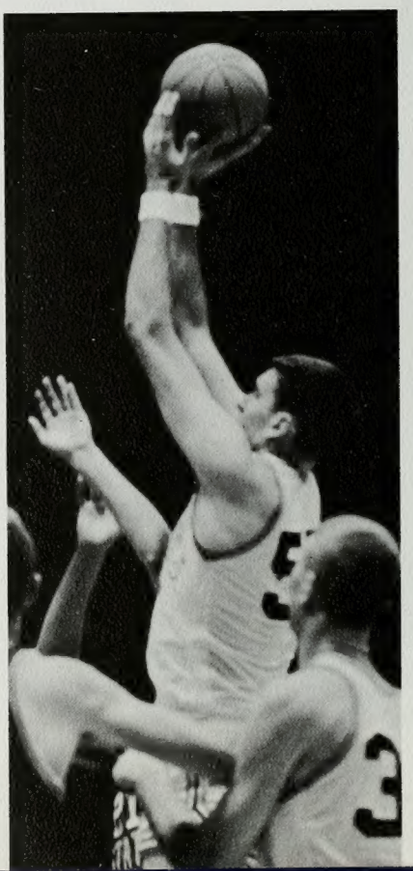
BYU Team Undefeated at Home for Second Season



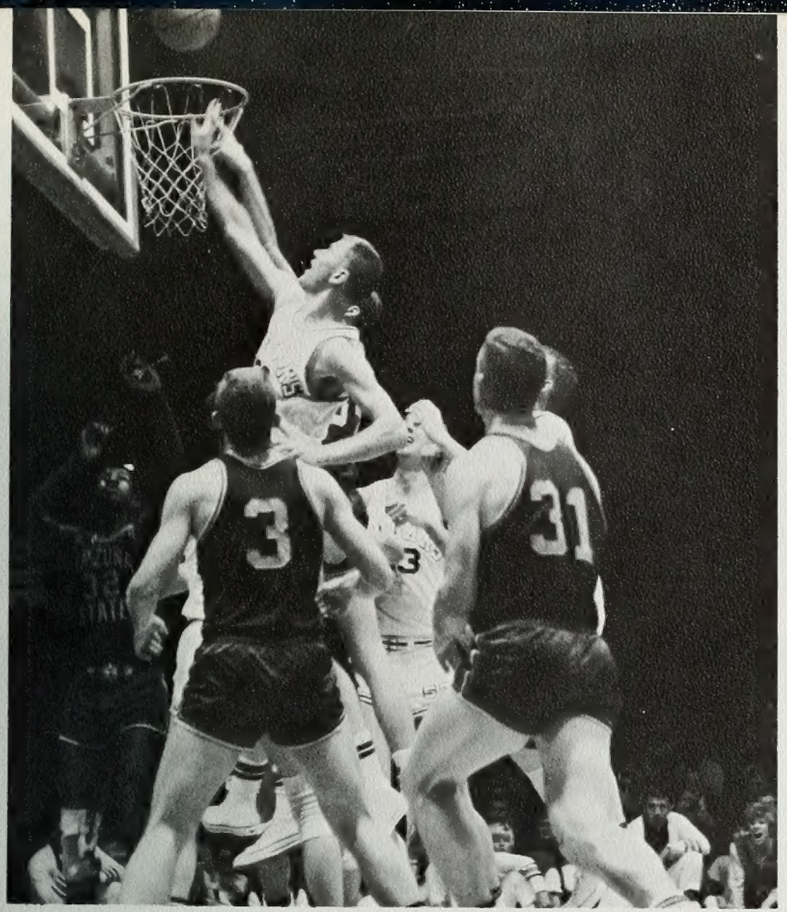
For the second straight season BYU remained undefeated on the home floor with a record of only two losses in a string of 46 home games since 1964. Each Cougar game throughout this year proved to be a complete team effort, leaving fans unable to predict which player would explode for the big points. Eight players were individual high point men on various occasions and seven were tops in rebounds. Senior center Craig Raymond, who was named to the South Team for the annual North-South College All-Star Basketball game in Albuquerque, showed his best career performance in BYU's 92-66 pasting of Utah State. His play bordering on the fantastic, Raymond looked like something borrowed from the pros as he scored 35 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. The Aggies' seven-foot center was no match for him as Raymond, scoring almost at will, made several field goals which proved to be crowd-pleasing stuffers.

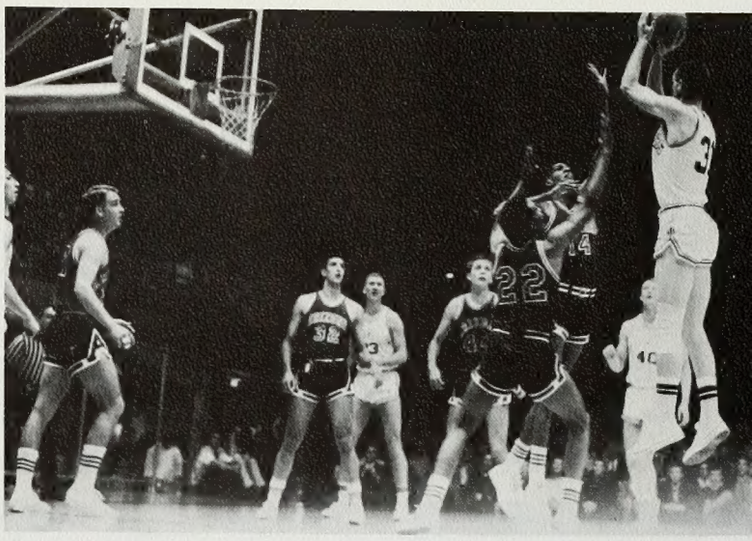
Completing his eighteenth season with the Cougars, Coach Stan Watts had one of the largest teams in the nation with three men at 6-11, one at 6-10, and four at 6-7. The veteran mentor was ably assisted by hard-working Pete Witbeck, an excellent recruiter.



Sophomore regular Kari Liimo (above) demonstrates his superb form. Remaining "cool under fire," he had a 13.6 scoring average.

Craig Raymond uses his height to great advantage over smaller opponents (left). He averaged 14.2 points per game, highest on team.





Record-breaking forward Neil Roberts takes jump shot from outside the key. He set a new field goal percentage of 53.

Liimo's soft touch (left) scores another two points for the offense-minded Cougars. The Finnish import shot a respectable 53 percent from the field.

Cougar Squad Has Best Shooting Record in History

Reluctantly losing last year's famed trio-Jeff Congdon, Dick Nemelka, and Steve Kramer—who made nearly 60 points per game, the BYU cager squad filled the void with returning forwards Gary Hill and Neil Roberts, as well as guards Ken James, Jim Jimas, and Randy Schouten.

Connecting on 49.1 per cent of their shots, the 1966-67 Mountain Cats were the best-shooting team in the University's history. Neil Roberts' 53 per cent shooting average was a new BYU career record, while Jim Eakins set a new school field goal percentage of 55. Craig Raymond led the team in scoring 14.2 points per game and established a record of 183 rebounds in 24 games. Finnish import Kari Liimo led in free throw shooting with an even 80 per cent, and another team record was set with 77 rebounds against St. Mary's.

Cougar basketball was internationally-flavored during the season when they played the Australian and Swedish All-Stars and Japanese Olympic teams. During Stan Watts' 18 seasons, BYU has appeared in every major United States' tournament and taken two trips to South America●

Exerting little effort, Washingtonian Craig Raymond (above) reaches above rim with ball for an easy two points.

Kitten Cagers Are Great As Usual

IN KEEPING WITH the BYU frosh cager scoring tradition, the 1967 Kitten squad was scoring just over 100 points per game. The first contest of the season was an impressive 125-77 victory over Rangely College of Colorado during which the Kitten foul-shooting was nothing short of phenomenal as the yearlings connected 19 of 22 attempts for 86 per cent. The highest point output of the season was their 132-96 win over Utah State Ramblers. Closing out the season in their usual tremendous manner, the young Cats posted two easy victories: 119-57 over Idaho State frosh, and 128-81 over Rangely College for a 12-2 overall record.

Coach Gary Earnest had the most balanced scoring attack that could be hoped for. The calibre of Freshman play was promising with four players averaging in double figures. They were led by forward-center Gary Schenider with a 16.4 average; forward Bob Davis with 16.2; guard Doug Howard with 15.0; and Von Jacobsen, guard with 14.8. Jacobsen showed unusual accuracy from the field as he hit 57 per cent of his field goals attempted and 81 per cent from the free throw line. In Coach Earnest's words: "We feel that as many as six of the players completing their freshman eligibility may be able to make the varsity squad next season."

Lack of Depth Hurts Gymnasts

THE 1967 COUGAR GYMNASTS were hard pressed to improve on the second place WAC finish of the 1966 team. University of Arizona was once again the class of the WAC this year. BYU was hoping to challenge Arizona in the 1967 WAC Championships hosted by the University of Utah; however, because of injuries to star performers and particularly the loss of Dave Waters (called up for basic training) the Y was anything but full strength.

John Morrissey was the top Y performer in competition at Ft. Lewis College in Durango, Calorado, where BYU took every first place except in trampoline. The 158.8-138.2 win was especially significant as the Pumas were without Mike Gordon and Perry Guinn. Guinn qualified for the NCAA finals at Southern Illinois University. In a meet with Utah, the Cat Gymnasts were beaten by a whisker (177.15-177.00) and the Redskins' depth.

Along with the return of Dave Waters, a bright prospect for next year is the recruiting program which appears will bring in some fine talent●

Ski Team is Best Ever

HOPING TO RAISE what is now extra-mural competition to a Varsity intercollegiate level, BYU Skiers with those from the Universities of Utah and Wyoming, Utah State and Weber State, and Westminster (SLC) have worked this year towards unifying in a league. The main opposition in the past arose when main competitive events were scheduled on Sundays; however, most major ski meets next year will be held during the week. In collegiate skiing, the sport was divided into two areas: Alpine events were Slalom, Giant Slalom, and Downhill; Nordic events included Cross-country and Jumping. A team placed well when there was depth and participation in all events.

Cougar Skiers participated in the Oregon Invitational held at Mt. Batchelor near Bend, Oregon, and placed second in the Weber State meet at Snow Basin, and their own BYU Invitation at Timp Haven. Competing on an individual basis, Bob Forster, John West, Gary Andrus and Wayne Miller among others scored numerous points. In the words of team captain Wayne Miller, "Without doubt it's the best ski team in BYU history."

Rugby is Rough

A BONE-CRUNCHING combination of Football's ruggedness, Soccer's fancy footwork, and some "everything goes," played without the protection of padded uniforms—Rugby is rough. Many football coaches realize the value of the game for conditioning players in off-season and this English version of the gridiron game is now an established college sport.

The Y Ruggers, nearly 30 in membership, have been undefeated for the past three years, pouncing to intermountain recognition last year when they beat Washington State 6-3 at Pullman. Coached by Bob May nard and Wally Josephs, they opened the season successfully with two resounding wins (21-0, 20-6) and a broken field run of 30 yards by Ross Turner over Salt Lake City. The speed and superior play of the BYU backs proved to be the difference between the two clubs. Though their winning streak was ended when they tangled with the powerful UCLA and San Diego teams, height and strength won out for the Cougars over a more experienced all-Tongan team from San Mateo●

Booters Improve This Year

"IF WE CAN IMPROVE our teamwork there is no telling how far we can go" was the confident attitude of this year's BYU Soccer team with nine of the eleven starters back from last year's squad. Establishing a 5-2 Fall Season record, the team's most impressive victory was the 3-2 come-from-behind victory over Utah State. With just five minutes to play, the Cougars' Helge Reisted passed to Lynn Jacob who rifled in the winning marker. Coach Muhammad Ashraf was particularly impressed with his new goalie Ray Louredzin, who saved the game with several last-minute grabs. The first game of the Spring season was a 4-2 win over Idaho State University. Made up mostly of foreign students, the BYU Soccer team has yet to face the Air Force Academy and Colorado College●

Golfers Take Top Honors

"PREPARATION AND a sound and sensible method to beat a golf course, along with team effort, is the best approach to a winning golf team." With this philosophy, Coach Karl Tucker's teams have compiled a 43-10-2 match play record and claimed the 1966 WAC title.

With a veteran team, the Cougars opened the season by defeating San Diego State 16-11 and next placed fifth in a 33-team field at the Western Invitational at Santa Cruz. Top honors were taken in the Weber State, Beehive, and Nevada Southern Invitational tournaments and the Alumni-All-Stars match. The Y Golfers placed second in the Tucker Invitational where five out of the six team members finished in the nation's top twenty. BYU's juniors John Miller and Mike Taylor were honorable mention All-American in 1966. Nineteen-year-old Miller earned an invitation to the 1967 Master's Tournament in Augusta, Georgia, after his first place amateur finish in the 1966 U. S. Open. Other outstanding players were seniors Craig and Kean Ridd and John Evans, and sophomore Jack Chapman●

Y Wranglers Roundup Points

IN MEN'S RODEO competition, six BYU wranglers made up a team, competing in 10 rodeos a season and counting the best five of those 10 to determine their regional standing. Each of the six events competed in counted 300 points each for a possible 1800. Three women per team competed in 2 events: barrel racing and goat-tieing. The top two regional teams will compete in national rodeo finals to be held in St. George, Utah. Each individual national winner will be awarded a trophy saddle. Four Y cowboys—ElRay Hendricks, Bert Randall, Kent Shiozawa, and Jerry Myers—were in the Top Ten All-Around where they had the most total points in two or more events.

In roundup competition the Cougars have so far placed second at the University of Montana, and at Boise College. Third place was taken at Montana State and fourth at Dixie College●

Cat Nine Win in California

JUDGED SOMEWHAT stronger this year than last, the Cougar Nine had some excellent pitching to carry them throughout the season. With an overall ERA of 2.50, the Y's talented mounds corps was headed by pitcher Jim Engelhardt whose ERA was 0.88. The senion southpaw hurled three of BYU's five shutouts in compiling a 4-1 record. The Cougars were led offensively by catcher Tom Fife who captured the 1966 WAC batting crown with a .484 average.

Opening the season with a double-header against USC, the Pumas lost both games: the first 2-1 in an 11-inning game and the second 1-0. Following these losses the Cats triumphed over such highly ranked teams as Ohio State (last year's NCAA champions), Yale, Mississippi State, and Washington Universities and UC at Riverside on their way to tie with UCLA for first place in the Riverside tournament. That finish was nothing short of remarkable, considering the fact that the Cougars hadn't played a game prior to the California trip. After gaining well-earned prestige at Riverside, the BYU Baseball team was anxious to answer Hawaii's call when they were chosen as one of two teams invited from the mainland to play in the Hawaiian Invitational Tournament● tedious, exacting training required in preparation.

High jumper Ed Hanks performs in Salt Lake Triangular Meet where he jumped 6-8½.

BYU'S TRACK AND FIELD team outdistanced some pretty fair collegiate competition in 1967. The Y's stiffest contest was against the Forty-Niner Track Club of Long Beach. In an exciting meet under a cloudy sky, the horde of California sprinters edged past the Cougars 82-81. Coached by Clarence Robison, BYU's contingent of quality athletes emerged victorious over University of California (76-68), and Texas Western, then turned back Utah and Arizona State in a triangular meet. Eleven Cougars represented BYU in Detroit for the annual NCAA Indoor finals.

Participating in the Oregon Indoor and San Diego Invitationals were junior college High Jump champion Ed Hanks, and distance runners Bob Richards (NCAA Steeplechase champion) and Tim Danielson. Ranked tenth in the world, freshman sensation Danielson was the outstanding high school distance runner in America. His 3:59.4 mile was bettered only by fabled Jim Ryun. Foreign imports like Finnish freshmen Jaakko Tuominen and Pertti Pousi bolstered the harriers' strength. The national collegiate finals will be hosted by BYU in June when approximately 500 Track and Field standouts from 100 of the nation's top schools will participate.

●"What year are you?" "I'm a '3½'." "What does that mean?" "I'm eight credits from being a Senior." Credits, hours, prerequisites, general requirements, composite this and thats, major and graduation requirements, deficient in this area . . . this is University terminology. Registration goes by the number of credits. It's not quite so embarrassing that way. It saves the explanations about being a professional student, etc. "It's almost time for the bell." Soon they'll stop juggling questions and make for the door (sometimes before the answers are given). Now it's our turn to go consider more ideas, questions, or theories. Some are refreshing. Some are stale. Some are repeats from last semester. Thank goodness there are only 20,000 of us . . . and eventually, all doors have to open outward. Doesn't that fresh air smell wonderful?

Graduates Promote Interest

Graduate Joyce Terrier produces impressionistic play depicting the madness of our modern society as contrasted to the apparent happiness discovered by the main character amidst those called "insane."

AS THEIR PRIMARY objective, Graduate officers encouraged an interplay of ideas among the various disciplines of the Graduate School. President Keith Brown, a Physics major from Alhambra, California, was aided by his Vice-president, Dave Hamilton of Sugar City, Idaho, a Public Administration major; and Secretary Frank Davis, an MBA student from Blackstone, Virginia. Class business meetings were held providing students with the opportunity to hear renowned speakers and allowing an interchange of viewpoints at the social hour following each meeting. Featured lecturers included Dr. James Fletcher, president of the University of Utah; Chairman of the BYU Physics Department, Dr. John Gardner; and Dr. William F. Edwards, well-known financial adviser and lecturer in investments at the University of Utah.

To promote social activities among the single graduate students, the class sponsored a Game Night each semester in the Wilkinson Center. The highlight of the year for Graduate students was the April Dinner-Dance when wives and sweethearts were invited to an evening of dining and dancing in an effort to dim thoughts of theses, long, lonely nights, and typing dissertations—"This is what it will be like after graduation."

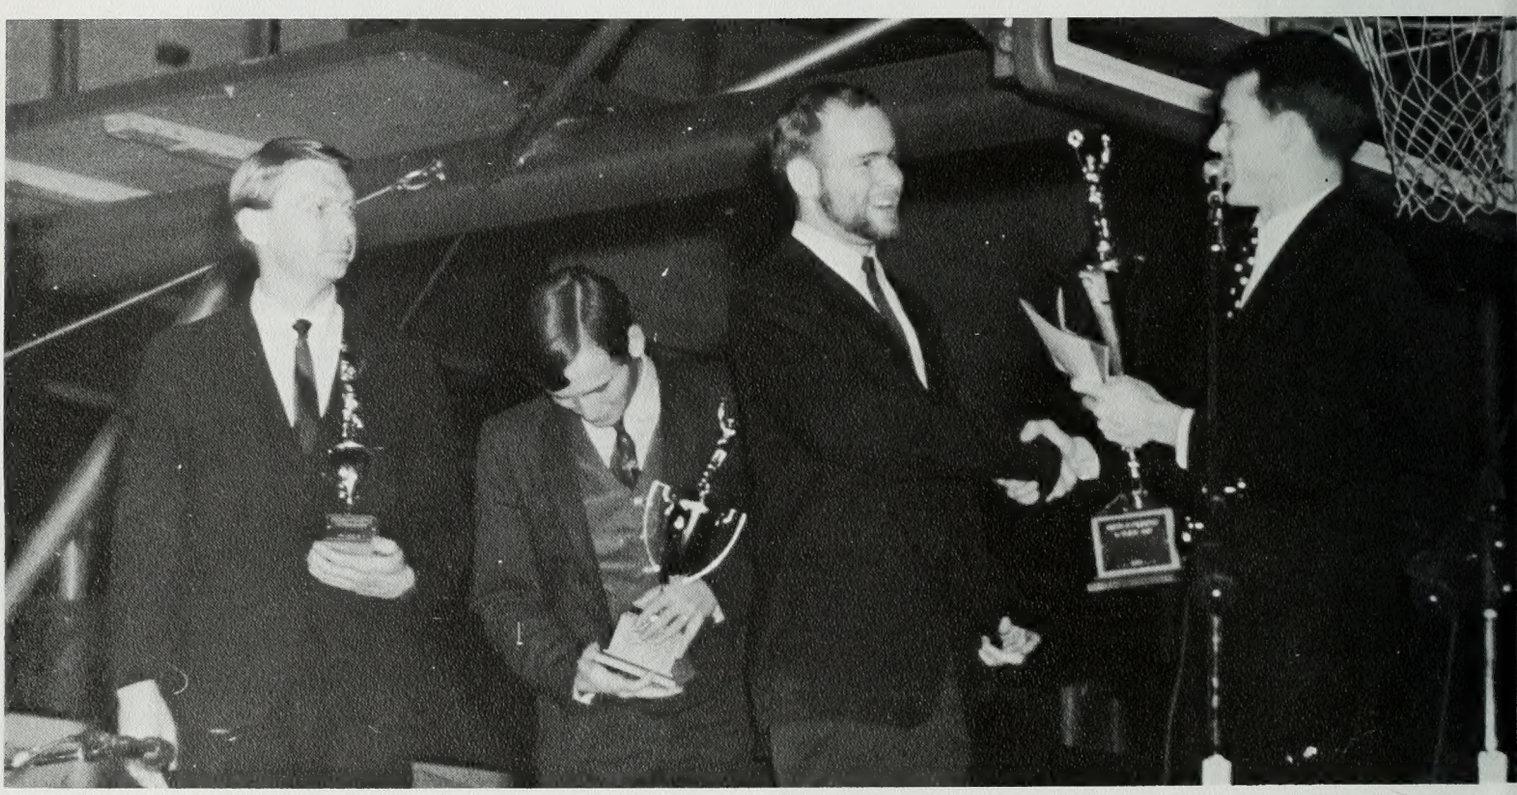
The Only Good Cougar is a Senior

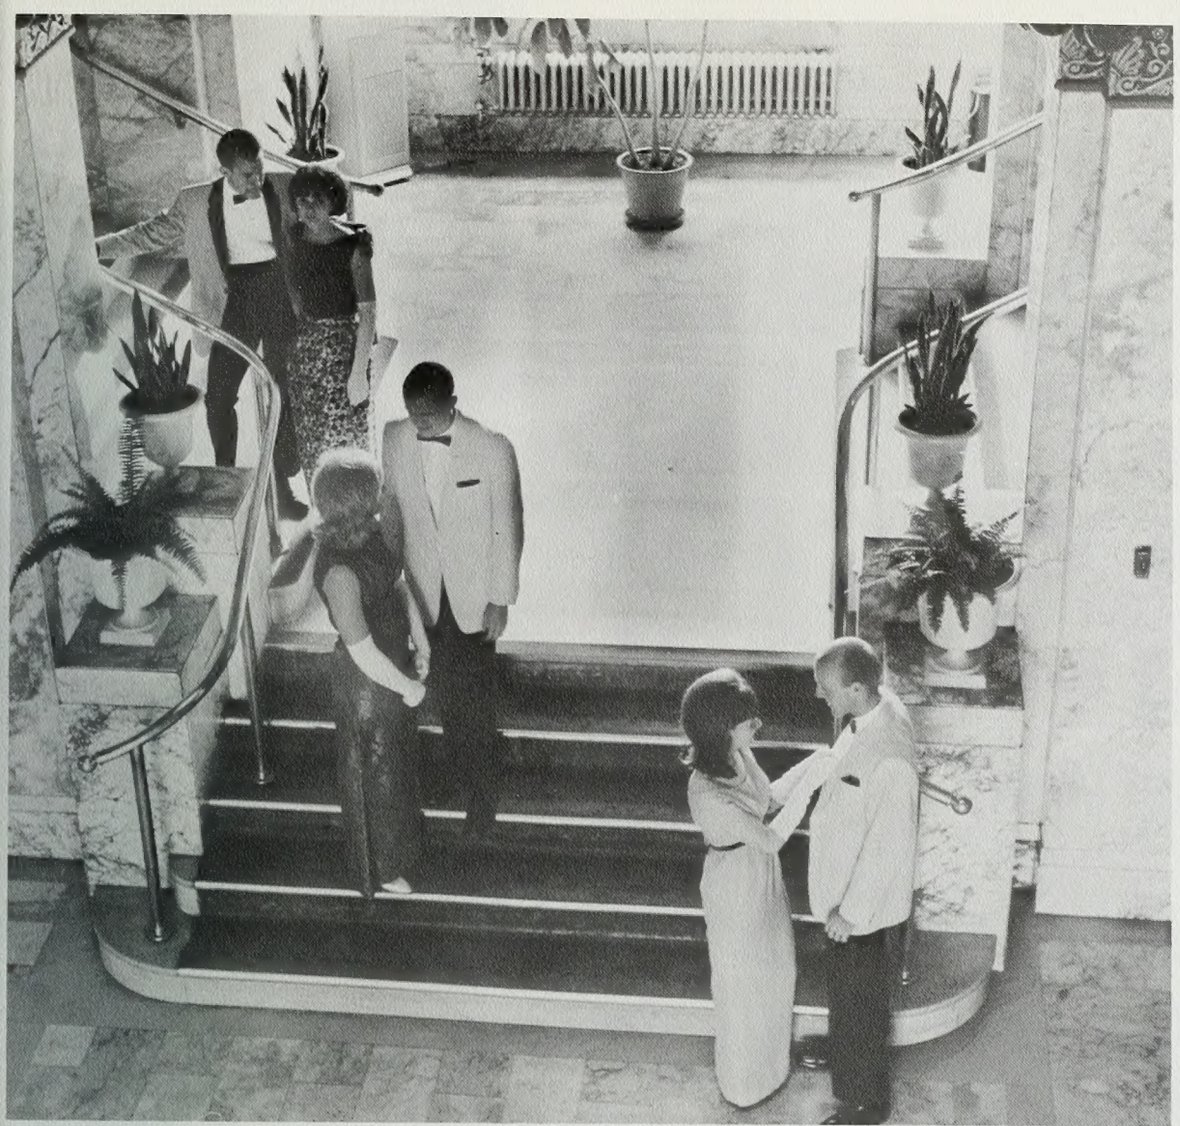
UNDER THE LEADERSHIP of President Dennis Hoagland (who would ski 24 hours a day if possible), the Senior Class proved to be a living example of its philosophy—"The individual for the class and the class for BYU." From Downey, California, Dennis is a Business Management major and was aided in executive responsibility by his Vice-president, J. D. Hancock of Rigby, Idaho. The oldest of a family of nine children, J. D. also served as Speaker of the Senior House of Representatives. "Well-qualified" described Secretary Cherry Anderson who worked for four years as a part time secretary to the Dean of Physical and Engineering Sciences. From Salt Lake City, she valued most highly the association and appreciation gained for people with whom she worked this year.

The Senior Class was awarded first place trophy in Skits-O-Frantic for their lightly spoofing look at BYU life in "Alice in Y-Land." Other activities included Activity Card Stamping the first week of school to promote more class spirit and unity, and their Homecoming float, "It's a Cougar World in All Directions." During Class Competition Week, the Seniors placed second with 3400 points, and also held the Mud Bowl Trophy. Bringing the year to a close were the activities of May 8-12. Senior Week featured a banquet, the Senior Ball, Sunrise Service and then at last . . . Graduation●

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Dennis Hoagland, President; Cherry Anderson, Secretary; J. D. Hancock, Vice-President.



Stephen Nadauld presents First Place trophy to Roy Musick, writer-producer of "Alice in Y-Land," the Seniors' entry in Skits-O-Frantic.



Formally attired couples enjoy Venetian-themed Senior Ball held in the Provo City-County Bldg.

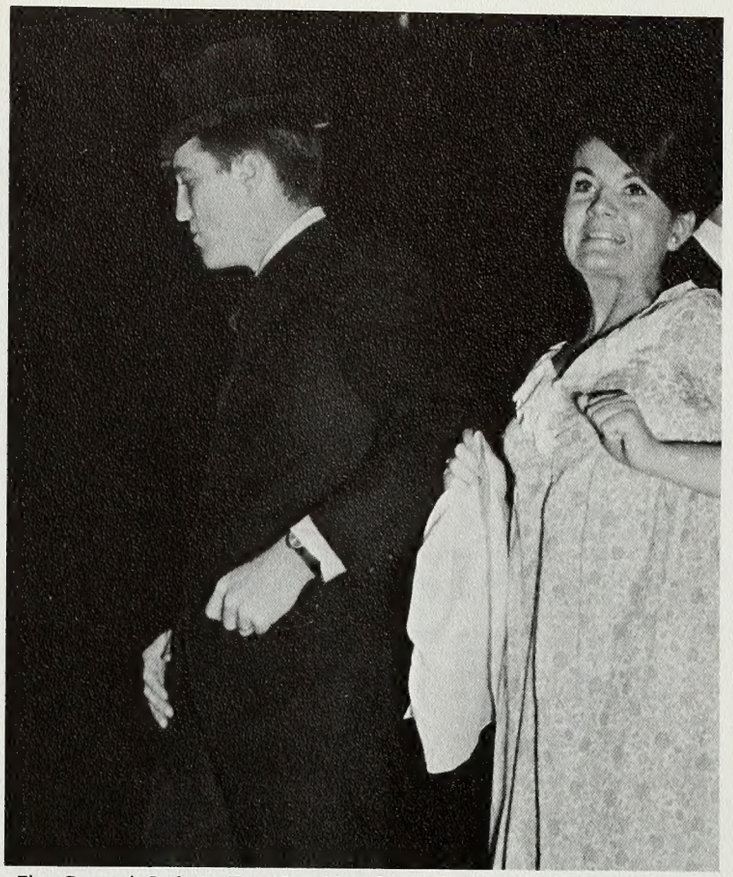
FOR THE "JUNIOR JENERATION" at BYU it was an exciting year of accomplishment. Winning the first place trophy in Class Competition Week with a total of 12,250 points, the Juniors also placed third in Skits-O-Frantic. Their Homecoming float was called "Cosmo, From the Crib to College to Career" and other activities were a fireside featuring Lynn Southam and a newsletter known as the Junior Journal.

"Junior Jenealogy" indicated that President Tom Ferguson claimed Orinda, California, as his home. Tom is striving for an MBA degree after graduation and served a Mexican Mission before returning to BYU to become involved in student government and major in Economics. Vice-president Doug Harrell has never lived in the same place for more than two and a half years. Majoring in Mathematics, he served a mission in Japan. A CDFR major from Salt Lake City, Secretary Mary Brown was in the Hill Cumorah Pageant the summer of 1966.

Perhaps considered BYU's most elegant annual affair and looked forward to more than any other event of the social year is the Junior Prom, this year again a tremendous success and featuring Al Hirt in concert. Junior Class activities not only provided cultural, social, and entertaining events, but also attempted to create a climate in which Juniors developed talents and leadership abilities as well as a loyalty to their class●

Juniors' colorful and original Homecoming float represents the life of Cosmo, or a typical BYU Cougar "From the Crib to Career to College."

President Tom Ferguson and Chairman Stuart Collyer admire First Place trophy awarded to Juniors for Class Competition performance.



The Damsel Dafton (Francine Van Rensselaer) and Duke of Cameron (Dave Sindel) enact "Rumplewilkinson" for Skits-O-Frantic viewers.

Sophomores Share Leadership

"ONCE UPON A TIME" the Sophomore Class successfully sponsored their annual Cotillion featuring Nelson Riddle's Orchestra. Other activities of this active Class included a Homecoming float and Hootenany, Songfest, sponsoring the Mardi Gras, and a fireside with Marion G. Romney. During Competition Week, Sophomores beat the Frosh in the Bonfire Rally for the second consecutive year, and Sophomores captured many honors individually as well.

The newsletter "Soph Talk" told us that McLean, Virginia was the home of President Craig Smith. He served a French mission before coming to the Y as a Political Sociology major. To Class members he said, "We hope that every Sophomore will be willing to meet us half way . . ." The office of Vice-president was held by two this year. First semester veep was Reed Wilcox from San Fernando Valley in California who answered a mid-year mission call. Taking over second semester was George Russ of Flint, Michigan. A Speech Therapy major, he served a mission to Southern California. From Sacramento, Californian Sue Woodward kept the Class office clean as Soph Secretary and listed Advertising and Public Relations as a major.

An exciting effort was made by this Class to embody the concept of local leadership in their student government. Representing 175 fellow Sophomores, each House of Representatives' member sounded out Class members' opinions, encouraged Class participation, and informed of Class activities personally and enthusiastically●

Frosh Have Fantabulous Year

CHARACTERISTICALLY ENTHUSIASTIC, the "Fantabulous Frosh" officers and cabinet succeeded in getting the class of 1970 on the road to accomplishment and high aspirations. On the move with modern ideas, the Freshman governing body had one main goal in mind during its tenure in office—to make every member of the class an active and informed university student.

President Jim Nielson of Delta, Utah, served an Australian mission before coming to BYU to major in pre-law. "Most people take life too seriously," he commented. "They should act as they really are and not try to impress others by covering their real personalities." Filling the office of Vice-President was Jeff Swanson from Skokie, Illinois, a Speech Theapy major who felt his responsibility was a great challenge as well as an opportunity for personal growth. Looking toward a fashion merchandising future was Mary Ellen Hales, a Provo resident who served as Freshman Secretary.

Among varied class activities which included a Homecoming float, Competition Week, and an IBM dance, the Freshmen also picked their own cheerleaders, sponsored Class jewelry—gold cougars emblazoned on block Y's, and published a class letter, "Kitten Tales."

CABINET: Bob Horne, Executive Assistant; Ann Ballantyne, Historian; Steve Studdert, Executive Assistant; Dick Nanto, Business Manager.

Student Nurses Association

WITH NEEDLE IN HAND and hearts of mercy the Student Nurses are at the beginning of the road which will lead through aisles of medicine bottles and rows of hospital beds. Their program was structured to prepare them to be an aid and comfort to the healing profession. A series of First Aid and Disaster Nursing Workshops, Cardiovascular Rescuisitation Workshop, and Economic Security Workshops broadened the experience of the Nurses, but most valuable was the practical experience gained in the hospital environment. The Student Nurses were not all "study." When relaxing, they supported student body activities, sponsored a Student Nurses' Week, Student-Faculty Basketball Game, a College Dance, party at Utah Lake, and a Christmas Fireside. ●

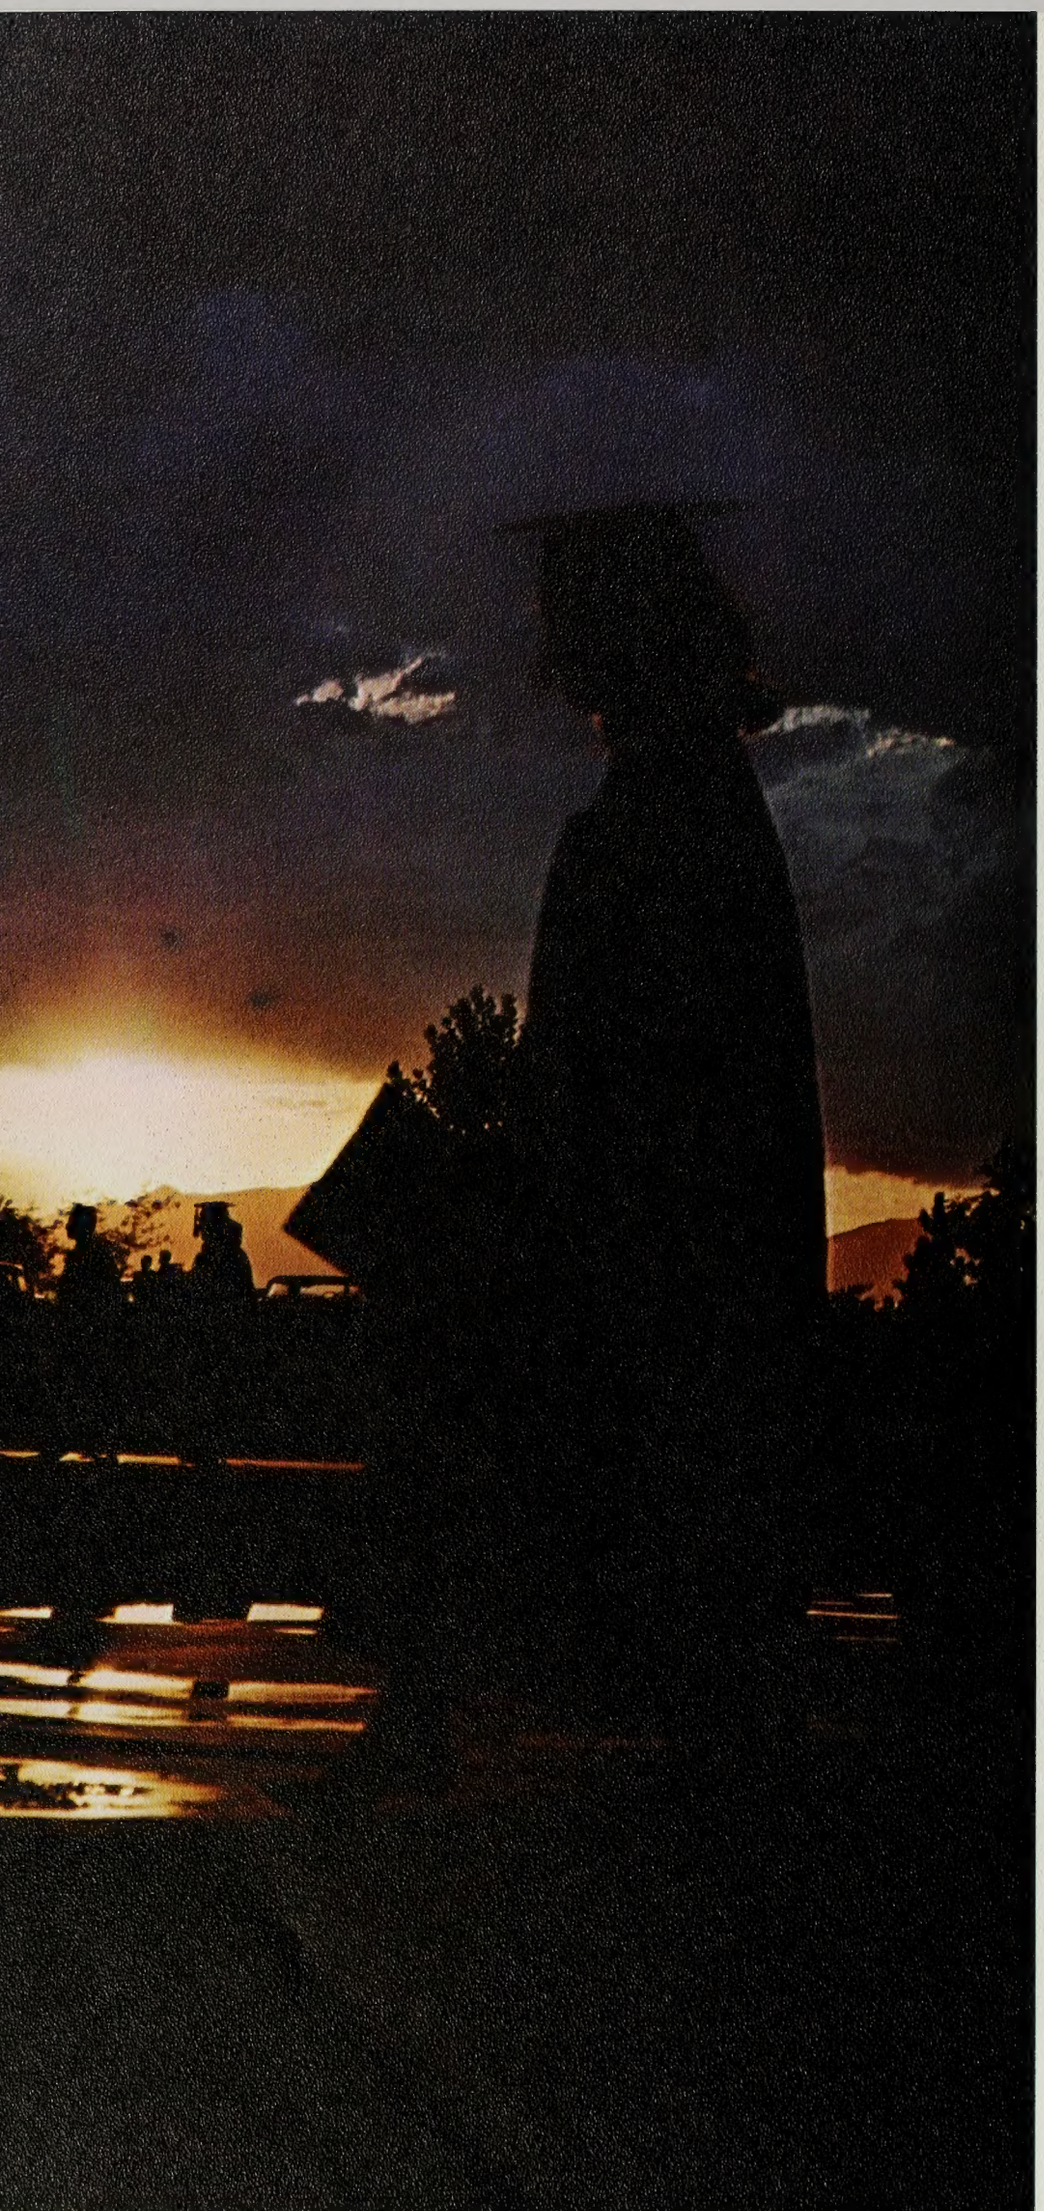
We have experienced... the joy of being needed
the realization of brotherhood

The warmth of a smile... a stirring moment



The sense of achievement... a goal attained

We have learned the world is our campus

now we go forth to serve.

You have enhanced the beauty of our book and we extend our thanks:

To the Bureau of Information on Temple Square in Salt Lake City for the painting which is on our cover.

To the California Institute of Technology and the Carnegie Institution of Washington for use of the copyrighted (1959) galaxy shot on page 5.

To the Deseret News for the group picture of the First Presidency on page 31.

To Grant Heath and The Church Information Service for photographs of the Board of Trustees, President McKay and press passes for General Conference.

To Roberts Engraving and Litho Plate Company for the color separations.

To the Deseret News Press for binding the book.

To Allan W. Ridge and Community Press for making our covers.

To the University News Bureau for press passes and releases.

To Nilan Beardall and his crew of Data Processing for preparing the class cards and index.

To Gary Hopkinson and the International Folk Dancers, Michael Moody, Colleen Allen, and Reed P. Smoot of Travel Study for the color photos of Europe.

To Kenneth Smith for his great color work and the use of his copyrighted (1967) sunset shot on page 6.

To Frank Haymore, Delvar Pope, Dale Howells, Bill Stone, Charles Pope, Reid Pulver, Larry Boehner, Ina Roberts, D. E. Alexander, Bill Butler, Theron Mitchell, Al Peers, "Yoyo" Yokota, Kenneth Dowd, Robert Unversaw, LeRoy Barkdull, Dean Cox, and Doris Jackson of the BYU Press for a job well done.

To Jerry Rogers, Lucile Taylor, Harold K. Monson, Leon Woodward, Ethel Watts, and all the others of the BYU Photo Studio for class and group photographs.

To O. D. Williams and the Photo Staff of the Daily Universe, and to Harold Williams and Loren Moeunch for the use of their photographs.

To Sondra Grisard and Sharon Cope of the Student Publications Business Office for helping with financial affairs, late passes, and paper work.

To Gordon Platt and Ralph Rolley, our nightwatchmen, for nightwatching us during deadlines in the Wilkinson Center.

Dear Reader:

We finished tonight! It was a year of unusual opportunity, but sometimes I felt as if I were presiding over a castastrophe.

If you will take the time to turn to pages 100-103 you will find the BANYAN Staff--a group of people who have put many long hours into creating this yearbook. Together we have tried to do the impossible--write and publish a 512-page book in seven months. I'm sure you realize the job could not be accomplished perfectly and without doubt we have omitted something and someone.

In addition to my staff and those listed on page 479, there is one whom I especially thank and appreciate--my wife, Ann LaRayne. Without her patient help and support it would not have been possible.

524 ELWC became home for me and here I have experienced that which no one except those who have worked on the BANYAN could understand. Only those who have immersed themselves in an all-night effort to complete a deadline could understand the pleasure of contributing something. An editor's appreciation to those who stayed with their jobs "through thick and thin" is a hard thing to put into so many words, but it is felt just the same.

No yearbook is ever completely new. This yearbook too, is similar to the previous BANYANS, but there have been changes. Probably the major changes have been the extensive use of full color, the freshness and creativity of the format and copy, and a new plastic-laminated cover.

I thought it significant that this year's theme should be THE WORLD IS OUR CAMPUS and as a concluding thought, may I express the hope that we never let this campus be the limiting boundaries of our world.

Sincerely,
Conrad H. Thorne
